1 DEAD IN AMBRIDGE BLAST RUINS

Today

Sick, Sicker, Better.
War? No. Ready? Yes.
Giants Unknown.
Shaming Dime Novels.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LAST SATURDAY Wall Street was sick. Yesterday morning it was sicker. Yesterday afternoon it suddenly brightened up and prices rose.

This time it is the turn of Harvard College, through its "Economic Society" to predict "that the period of uncertainty in commodity markets will not be prolonged."

The lambs will pray that this will not be the prelude to another drop.

MANY BROKERS that know enough to gather in commissions without gambling could sing yesterday "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Total sales, 8,270,600 shares, the biggest day since the great wind of 16,000,000 and 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 share days. At the last moment, bears, trapped, lost their money.

That's a small comfort for the little lambs that came home from Wall Street leaving their "bank rolls behind them."

JAMES L. GARVIN, thoughtful Britisher, says:

"Fear is the greatest bar to peace."

Fear causes wars sometimes, perhaps. A white rat will bite if frightened.

But it wasn't fear that sent Napoleon on his way to Russia, or Genghis Khan eastward, or Attila into France.

We have war because we are still animals, savages, barbarians, only 12,000 years from the late Stone Age.

Any country as rich and tempting as this, if it has any intelligence at all, will carefully abstain from war, but KEEP READY FOR IT.

YESTERDAY, on the little island of Elba, off the Italian coast, a small group celebrated the one-hundred-and-ninth anniversary of Napoleon's death at Helena, prisoner of the British.

Elba, Napoleon's first island prison, remembered his death with a solemn high mass, and a distribution of bread to the poor, the money supplied by Prince Demidoss in his will.

The word "enough" did not exist in Napoleon's vocabulary. He intended to use France as a base, as Alexander had used Macedonia. He meant to establish his real empire in Asia, and planned, quite seriously, his own future as a convert to Islam, riding around on an elephant.

It is an excellent thing to have that word ENOUGH conspicuous in your vocabulary.

Some Wall Street mourners know that.

YOU MAY have seen the statue of Lavoisier, behind the big Madeline Church, near the flower market in Paris. France will give his statue a thorough spring cleaning this year, so that his name will be read by tourists to whom his name will mean nothing.

He was one of the world's greatest physicists and chemists, an able astronomer, and a really great philosopher.

The French Revolution chopped off his head, because he was faithful to his King Louis Sixteenth. The French Republic honors him, and so it goes.

Great men that have built up science, civilization and human knowledge are as little known as the great trees that dropped in the forests ages ago.

THERE IS a great deal of action in modern killings, now so frequent that it is hardly worth while writing about them. Near Chicago, Chief Mitchell, of the La Grange police, sitting with two other policemen in a lonely spot, was wondering why a machine ahead stopped by the road and put out its lights.

Investigating, he saw a man, hands and feet tied, sitting against a tree, begging:

The reply was:

"I'll break your head."

And one of the gang struck the victim over the head with a pistol butt.

There was a rope around the man's neck, thrown over the limb of a tree. It was to be a hanging.

THREE POLICEMEN, with three flashlights, yelled:

"Put your hands up!"

And, having the drop, they were obeyed.

Two of the intended murderers had been in jail and were paroled. There is a little too much paroling.

The victim, Holmes, a woodcarver, had met a woman belonging to one of the gang, wanted to marry her and "make an honest woman of her."

The gang decided to make corpses of both.

IF YOU SAW that in a dime novel, you'd say:

"Impossible, nonsense."

POLICE JURY TAMPERING CHARGED

Judge Directs County Quiz After Women Say Officers Pleaded for Mrs. Faulkner

An attempt to tamper with the jury trying a damage suit against Mrs. Laura Faulkner, wife of Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, was charged in Common Pleas Court today before Judge Frank Patterson.

Two women jurors informed him that they had been called upon by a city policeman in uniform and a plainclothes man, Judge Patterson said. He said that one of the women jurors was asked "to be lenient," because Mrs. Faulkner "was a poor woman."

Following the charges, Judge Patterson conferred with District Attorney Andrew T. Park. The district attorney announced that he was going to turn the investigation over to an assistant and "put the best detectives on the county force" on the case.

The suit against Mrs. Faulkner was filed by William Leether, of Melrose avenue, who charged that he was run down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Faulkner on February 29, 1928. The suit had asked $20,000 damages but at a conference between Leether's attorneys and lawyers representing a casualty company which insured the Faulkner car, it was agreed in the courtroom today to compromise on $6,000.

Inspector Faulkner was surprised when he learned of the jury tampering charges. He said that he was not interested in the case inasmuch as it was up to the insurance company to pay the damages. He declared:

"Why should I worry? It's not my funeral."

U. S. TO RAID HOME BREW SUPPLIES

Big Dealers First on List As Doran Opens Drive to Continue 'On Down Line'

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—The government moved today to suppress all sale of paraphernalia for liquor manufacture.

The drive is being undertaken under the Supreme Court decision yesterday that distribution of such equipment was illegal under the Volstead Law.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced the step, saying the action of the Supreme Court in upholding the seizure of bottles, casks and corks in Pittsburgh, on the ground that they had been displayed to attract purchasers who intended to use them in manufacture of illicit liquor, gave the bureau an effective weapon to proceed against every large concern producing such articles.

AFTER BIG DEALERS

After the big dealers are "wiped out," Doran said the bureau would "go down the line." He declared further:

"Our first job is to proceed against the big supply houses of paraphernalia for commercial home brew and for aging moonshine liquor.

"We will proceed against every person and concern where the conditions are similar to the Pittsburgh case which was upheld by the Supreme Court yesterday."

Fire Adds to Damage; Inquiry Launched to Determine If Gas or Bomb Is Cause

One man was killed in two explosions and a fire that wrecked a building and damaged two others at Merchant and Thirteenth streets, Ambridge, at 3:30 a. m. today.

The body was discovered several hours after the first blast. It was identified as that of Joe Musilino, 40, of Merchant street, Ambridge.

Fire Chief A. G. Fisher and police launched an investigation to determine whether the explosions were caused by a bomb or by leaking gas.

Motorcycle Officer William Rittleman, who aided in searching the ruins, helped remove the body from the wreckage.

SLEEPERS IN TERROR

The explosion rocked the entire district within a radius of half a mile. Residents were jarred from their beds, and 65 persons in the buildings damaged by the blasts and fire fled to the streets in terror.

The first explosion occurred in a building facing in Merchant street at Thirteenth street, originally built by the old Economites. It was occupied on the first floor by the Economy fruit store and the shoe repair shop of Peter Ambrosia.

SHOWER OF FRUIT

The force of the blasts tore out the front of the fruit store and hurled fruit and vegetables across Merchant street through second-

DANCER FREED ON PROBATION

NEW YORK, May 6.—(INS.)—Olga Eide Edwards, California dancing girl, went free today.

Convicted of attempted extortion on charges made by Nathan Leo Amster, traction millionaire, the dark-eyed dancer was placed on probation for five years by Judge Rosalsky, of General Sessions Court, noted for his stiff sentences.

She thereby escaped a potential penalty of seven years in the penitentiary.

Before suspending sentence the judge made Olga promise that she would not exploit her conviction nor "annoy, worry or vex" Amster.

She asked whether she could go to Europe, and the judge said he would take that up with the probationary department. He admonished the girl to "change her ways."

Amster was called to the witness box during the judicial ceremony of mercy. Miss Edwards charged the traction magnate with being the father of her six-year-old son, Lee.

Grand Canyon Cause Of Dodge Divorce

LOS ANGELES, May 6.—(AP.)—The Grand Canyon has come between Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Dodge.

"During the four years of our married life preceding his visit to Arizona," Mrs. Dodge told the court here yesterday, "my husband, who is a photographer, said I was his inspiration and showed me great affection. After viewing the Grand Canyon, he said it was much more inspiring and left me."

The court granted her a divorce.

Winters Near Death After Relapse

City Controller Daniel Winters, was believed near death, late today in the Cunningham sanitarium, Cleveland, where he has been critically ill for six weeks.

Reports by telephone were that his lungs were becoming congested, his breathing labored and that he was barely able to recognize his son, Bert at his bedside.

A relapse set intoday, it was said, after a marked improvement in his condition yesterday.

Dr. J. P. Kerr, intimate friend of the former council president, was at his bedside today for a short time. He said:

"Controller Winters is making a game but losing fight. It is only a question of how long he can hold out."

Del Rio to Unveil Valentino Statue

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 6.—(INS.)—Dolores Del Rio, motion picture star, today will unveil the bronze memorial statue of Rudolph Valentino at a ceremony in Longpre Park here.

Many motion picture notables will be present at the unveiling ceremony.

CLERGY FAVORS BLUE LAW POLL

Leading clergymen of Pittsburgh indorse the Sun-Telegraph's blue law poll of registered voters of the city, now extended to all wards with 30,000 ballots distributed in less than a week since the canvass was inaugurated.

The Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, giving his indorsement to the poll, said:

"I think it is a good thing to know what the popular mind is on the subject. Any attempt to ascertain the consensus of opinion by referendum is of advantage to a community or a state, because it indicates the

$1,482,754 Viaduct Contract Awarded

Award of the contract for the 1,700-foot George Westinghouse viaduct along Lincoln highway at Turtle Creek was made today to Booth & Flinn, Ltd., on a bid of $1,482,754.50.

Construction work will begin immediately, the contractors already having the heavy construction machinery on the ground. The contract was awarded on the lowest bid.

GOOD NEWS OF GOOD TIMES!

PROSPERITY IS RETURNING! Selected at random, the following summary of a few high spots in today's Sun-Telegraph, emphasizes the trend of business in America:

1—Inland Steel Company earnings satisfactory for first quarter; large railroad demand keeps output of heavy steel steady. Page 39, Column 1.

2—Farm machinery industry in prosperous condition. Page 3, Column 1.

3—Camden, N. J., shipyard to add 6,000 to force filling orders totaling $60,000,000. Page 39, Column 7.

PINCHOT BARES SCHOOL LOBBY

Big guns roared a heavy bombardment in attack and counter-attack along all fronts today in the Pennsylvania Republican primary warfare.

1.—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot charged the State Public Service Commission altered school text-books in furthering the cause of the power lobby.

2.—Former Senator George Wharton Pepper, defeated Wm. S. Vare, announced support for the Davis-Brown ticket.

3.—Mayor Kline and Commissioner Armstrong held the threat of payroll reprisals over city and county employes deserting Davis and Brown.

4.—Anti-dry ticket leaders denounced Vare for supporting Davis and Brown and denied being "plants" of Senator Grundy.

INDIANA, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—Asserting that records of the Federal Trade Commission showed that members of the Public Service Commission assisted in the spread of propaganda by public utility "monopolists" last year, Gifford Pinchot, independent candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, today said that members of the Public Service Commission "should be held to account."

Speaking in the home town of Gov. Fisher, Pinchot attacked the Public Service Commission with

Doug to Compete With Golf Stars

LONDON, May 6.—(INS.)—Douglas Fairbanks today laid plans to capture honors in the field of golf against some of the crack players of the United States and England. The movie star posted his entry for the St. George's vase 36-hold amateur stroke competition at Sandwich on Saturday.

All members of the British and American Walker cup teams, except Bobby Jones, Johnston and Roland MacKenzie, are entered for the event.

Stocks Rise After Rout Of Bears

NEW YORK, May 6.—(INS.)—Most of the industrial stocks and specialties which were hard hit in the speculative storms of the last few days rallied behind a backlog of excellent buying demand today.

The market was called upon in the first two hours to absorb a considerable amount of stock purchased by professionals at the bottom of yesterday's late dip, but short covering offset a good portion of the selling coming from this quarter.

The public utility stocks led the way to higher prices, ably supported by the best grade of amusement, tobacco, steel and electrical manufacturing stocks.

The view was generally taken that the Bears had been given a severe beating and were not likely to attempt another "raid" on the market for some time to come. Continued ease in the money market helped in the process of recovery and confidence was restored by the better outlook in important sections of domestic business.

Stock Sales to the noon period totalled less than 2,000,000 shares, and the tape was within hailing distance of the market most of the day.

PIRATES, GIANTS FIGHT FOR LEAD

The fight for first place in the National League, featuring the Pirates and Giants, will be resumed this afternoon. The men of McGraw downed the Buccos, 9 to 1, in the first clash of the teams yesterday. The New Yorkers displaced the Pirates and went into first place.

Southpaw Bill Walker connected for a cleanup homer on one of the offerings served him by Larry French, Pirate lefthander.

Remy Kremer will twirl for the Pirates this afternoon. He will be opposed by Carl Hubbell or Herb Pruett, both of whom are southpaws.

Irene Castle Urges $60,000 Dog Pound

CHICAGO, May 6.—(INS.)—Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, former ballroom dancer, and fellow directors of the Anti-Cruelty Society, today requested the city council to authorize construction of a new $60,000 dog pound.

The society's directors have voted to contribute $10,000, which is to be added to the $22,000 city fund for the proposed building.

Customs Inspectors To Get Data Abroad

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—The Treasury today ordered seven customs inspectors to travel to Europe on the large liners sailing this month to gather information to simplify declarations made by passengers on their return from abroad.

BULLETS DROP 2 ROBBING BANK

DAYTON, O., May 6.—(AP.)—Two of a trio of bank robbers were wounded, probably fatally, today by two police guards during an attempted robbery of the Xenia Avenue branch of the Union Trust Company here.

A third bandit was wounded and a small girl passerby was shot by a stray bullet.

Police said one of the critically wounded men is James Royal, 31, of St. Louis, Mo.

The third bandit escaped after the shooting. Police said he had been hit.

The stray bullet struck Eleanor Petz, 10.

Two other bandits who were stationed outside the bank escaped but police believe they were wounded.

WINTHROP, Minn., May 6.—(AP.)—Two men stolen between $8,000 and $9,000 in cash and government bonds from the State Bank of Winthrop today in the second bank holdup in Minnesota in 19 hours.

Three men yesterday held up the State Bank of Bixby and escaped with $2,500.

Officers believe the robberies were committed by different bands.

Clara Bow Sought For Ziegfeld Show

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—Flo Ziegfeld is trying to glorify Clara Bow. He is seeking her release from the films in order to sign her up for a stage revue.

Calliope's Toot-Tooting Amputated by Police

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, a lover of good music, today ordered a funeral dirge played over the ragtime pipes of the Academy Theater's burlesque-advertising calliope.

Director Clark ordered his police, many of whom also love good music, to arrest the driver should he venture into the streets again with his music-box-on-wheels.

The driver, Robert Swain, has been arrested twice in a few days. Both times the police magistrate discharged him because, it seems, there was some doubt that the city was anti-calliope.

This doubt was dispelled today. Mayor Kline 15 months ago signed an ordinance silencing the vehicular instrument. It is true the Academy's calliope is operated electrically, and that the dictionary says a calliope, technically, is steam-operated, but City Solicitor Charles E. Waldschmidt says a calliope is a calliope, steam or no.

100 WOUNDED AS GANDHI RIOTS SPREAD IN INDIA

POLICE SLAY 2 IN DELHI CLASH

Leader Calmly Spins in Cell As Bloodshed Increases; Mobs Try to Halt Trains

POONA, India, May 6.—(AP.)—Wide-spread disorder, with two persons killed and up to 100 wounded, is the answer of Mahatma Gandhi's followers to the British government's arrest of "the holy one."

While the veteran Nationalist leader sat in the window of his cell in Yeroda Prison calmly spinning cotton on his miniature charka, trouble occurred in many parts of the peninsula.

At Delhi police fired on rioters and killed two.

15 HURT IN CLASH

At Calcutta 15 nationalists were injured in a clash with the police when they attempted to interrupt railway service between Calcutta and Tekal Chat. A mob estimated at 5,000 took part in the disturbance, many of them lying on the tracks to hold up trains.

Half of the textile mills in Bombay, which has two-thirds of the spindles in all India, closed as the result of a workless day proclaimed because of the arrest of the Mahatma.

A sympathy strike at Jullundhur resulted in the injury of at least 30 persons who fought with the police. Two of them were reported in serious condition.

WOMEN PICKETS BEATEN

Delhi police dispersed women, who were picketing, with their sticks.

Reports of minor disorder came from all parts of India, ranging from stoppage of work to closing of shops.

The government is not hiding its concern over the possibility of dangerous results should anything happen to Gandhi. A commission of three high medical officers of the British army has been appointed to guard his health, and a special allowance has been provided for his food and comfort.

MAGISTRATE ATTACKED

CALCUTTA, May 6.—(AP.)—The district magistrate and the police superintendent of Howrah were attacked by a mob this afternoon as they were driving alone in their car. Both were armed, however, and dispersed the rioters by threatening them with revolvers.

QUAKE IN INDIA KILLS 1,000

RANGOON, Burma, May 6.—(AP.)—The Exchange Telegraph agency said today the entire town of Pegu had been wiped out by an earthquake and subsequent tidal wave, with the number of dead estimated at 1,000.

The town presents a desolate picture, with public buildings and homes destroyed. Practically the entire population is homeless.

All of Burma province was shaken.

HURT IN TAXI, $150,000 ASKED

Loss of his right eye while riding in a Yellow Cab which was stoned in Liberty avenue February 12, was the basis of a suit for $150,000 filed today by Fred Schinman, 30, of Cleveland, O., through attorney W. L. Dipple, against the Yellow Cab Company.

Schinman alleged that he was proceeding from the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad station in a Yellow Cab, and that when the cab reached the Aldine theater, a stone was hurled through a window, striking him in the eye.

The driver and a policeman took him to the Mercy hospital, after finding him unconscious on the floor of the taxi, he further alleges.

HOME BREWERS FACE SEIZURES

Lowman said the bureau had frequently sought to bring into the courts persons who sell beer-making devices and malt products to which yeast may be added to produce intoxicants, but that such cases have been thrown out by the courts repeatedly. He said:

"There are establishments which sell every article and product necessary for the manufacture of home brew. All the maker needs to do is to follow directions. So far we have been unable to stop that sort of thing, but the decision may be the vehicle that will enable us to do so.

AIM AT EXTRACTS

"We also have been unable to stop the sale of a long list of extracts to which alcohol may be added to make intoxicating liquor. It may be that under today's decision we will be able to seize such extracts and stop that sort of violation."

The Supreme Court's decision, rendered yesterday in a test case, is interpreted as including in its scope barrels, bottles, corks and all articles of use in manufacturing liquor, with the stipulation that to be subject to seizure they must have been put on sale in a manner that would attract a prospective violator of the law.

The case resulted from the seizure of such articles from Ike Danowitz, of Pittsburgh, the surviving partner of the Feitler Bottle Company.

PENNINGTON WAITS WORD

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, of Pittsburgh, said today:

"I have not received notice of any special drive. I have no plans in this connection. However, I will start proceedings to collect $3,000 storage charges in the Danovitz case."

Ike Danovitz, when he appealed to the higher courts, posted bond as promise to pay the storage of the barrels and other articles seized in the warehouse of the Feitler Bottle Company in Watson street. This was the case on which the Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

LIGHTNING HITS PHONE WIRES

Occupants of the residence of Julius Anisman, 1101 Vickroy street, North Side, were stunned when lightning struck the telephone wire leading into the house during the storm this morning. Mrs. Sophy Anisman was preparing breakfast when the bolt struck. The damage was confined to the telephone apparatus.

Stove Poker Attack On In-Law Admitted

Mrs. Katherine Pallotto, 55, of Adon street, admitted in Morals Court today that she had hit her son-in-law, Dominick Chickeni, 37, of Dickens street, on the head with a poker—but she contended she struck in self-defense. Dominick attacked her when she inquired why he had beaten his wife, the mother-in-law explained. Mrs. Pallotto and Chickeni each were fined $5.

MADRID RIOTS SUPPRESSED

MADRID, May 6.—(INS.)—Peace apparently had been temporarily restored on the campus of the University of Madrid today, where rioting resulted in the death of three students and the wounding of 30 at an anti-royalist demonstration last night.

The cabinet held a long session last night and issued a note regretting the student clashes, and promising stern repression of further disorders.

Miguel de Unamuno, Republican leader and the storm center of the present demonstrations, announced today he would defy any attempt on the part of the government to force him to leave Madrid.

Boy Burned Month Ago, Dies in Hospital

Four-year-old Kasimere Kurzyloc, of 519 Delaware avenue, Glassport, died last night in the McKeesport Hospital from burns suffered a month ago when he fell into a tub of hot water in his home, according to a morgue report.

Gets 2 Years in Dry Law Violation

Michael Panich, of Jenny Lind street, McKeesport, was fined $200 and placed on probation for two years by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, for violating the prohibition law. He pleaded guilty in May, 1929, but was not called for sentence at that time.

'OFFER' TO DILL DENIED IN ROW OVER PARKER

Move Made to Halt Debate Pending Investigation of Charges of Vote Jobbery

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—After a tense passage of charges and denials between Senators Ashurst, of Arizona, and Dill, of Washington, administration leaders moved today to suspend consideration of the nomination of John J. Parker for the United States Supreme Court.

Majority Leader Watson asked that the nomination be laid aside while the Senate investigated Ashurst's statement that Dill had told him of an offer of a Federal judgeship said to have been made to Dill himself by persons unnamed, in return to a vote for Parker.

IN OPEN SENATE

Ashurst made his statement in the open Senate, and Dill immediately replied he had told Ashurst no such thing.

The Arizonian said Senator Bratton of New Mexico also had heard Dill say it.

Then Watson moved the senate investigate. Ashurst replied that all the evidence he had, already was before the Senate.

Further explaining, Dill said a "personal friend" had come to him to plead that he vote for Parker. He did not make the suggestion seriously, he said, and the friend did not represent himself as having any assurance from the White House.

"I think the whole thing is ridiculous," said Dill.

REFUSES FRIEND'S NAME

Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, asked Dill to name the friend, but he declined.

"He is a Republican and just thinks that everything Republican should be approved whether it is good, bad or indifferent," said Dill.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, opposed an investigation, saying it would be "fruitless and frivolous in view of what has transpired here on the floor."

Also opposing an inquiry Senator Norris said it would disclose little new.

WITNESSES HIT MURDER ALIBI

A parade of witnesses took the stand in Criminal Court today against Ulysses Pidgeon, 30, Negro, of 10 Jacks' Run Road, on trial for murder, and gave damaging testimony as to his whereabouts the day of the crime.

Pidgeon is charged with the murder of Emmett Curtis, 27, Negro, of 7343 Idlewild street, shot to death December 23 last, in front of 1437 Hanlon street, North Side, as the result of an alleged clearing house lottery feud.

Besides Pidgeon five other Negroes have been indicted for the murder. They will be given separate trials. The case is being heard before Visiting Judge M. Ward Fleming, of Centre county.

REED DUE HOME; BUSY SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—Senator David A. Reed, who, his office announced, will reach New York tonight from London, will face a heavy schedule of public business in Washington tomorrow.

As a delegate to the London naval conference, he will join his colleague Senator Robinson, in advocating Senate acceptance of the treaty which was written in London.

Friends and opponents of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, whose nomination to the Supreme Court bench has precipitated an extended debate, planned to discuss with Senator Reed the aspects of the case with the hope of winning his support.

The tarrif bill conference report, which the House passed Saturday and sent to the Senate, is certain to be read and studied by Reed.

Friends of the Senator have asserted that he will not take an active part in the Republican primary campaign now in full swing in his native state. They forecast he will remain neutral.

One important patronage problem facing Senator Reed will be filling the vacancy in the Pittsburgh Postoffice resulting in the retirement of Postmaster George W. Gosser.

kind of laws which can be enforced when enacted."

10,000 BALLOTS MAILED

The canvass is attaining full speed and the total of postcard ballots mailed daily is nearly 10,000. The number of votes cast in the poll spurted over the week-end and returns are now reaching headquarters in substantial volume.

The distribution of ballots into thousands of Pittsburgh homes has provoked a general discussion of the subject of Sunday observance throughout the city, according to reports. Many views pro and con on the Blue Laws have been forwarded by persons possessing a positive attitude on the subject.

INSTRUCTIONS OVERLOOKED

The returns show that in some instances voters failed to observe the rule that one question only must be marked with a cross. Three questions are presented to voters for their opinions, the questions of continuance, modification or repeal of the Blue Laws. Some voters have marked crosses after modification and repeal, thus invalidating their ballots.

Some voters apparently considered it necessary to sign their names to ballots, or failed to detach the forwarding card bearing the name and address.

The poll is entirely secret and voters receiving cards should merely mark one cross opposite one of the three questions, detach the return card and deposit it in the mail.

$175,000 Cambria County Suit Opens

The suit of James R. Gordon, architect, to recover $175,000 fees from the County of Cambria opened in Federal Court today. Gordon, on the stand, told of being retained in 1914 to supply plans for a new court house at Ebensburg, Pa., and of the erection being temporarily halted by a later board of county commissioners.

CENSUS GAIN SHOWN BY 22 WARDS

Increase in Population In Excess of 6 Per Cent; Suburbs Grow Rapidly

Twenty-two wards of the city of Pittsburgh from which practically complete census returns have been received show an increase in population of slightly more than 6 per cent, according to figures compiled today by the local suupervisors for Allegheny County.

The wards returned are all those between the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers from the First to Fifteenth, inclusive, and the Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first and Thirty-second Wards, south of the Monongahela. It is believed that the wards yet to be heard from will show about the same average of increase. These are the Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth on the South Side, and the Twenty-first to Twenty-seventh, inclusive, on the North Side.

Additional returns from the suburban districts today disclosed the continued trend of the county's population southward. Brentwood Borough has 5,381 against 1,695 in 1920. Mifflin Township has 3,064. This number is 3,000 less than the population in 1920, but in the meantime populous sections of the township have been annexed to the city and Munhall Borough. The latter has grown rapidly. East Deer Township has increased to 3,928 from 3,506 in 1920.

Washington, Greene Show 12 Per Cent Gain

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—The first two Pennsylvania counties for which complete preliminary 1930 census returns were announced, today revealed an average increase of nearly 12 per cent in population during the last 10 years.

H. R. Campbell, supervisor of census for the Twenty-fifth Congressional District, announced the following totals:

Washington County—Present population, 204,356 as compared with 188,992 in 1920. This is an increase of 15,354 or 8.12 per cent.

Greene County—Present population, 41,760 as compared with 30,805 in 192, an increase of 10,956, or 35.55 per cent.

The two counties comprising the district increase from 219,796 10 years ago, to a present population of 246,116, the increase of 26,320 being 11.97 per cent.

Greene County's gain of 35.55 per cent for the last decade contrasted with its 1910-1920 increase of 6.62 per cent. Its 1910 population was 28,882.

The four cities of more than 10,000 population (all in Washington County) showed the following gains and losses:

Washington—Present population, 24,447, an increase of 2,967 or 13.8 per cent.

Canonsburg—Present population 12,543, an increase of 1,911 or 17.97 per cent.

Charleroi—Present population 11,257, a decrease of 259 or 2.24 per cent.

Donora—Present population 13,884, a decrease of 247 or 1.74 per cent.

West Virginia Town Takes Lead in Census Gains

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—The honor of having the largest percentage of increase in population in the last 10 years has shifted from an Ohio to a Virginia town. Michigan took the honors in 1920.

Announcement of the population of Hopewell, Va., the town which sprung up during the war as a munitions manufacturing center, placed its increase at 710.7 per cent, with a total of 11,325 inhabitants as compared with 1,397 in 1920.

Prior to Hopewell's announcement, Garfield Heights, Ohio, was holding the increase lead with 510.7 per cent and a population of 15,575.

Inglewood, Cal., was next, with 496.6 per cent and a population of 19,605.

244 Gold Star Mothers Off Tomorrow for France

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(INS.)—War mothers and widows from five states were gathering in New York today, the first contingent of those women the nation desires to honor for having given their loved ones to the great war, preparatory to sailing for Europe tomorrow on the Liner America. They will visit the graves of their dead in France, Belgium and England.

Thereafter, weekly sailings will be made until August 30. The pilgrimages will continue during the summers of 1931, 1932 and 1933, until the thousands of mothers and widows entitled to the nation's gratitude are taken to the European military cemeteries where lie the American dead.

In the contingent sailing tomorrow are 244 women, the oldest of whom is a war mother, 91. They will be in Europe about a month, and all their expenses will be paid by the government. Army officers, nurses and interpreters will look after their comfort and Army doctors will safeguard their health. The trip will cost the government about $840 a person.

Out of approximately 13,000 gold star mothers and widows eligible for the trip, 6,500 have thus far signified their intention of going.

The large majority of the visitors to France will go to Meuse-Argonne cemetery, where most of the American killed are buried.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(INS.)—Gold star mothers and widows, who will sail tomorrow on the first of a series of pilgrimages to the graves of Americans who died in France during the world war, this afternoon witnessed military ceremonies at City Hall in their honor.

Receptions were held later and many were guests on sight-seeing trips. Tonight many actors and actresses will provide entertainment for the visitors until bedtime.

Noise Spurring Divorces, Says Mental Expert

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Many American divorces are caused by noise.

This was the interesting theory expounded today by Col. L. Vernon Briggs, of Boston, one of the nation's most experienced psychiatrists.

Tense nerves, keyed to the breaking point from the babel of sound created by the workaday world, are whipped raw, he said, and often cause the quarrel which sends a couple to the divorce courts.

Col. Briggs continued:

"We will have to stop the noise, else America will go mad. What with radios, the din of elevated railways, automobile horns, and rattling riveting machines, it's a wonder all aren't already insane. It is the basic cause of a tendency which is fast undermining our civilization."

It is noise as a carollary to the fast-moving civilization of the day which is responsible, too, for many automobile accidents, he added.

"Most of the so-called jaywalkers," he went on, "are but mental cases, shell shocked by traffic, carrying an ever-present fear of being run down."

Noise has cut down sleeping time, and the world is living on about half the required sleep, he added.

"This country must slow down in its living," he warned. "Even the farmers are sitting up until 11 o'clock, whiling away the time beside a radio. It all results in over-stimulation. People burn themselves out before their time."

CROWDS CHEER GEORGE V, 20 YEARS ON BRITISH THRONE

King Marks Anniversary by Rewarding Servants, Then Attends Race Opening

International News Service.

LONDON, May 6.—Celebrating the twentieth anniversary of his accession to the throne, King George of England devoted himself to the "sport of kings."

After the customary anniversary formalities at Buckingham Palace, the King motored to Newmarket for the opening of the first important meeting of the British flat racing season.

The anniversary celebration opened with a salute of 21 guns fired from the artillery barracks in Hyde Park. Bells of St. George's Chapel, Windsor Chapel and other edifices were rung, and all public buildings displayed flags in honor of the occasion.

REWARDS SERVANTS

Following the traditional custom, King George received a number of his servants from Buckingham, Windsor and Sandringham palaces in a reception room of his London home. He presented them with medals commemorating "long and faithful service."

An enthusiastic crowd was gathered outside the gates of Buckingham Palace when the king left his limousine for Newmarket. Smiling and apparently in vigorous health, he returned their cheers with cordial waves of his hand.

BETS ON PONY

NEWMARKET, Eng., May 6—(AP.)—King Geogge placed a wager on a horse today, for the novelty of working one of the new betting machines. When the King arrived for the races he became greatly interested in the mahines, which were only recently installed. After listening to the explanation of how betting is done through the machine, the King purchased a ticket. The name of the horse he backed was not announced.

story windows of the Hotel Grand, operated by the Loyal Order of Moose.

Fifty guests asleep in the hotel fled and were showered with fruit hurled in the blast as they scurried to the street. One hundred and forty windows in the hotel were shattered.

A building in Thirteenth street adjoining the fruit store and shoe shop in which the explosions occurred, was damaged when the fire spread. On the first floor was a Turkish coffee shop and on the second were several apartments. Following the blasts, 15 persons asleep in these apartments fled to safety.

A large crowd gathered soon after the explosions. Police were compelled to rope off the street in order to keep back the curious. Men were engaged to clean debris from Merchant street to permit resumption of street car traffic.

Fire Chief Fisher estimated the loss at $15,000.

Farm Machinery Trade Holds Good

NEW YORK, May 6.—A survey by Standard Statistics states that the agricultural machinery industry has this far in 1930 fared exceptionally well, despite sharp declines in prices on farm products, heavy grain reserves and several other untoward factors.

The bulletin says indications are that the first three months constituted the best first quarter in the experience of the farm machinery trade and that second quarter returns will be sufficient to bring results for the first half year to a level comparing favorably with the 1929 record.

Fliers Safe After Hop Across Ice

MOTORSHIP NANUK, North Cape, Siberia, May 6.—Reports reached here today that the Russian aviator, Gladyshev, and his mechanic and two passengers from the icebound ship Stavropol here, had arrived safely at Whalen, St. Lawrence Bay, on their flight from North Cape to Vladivostok.

Captain Shoots Self Aboard Fish Boat

MAYS LANDING, N. J., May 6 — (AP.) — Shouting to his friend Charles Shields that he was "going to try it," Harold Ingraham, captain and owner of the fishing schooner Yankee Boy, committed suicide by shooting himself through the temple. He was 46 and had been in ill health some time.

Ingraham told Shields several weeks ago that he was going to end his life and explained that his father had resorted to such action five years ago.

OHIO CONVICTS BACK AT WORK

COLUMBUS, O., May 6.—(AP.)—All shops in Ohio Penitentiary with the exception of the cotton and woolen mills were running today while Colonel Robert Haubrich, national guard commander, continued his program of gradually putting prisoners back to work.

Only those prisoners willing to work are being sent to duty, Col. Haubrich said, and because of the danger of damage to machinery in the cotton and woolen mills they will remain closed until normal conditions are restored.

Work on reconditioning damaged cells has progressed satisfactorily, the guard commander said.

PENAL SYSTEM CHANGES URGED

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(INS.)—Radical changes in the penal system, designed to direct corrective effort to the individual criminal, will be recommended in a report which the prison research committee of the Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement will submit shortly to the commission.

The report will state that, while little brutality exists, there is a real lack of intelligent supervision of the prisoners.

Data were collected in personal inquiries in which investigators spent time living as prisoners.

Investigators said that some guards were little different from the prisoners. Salaries to attract high quality guards will be proposed.

The prisons would be available to mental experts under one of the major recommendations.

2 DIE, 30 HURT IN NEWTWISTER

KANSAS CITY, May 6.—(AP.)—Invaded by tornadic winds for the second time in four days, the Southwest today counted a further toll of two lives and thousands of dollars dammage, exacted in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

Loosing their fury in Western Oklahoma, a series of small twisters last night swept over farm lands into Central Kansas and north into South Central Nebraska.

Mrs. C. T. Bush, 63, and a 16-year-old Negro boy named Edwards, were killed in Blaine County, Oklahoma.

Approximately 30 persons were known to have been injured, a few dangerously.

At Walters, Okla., where three cotton gins and a dozen homes were razed, loss was estimated at $150,000. Central Kansas losses, near Langdon, Chase, Ellinwood and Lorraine, were estimated unofficially at approximately $200,000.

At least four farm homes were swept away between Grand Island and Hastings, Neb.

SAVANT SHOWN AS COMPOSER

CHICAGO, May 6—(AP.)—Albert A. Michelson, who measures the speed of light, understands the Eienstein theory, paints with skill and handles a violin with ability, has added musical composition to his accomplishments.

"Grandpa's Lullaby" is the name of the composition. It was composed some years ago but never set down, and its existence became known by accident last week. Dr. Michelson and Ernest T. Gundlach, head of a Chicago advertising firm, had been taking turns at the piano. Dr. Michelson observed:

"I once wrote a piece of music."

He played it, and Gundlach set it down on paper.

Ryan Heirs Say Grandma Lacks 'Pep' as Guardian

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—Asserting that their 74-year-old grandmother was old-fashioned and "has had no opportunity to learn present day methods of living," two minor grandchildren of Thomas Fortune Ryan, financier, asked to have her removed as their co-guardian. Decision was reserved on the application, which Mrs. Ellen M. Morse, the grandmother, of Valley View Farm, Ridge Road, N. W., Washington, opposed.

The children, Joseph J. Ryan, Jr., 16, and his sister, Elinor M. Ryan, 18, both of New York and heirs of three fifty-sevenths of the Ryan estate, declared in their affidavit that they wanted a guardian "of more suitable age and a greater knowledge of the world."

$172,000 SPENT BY SMITH FOE

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist, told the Senate Lobby Committee today he had contributed $172,800 of his personal funds, including $65,300 to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to oppose Alfred E. Smith for the presidency in 1928.

Jameson was called after testimony by Representative Tinkham (Rep.), Massachusetts, that the bishop had reported receipt of only $17,000 from Jameson.

Chairman Caraway read a telegram from Cannon to Jameson which suggested the report should say that $17,300 was paid the "headquarters committee anti-Smith Democrats" and $48,000 to the "Virginia committee anti-Smith Democrats," of which Cannon was chairman. Cannon will be called as a witness.

The committee adjourned until Thursday, when F. Scott McBride, of the Anti-Saloon League, will testify.

CANNON OUSTER UP TOMORROW

DALLAS, Tex., May 6.—(INS.)—Any attempt to censure or unseat Bishop James Cannon, Jr., for political or stock market activities cannot be made until the organization of the board of Episcopacy of the twenty-first quadrenial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which convenes here tomorrow.

This was learned today from high church authorities following reports that Bishop Cannon had been cited to appear before a board of his church here today and explain his stock market activities.

Bishop Cannon today flatly refused to discuss the current reports of an investigation of his conduct.

$200 Trust Funds For First Children

Louis Eisenberg, of Locust street, in his will filed for probate today, sets up $200 trust funds for the first children born of the marriages of three of his own children—Mrs. Fannie E. Maxx, Hyman Eisenberg and Miss Jeannie Eisenberg.

These three and a fourth, David Eisenberg, are named heirs of the $14,000 estate, although if any one marries outside his or her religion or race, the bequest is to be reduced to $5.

Two Convicts Shot In Prison Break

JACKSON, Miss., May 6.—(AP.)—Two convicts were shot by guards, one being dangerously wounded, in an attempted break for liberty at the Parchman State Farm after a guard had been attacked by convicts, J. Williamson, superintendent of the penitentiary, was informed yesterday.

Henry Tolliver, a white convict, was struck eight times with bullets and a Negro prisoner named Shaffer was shot twice.

Selznick and Bride Dined As White House Guests

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(Universal) — Washington's spring blossoms formed a symbolic setting for the crowded 12-hour honeymoon visit of Mr. and Mrs. David O. Selznick, of Hollywood, who were the guests of President and Mrs. Hoover at a White House dinner last night.

Into the brief space of a half-day the youthful couple crowded a breakfast given in their honor by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, a luncheon offered by the Chilean ambassador and his wife and a visit to the United States Senate. The President's dinner was the final event on their program and immediately afterwards, Mr. and Mrs. Selznick left for New York.

Mrs. Selznick was the former Irene Gladys Mayer, Daughter of Louis B. Mayer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in Los Angeles. Mr. Selznick is a film producer formerly of New York, but now living in California.

The marriage of Mr. Selznick and the former Miss Mayer was one of the most brilliant events of Hollywood. They were married last Tuesday at the Santa Monica home of Mr. and Mrs. Mayer.

After the transcontinental trip which brought them into the capital, Mr. and Mrs. Selznick will leave for Europe Friday on the Olympic.

The Chilean ambassador and Madame de Davila were hosts at a luncheon for them at the embassy.

During the afternoon the young film producer and his bride were interested listeners to the debate on the nomination of Judge Parker for the Supreme Court as it was argued in the Senate. They left the Senate after chatting with various members of the upper house to go to the White House dinner.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area is still in the Southeast and low pressure areas cover most of the western half of the country. The pressure distribution is favorable for local showers, and light rains occurred at scattered places over the whole country. Thunderstorms were quite general over the Mississippi Valley states and over Western Pennsylvania.

The temperature changes were slight. Warm weather continues over the eastern and central portions of the country, while over the Rocky Mountain states and the northern plains and northward over Manitoba heavy frosts and freezing temperature occurred this morning. At Bismarck, N. D., it was snowing this morning with a temperature of 32 degrees.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 2.4 feet; Lock No. 2, 11.1; Pittsburgh, 11.5; Dam No. 4, 8.8; Dam No. 6, 8.1; Dam No. 9, 8.5, and Dam No. 12, 8.5. The dams are up.

BAND, RED FIRE FOR PINCHOT

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot left here today to carry his campaign to the eastern part of the state. He wound up his Pittsburgh visit last night with a broadcast over KDKA and a mass meeting in Horner School, Wilkinsburg.

The Wilkinsburg meeting was preceded by an old fashioned parade, with red fire and a brass band. Besides Pinchot, the speakers included Charles C. McClain, candidate for secretary of internal affairs; Mrs. Henry Chalfant Miller; George B. Shields, chairman of the Wilkinsburg Pinchot committee, and Attorney Ralph Frank. Pinchot said:

"I always have a lot of sympathy for a policeman. He is usually the lowest paid member of a political organization, does the most work, has the most children to feed and gets the least consideration.

LAUDS FIREMEN

"The firemen come in the same class. They run frequent risks, are many times burned or suffocated.

"Yet when heads must fall to satisfy the righteous anger of the outraged public, when a gross scandal in municipal affairs is unearthed, policemen are usually the first to suffer, no matter how honest they are."

Pinchot said the reason the people are forced to pay a 25 cent bus fare, a nine cent electricity rate and a 10 cent trolley fare is becaue the Public Service Commission is controlled by the utilities companies instead of by the people.

CLEAN POLITICS

In his radio broadcast last night, Pinchot said:

"During the four years I was governor, clean politics paid the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania $43,000,000 in a single item, $32,000,000 of debt being paid off and an $11,000,000 of balance left to the treasury when I was through.

"This contrasts with the debt of nearly $600,000,000 loaded upon the back of Philadelphia by politics, with the tax rate raised to match."

Ralph H. Smith, chairman of the Pinchot committee on meetings and speakers, has announced the following radio program: At 7:15 p. m. today, Attorney Joseph A. Richardson will broadcast over KQV; at 8 p. m. tomorrow, Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, vice chairman of the Pinchot state committee; at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Attorney Ralph Frank, WJAS; at 7:30 p. m. Friday, Attorney John H. Lauer.

Beginning tomorrow, noon meetings will be held in Magee Building headquarters, and will be continued daily excepting Sunday, Smith said.

PINCHOT BARES SCHOOL LOBBY

renewed vigor. He said particularly that Commissioner James S. Benn should be removed.

The former governor said that evidence before the Federal Trade Commission revealed an extensive lobby in Harrisburg had been engaged by public utility "monopolists" to spread its propaganda through the medium of the state's school text books as well as newspapers, radio and moving pictures, and continued:

PROOF IN RECORDS

"This was bad enough, but when we hear that members of the Public Service Commission of the state actually assisted in this outrageous proceedings, and I charge that the record shows they did without doubt, then it is high time that, as faithless public officials, they should be held to account.

"Tampering with the text books of schools and colleges of the state is bad business any way you look at it. It ought to be made plain that no one can do it in this commonwealth and et away with it."

Making Commissioner Ben his particular target, the former Governor quoted excerpts from a letter sent Benn by J. B. S. Richardson, publicity director for Public Utilities. According to Pinchot, the letter read before the Federal Inquiry Board said Richardson "would suggest that the commission in Pennsylvania emphasize for standard text books on economics and civics for use in public schools."

CALLS FOR OUSTER

"Benn should have resigned when that secret dealing with the utility lobby came to light," Pinchot asserted. "Since he didn't, he should be removed."

Benn was one of two members of the commission dismissed by Pinchot while he was governor. Both were returned to places by order of the Supreme Court. Benn's present term expires next July.

U. S. Asks Bids On Filipino Bonds

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—Bids were asked today by the War Department for $925,000 worth of bonds of the Philippine government, the third issue of a total bond authorization of $2,175,000 for harbor improvements at Iloilo.

The bonds will bear 4 per cent interest, dating from April 15 and will mature in 1960. They will be issued in coupon form only in the denomination of $1,000 each.

Pinchot Indorsed In Columbia County

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—A. W. Duy, leader of the Columbia County Republican organization, said his organization would support Gifford Pinchot's candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination.

Vice-Chairman

MRS. S. A. M'CLUNG

Mrs. McClung, niece of Secretary Mellon, has accepted a vice chairmanship for the Phillips-Bohlen-Dorrance anti-drys.

ANTI-DRY TICKET ATTACKS VARE

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—(AP.)—William S. Vare and State Senator Samuel W. Salus, member of the Philadelphia Republican organization "war board," today were under fire of leaders of the anti-dry group in the primary campaign.

Francis H. Bohlen, candidate for United States Senator, criticised Mr. Vare, who won the senatorial nomination in 1926 on an anti-prohibition platform, for this time supporting Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who subscribes to the policy of President Hoover's administration.

Randolph W. Childs, campaign manager for the Bohlen-Phillips-Dorrance ticket, assailed State Senator Salus for declaring that Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for governor, had been "planted" in the fight by Senator Joseph R. Grundy in order to draw votes from Francis Shunk Brown and indirectly benefit former Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James denies reports that he has been quietly aiding the candidates of Senator Grundy and Pinchot, in Luzerne County. He was rejected by the local "war board" as a candidate for Supreme Court Justice and later as state campaign manager. James had the support of Vare in each instance.

MELLON'S KIN AIDS ANTIS

Mrs. S. A. McClung, niece of Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon, and cousin of W. L. Mellon, has accepted the vice chairmanship of the Allegheny County campaign committee for the Phillips-Bohlen-Dorrance anti-dry ticket, according to William Frew, chairman of the committee.

Frew will be joined in a broadcas at 6:30 tonight over KDKA by Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for governor; Francis H. Bohlen, for United States Senator, and Charles Dorrance for lieutenant governor.

The anti-dry committee has allotted part of the broadcasting period to the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform for a discussion of its part in the movement against prohibition. Mrs. Carroll Miller, of the advisory committee of the women's organization, will speak.

The reported claim of campaign managers for Senator Joseph R. Grundy that he would carry Erie County is disputed by F. E. Shaughnessy, western manager for the anti-dry ticket.

There is a pronounced trend in Erie to our ticket," Shaughnessy said, "and we have the utmost confidence that our three candidates will have a substantial lead in the returns."

Frew and Shaughnessy have issued a call for volunteer workers for the anti-dry candidates and an appeal for funds to carry on the fight.

"We hope to place workers in every district in Allegheny County and the public reaction to our fight encourages us to believe that we can man the polling places at the primary election with a corps of earnest and independent voters," Frew declared.

Mansfield Indorsed By Labor Council

State Senator W. D. Mansfield, who is seeking re-election in the Forty-fourth District, has been indorsed by the McKeesport Council of Labor, composed of all union labor organizations in the McKeesport district. The Council previously had indorsed Gifford Pinchot as candidate for governor and James H. McClure for assemblyman from the Tenth district.

Easton Serenades Davis-Brown Caravan

EASTON, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—Serenaded by a Moose band, the Davis-Brown ticket received a big welcome upon arrival here yesterday.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for United States Senator, told his listeners the Labor Department was responsible for the investigation of the cement schedule in the tariff bill. Davis said he was for a high protective tariff for American agriculture and industry.

Touching on the prohibition referendum proposal, Francis Shunk Brown, candidate for Governor, said the way to solve the issue was by "ballots, not bullets."

GRUNDY, DAVIS CHARGES WEAK

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—Neither Joseph R. Grundy, who seeks the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in the Pennsylvania primary, nor his opponent, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, has furnished the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee with sufficient specific evidence of irregularities to justify summoning witnesses, Chairman Nye declared yesterday following a meeting of the committee.

The committee, Nye said, gave extended consideration to the charge that President W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was aiding the candidacy of Secretary Davis.

Senator Grundy attempted to file such a charge with the Senate Elections and Privileges Committee early in April, when that committee was considering the resolution which created the Nye committee.

Chairman Shortridge, of the Elections and Privileges Committee, who took the position that his committee had no authority to consider the charge, referred it to the Nye committee.

The committee will not hold hearings on complaints of irregularities in Pennsylvania prior to the primary, two weeks from tomorrow, Senator Nye said, unless preliminary investigations warranted it.

STROBEL URGES GRUNDY AID

Support for Senator Joseph R. Grundy's candidacy to succeed himself was urged last night by Attorney C. M. Strobel in a broadcast over WCAE.

The radio program for the rest of the week as announced by State Senator James J. Coyne, local chairman of Grundy's campaign, follows: Attorney John H. Lauer, 11 o'clock tonight over Station WJAS; Attorney W. A. Blair, 7:15 p. m., tomorrow over WCAE; Attorney J. P. Egan, 11:30 p. m. Thursday over Station WJAS; Attorney W. G. Heiner at 8:15 p. m. Friday over Station WJAS.

Strobel said in part:

"In the complications of life, today, the professional man, the tradesman, the business man, the farmer and the laborer walk hand in hand in the struggle for existence.

"The farmer cannot sell his products unless there is a ready market, and the business man cannot run his establishment unless he can find a retail trade. The professional man cannot conduct his practice without patients and clients.

"Joseph R. Grundy, in his private life and in his public life, has ever kept these principles before him; has ever believed that the real prosperity of Pennsylvania lies in her great industries; has ever fought to maintain such tariff regulations as will insure fair wages to employes and a fair return to capital invested."

Looking for a room or apartment simply means looking in the Sun-Telegraph Classified Rental Ads. It's quite easy to locate a nice place to live.

GRUNDY CALLED G.O.P. WRECKER

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—(AP.)—United States Senat Joseph R. Grundy was denounced as an "opinionated old man who is wrecking the Republican party in Pennsylvania," by State Senator Samuel W. Salus in an address yesterday at the Davis-Brown headquarters.

Grundy is a candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed himself in the Senate and Salus is aligned with the Philadelphia Republican organization which is backing the ticket headed by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, for Senator, and Francis Shunk Brown, for Governor.

LIVELY POLITICS

The speech of Senator Salus, a radio address of State Senator Frank J. Harris, of Pittsburgh, in behalf of Mr. Brown's candidacy; an address by Brig. Gen. Edward C. Shannon, candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the Davis-Brown ticket, and a statement by Francis H. Bohlen, anti-dry candidate for the senatorial nomination, kept the political pot boiling here. Senator Grundy spent the day in his office here, holding conferences and planning the remainder of his campaign.

Senator Salus termed Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., anti-dry candidate for Governor, a "Grundy plant." He also attacked former Gov. Pinchot, the third gubernatorial candidate, declaring that when Pinchot was not running for public office he was not to be found in Pennsylvania. He said that as Governor, Pinchot had saved money for the state, but "at the expense of the roads and of the sick and injured people of Pennsylvania."

BELL SYSTEM POLICY

—and the best . . . !

PENNSYLVANIA'S Bell Telephone Service is rendered by a Pennsylvania organization made up of 24,000 Pennsylvania men and women.

These telephone people recognize the fact that personal success is closely related to the success of the organization. They also know that the success of the telephone organization is entirely dependent on the quantity and quality of the telephone service.

Quantity, because of the increasing value and usefulness to the public of a growing service (notwithstanding the increasing complexities inherent in an expanding telephone system).

Quality, because customer satisfaction is essential to telephone progress.

The 24,000 telephone people are furnishing service to 1,300,000 Bell telephones in this State. They are rendering a service of the very highest humanly possible quality. They are rendering a better service today than yesterday. They aim to make tomorrow's service still better.

U. S. CATHOLICS AT EUCHARIST CONGRESS

Thousands From All Parts Of World at Cathage For Opening on Thursday

CARTHAGE, Tunisia, May 6.—(AP.)—The American delegation to the Eucharistic Congress landed in this Moslem land today from the French liner Rochambeau.

The party, comprising 319 pilgrims and their wives, from eight dioceses of the new world, were greeted by congress officials and the usual colorful bands of Arab peddlers. They proceeded immediately tourist-fashion to delve into the mysteries of this ancient state.

Tunis is now crowded with pilgrims and priests of all nations of the Catholic faith for the formal opening of the Eucharist Congress, the main program of which will be held here Thursday and the following three days.

Cardinal Lepicier, papal legate sent by the Pope, is bringing the monstrance containing the sacred host. Six other cardinals, a hundred bishops and thousands of priests and laymen are coming.

One ceremony will be the dedication, on the site of the old cathedral, of a statue of Saint Augustine, copy of one that stands in Bone, the seaport town to the north which many centuries ago was Hippone and where Saint Augustine died.

KLINE CRACKING WHIP AGAIN

Mayor Kline and Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, principal speakers at a meeting last night in Watt Street School, threatened city and county employes with the loss of their jobs if they failed to support the Davis-Brown ticket.

The school is in the Fifth Ward, home of former President of Council James F. Malone, who recently declared his support for former Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Mayor Kline declared:

STOP AT MALONE

"This ward has always been in the organization and it won't change now because one man turns reformer. Suppose Pinchot is elected, he won't be able to give out city and county jobs.

"Charlie Kline will be giving the city jobs and 'Joe' Armstrong, the county jobs.

"I believe in the principle 'To the victor belongs the spoils' and I want to remind you that I still have more than three years as Mayor."

ARMSTRONG CONCURS

Armstrong concurred in Kline's position and urged support for the Davis-Brown slate.

Mayor Kline recalled that when he was running last Fall he promised the people of the Fifth Ward a Negro representative in the Legislature and now was supporting their choice, Walter E. Tucker, adding:

"You know that I have carried out my promise that I made to you a year ago. I have made other appointments and am not through making colored appointments.

"I hope that after careful analysis of the candidates, you may consistently cast your votes and ask your friends and neighbors to cast their votes for the regular Republican ticket so that the old Republican party may be successful, not only in this campaign, but for many years to come."

ATTACKS ADVERTISEMENT

Armstrong referred to an advertisement being circulated that recalls Davis' action in a political campaign in 1912. Armstrong said:

"You never saw Sam Jamison, who was born on your hill, do anything for anybody. Why doesn't he come out and play the game square? Why should he—because he gets a salary of $25,000 to throw mud, just because Jim Davis, some years ago, was named as a delegate to a national convention, and, because of a misunderstanding withdrew his name and was not a candidate.

"Who always opposed child labor laws? Who always opposed anything that would benefit the family of the man who had to go to work. Jim Davis doesn't live around Harrisburg and testify about spending $1,000,000 for this and that only to make himself and his associates richer and richer.

"All the bills the other fellow is taking credit for were passed during the administration of Gov. Brumbaugh."

Armstrong evidently referred to Senator Grundy's claims of activity in behalf of social welfare legislation.

CANDIDATES INDORSED

Other speakers at the meeting were Congressman Sullivan, Joseph C. Marcus, incumbent, and Walter Tucker, candidates for the Legislature from the First District; Attorney Albert Martin and Constable Earl Sams.

Indorsements were voted for all candidates on the Davis-Brown state ticket and for Sullivan Marcus and Tucker.

Candidates on the Davis-Brown ticket were indorsed last night at a meeting of the Twenty-seventh Ward Republican organization in Shadeland Avenue School. Representative S. J. Grenet, who presided, and W. F. Stadtlander urged support for the Davis-Brown combination.

"Forty-seven years ago, Jim Davis lived in our ward," Grenet declared. "Jim's father was a puddler in the old rail mill on Preble avenue, a trade at which Jim himself worked in later years. Support him by urging his nomination and election."

Others speakers were Mrs. Frazier, Councilman Harry A. Little, Mrs. Webster Hennau, Samuel Roseberg, Benjamin Lencher, city solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, Public Works Director Lang, President of Council Herron and Armin H. Friedman, of McKeesport.

Dry Agents Pose As Bootleggers To Net Victim

Posing as bootleggers, federal prohibition agents called up Earl Jones, 30, of 1365 Kelly street, and ordered 50 gallons of moonshine whisky at $1.75 a gallon, they testified at a hearing before the United States Commissioner today.

Jones drove up to an Arcena street address given by the agents early today, they testified, and was arrested.

Jones' truck containing 10 five-gallon cans of alleged moonshine was confiscated. He was held for Federal Court, charged with illegal possession and transportation of liquor.

WOMEN BOOST DAVIS, BROWN

Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, vice chairman of the Republican organization, presided at a meeting of the women's division of the Davis-Brown campaign committee today in the Hotel Henry headquarters.

The Second Ward Republican organization will meet in the Hotel Henry at 8 p. m. The Rev. Stewart Martin Smith is due to broadcast a Davis-Brown speech at 10:30 p. m. over radio station WJAS.

LEADERS SPEAK

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Mayor Charles H. Kline and Assistant County Solicitor M. B. Lesher were to address the women's meeting. Speakers at the Second Ward meeting will include Safety Director James M. Clark, Police Supt. P. P. Walsh, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, Congressman P. J. Sullivan, candidate for re-election, Joseph G. Armstrong Jr., candidate for State Senator, and Councilmen John S. Herron and W. Y. English.

RADIO ADDRESS

Mrs. Henry Pinkelpearl broadcast last night over WJAS a speech in behalf of the candidacies of Davis and Brown and their running mates. She was one of the organizers and later president of the Pittsburgh Home for Babies, a former member of the board of visitation of Allegheny County, a member of the Board of Federation of Social Agencies of Pittsburgh and president of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society.

The Dormont headquarters of the Regular Republican Organization, the Davis-Brown campaigners, will be opened this evening at 2918 West Liberty avenue. William E. Best will preside and M. B. Lesher, chairman of the Regular Republican committee on speakers and meetings, and others will speak.

Airman Blamed For Starting Woods Fire

UNIONTOWN, May 6.—An aviator is blamed for starting a fire which swept hundreds of acres of virgin timber on Pine Knob. Fire Inspector John C. Beatty says he believes a cigaret stub dropped by an airman set fire to the timber. Persons living in the vicinity stated that the smoke was seen shortly after an aviator flew over the Knob.

Jessie Hall, 9, escaped injury when a piece of aluminum fell from another plane.

ADMITS KILLING NURSE, 65

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 6.—(AP.)—Police announced today that Charles E. Scoville, 57, a grocery salesman, former patient in Massillon State Hospital for the Insane, signed a confession to the murder of Mrs. Nellie Cummings Kerr, 65-year-old nurse.

Scoville was arrested last night near the abandoned theater building where Mrs. Kerr's body, clad only in a man's overcoat, was found yesterday.

Police say he admitted strangling her April 13 with her stocking after a fight because she objected to dirt in the suite where he told her he was going to make his office.

Scoville said he removed her clothing in the hope of preventing identification and then tossed the body down a stairway where it lay until yesterday, police announced.

Falling Child Clings To Rockefeller Coin

LAKEWOOD, N. J., May 6.—(AP.)—Here's a case where a Rockefeller nickel went before a fall. Lester Dix, 5, marched proudly from church holding a coin given him by John D. He slipped ingloriously down the steps, but clutched the nickel all the way.

'Shakedown' Pair Outshine Judas, Says Whalen

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—Two city detectives, accused of extorting $25 from a speakeasy proprietor, heard themselves denounced and suspended today by Police Commissioner Grover Whalen as "worse than Judas." They were Frederick W. Opperman and John Foran.

"They are deserving of no sympathy," said Whalen. "I hope they get everything that is coming to them for stooping so low as to shake down a speakeasy proprietor for $25."

Then the two suspended detectives were led away to await trial for extortion.

PRESBYTERIANS HIT ORPHANAGE

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—(INS.)—Enlightened public opinion is against orphanages, declares a report of the Presbyterian General Council made public here today.

Dr. John M. T. Finney, of Baltimore, noted surgeon of John Hopkins, Dr. Henry B. Master, Philadelphia, and Albert A. Reed, of Denver, compiled the report, which will be submitted to the general assembly at Cincinnati May 29 for action.

The committee declared the "ideal treatment is to place children in properly selected homes where they can have individual care and training."

READING VOTES ANTI-DRY

NEW YORK, May 6.—(INS.)—Reading, Pa., showed a decided leaning toward repeal, while York, in the same state, favored enforcement of present dry laws, in an incomplete analysis of votes announced today in the Literary Digest prohibition poll.

ARREST SQUIRE IN GLASSPORT

Arrested twice within 15 minutes, Justice of the Peace Robert Schwerha, 31, of Fifth street and Monongahela avenue, Glassport, was at liberty today under forfeits pending a hearing tonight.

Schwerha was arrested first after an argument near the Glassport Police Station with M. Kelly, 49, of Glassport, and again in the police station for bawling out Sergt. Peter Wible, according to the police.

Wible and Patrolman George Goshio lodged Schwerha and Kelly in the police station on charges of disorderly conduct, the justice posting a $10 forfeit, but Kelly was held when he failed to supply a similar amount. As Schwerha was about to leave the station he turned in the doorway and police said, berated Wible. The sergeant promptly re-arrested him and compelled him to post a forfeit of $15.

Because Burgess Seward J. Gross has refused to try cases brought by members of the police department, who are appointees of a rival political faction headed by County Detective James C. O'-Brien, police said hearings tonight would be before an alderman of McKeesport or Clairton.

FOREST HILLS NAMES WISER

Lee A. Wiser was elected burgess of Forest Hills at a special meeting of Borough Council last night. He succeeds Burgess John France, who died May 1.

Councilman M. G. Thompson was chosen president of that body, succeeding Wiser. H. L. Clemmer was elected a member of Council to fill the vacancy caused by Wiser's elevation.

Councilmen were advised that the State Highway Department would likely approve plans and advertise for bids early next week for the widening of Ardmore boulevard, extending more than a mile through the borough. The boulevard, which constitutes a section of the Lincoln Highway, is to be widened to 27 feet on both sides of the double street car tracks, which are on a private right-of-way in the center of the thoroughfare, councilmen explained.

The state and county will bear the expense of the improvement, councilmen said. The work will be started early in June.

Mrs. Schooley, Movie Writer, Wins Divorce

RENO, Nev., May 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Maybell Cadman Schooley, sister of Charles Wakefield Cadman, American composer of music and herself a musician of note as well as a scenario writer, was granted a divorce here from Edward Allen Schooley.

Schooley objected to her attending musical affairs or to paying any attention to music, Mrs. Schooley charged. She said he constantly criticised and on many occasions used violent and abusive language toward her. They married at Buffalo, N. Y., December 24, 1909.

READING, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—Pensioned on Friday after serving the Reading Company over half a century as a carpenter; given a farewell party on Saturday and dying suddenly on Sunday night were closing events in the career of William B. Henry, 70, retirement age, last Tuesday. A heart attack, following a meal, is believed to have caused his end.

Vandergrift Gains 2,000 in 10 years

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 6.—The Borough of Vandergrift has gained nearly 2,000 population in the past 10 years. The population in 1920 was 9,531 and at present it is 11,471.

Southwest Greensburg Borough gained 562 in population since 1920, the number now being 3,100.

Wife Dumps Rum But Spouse Pays Fine

NEW PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—When police entered the home of John Commoniti, his wife thrust a bottle of Golden Wedding whisky into her dress. When an officer seized her, she turned the bottle upside down. Police charged Commoniti with possessing liquor and held the empty bottle and a quart of beer as evidence. In Mayor W. F. Hurst's court Commoniti was fined $100 and costs.

MORE JOBS, PAY BOOSTS BEFORE COUNCIL

Swimming Pool Aides and Inspectors Asked; Raise For Batchelor Proposed

Additional city jobs and salary boosts are holding the attention of Council.

One ordinance, to be considered in committee late today, would raise the salary of W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of the Bureau of Recreation, from $4,000 to $5,000.

A second would create 20 new jobs in that bureau for guards, caretakers and matrons at the Magee, West Penn, Warrington and Paulson avenue swimming pools.

SEVENTEEN INSPECTORS

A third ordinance, introduced at the request of Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang, would create 10 inspector positions in the division of streets and seven in the division of sewers.

None of the increases or new positions is provided in the budget for the year.

Director Lang said that the additional work approved by Council required the additional inspectors. Failure to provide them, he informed the members, will result in delay or in permitting the work to go ahead without supervision. His department, he added, cannot assume responsibility in the latter case.

KLINE APPROVES

Council yesterday approved an earlier request for 10 additional inspectors in the Bureau of Engineering, delaying action, however, until Mayor Charles H. Kline had sent a letter approving the new jobs. Councilman Charles Anderson voted the solitary "No."

The Mayor wrote that the Department of Public Works had informed him that the additional men are absolutely needed. Anderson declared the department should have prepared for its needs in the budget.

$1,000 Rings Vanish, So Does Hired Man

Two diamond rings are missing today from the home of Mrs. George Baker, 544 Parkson square, and so is a Negro workman, she reported to police.

Mrs. Baker said she hired the man late yesterday to do some work outside the house, and that a short time after she employed him he disappeared. Soon after, she said, she noticed that rings, valued at $920 and $85, also had vanished.

State Police Seek Thieves of Copper

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., May 6.—State police are investigating the theft of 200 pounds of copper wire from the Hecla Coal and Coke Company, near the West Virginia line.

'Cicero Complex' New Divorce Complaint

CHICAGO, May 6.—(AP)—The "Cicero Complex" has been advanced by Mrs. Elizabeth Comerford as a reason for divorce.

The "Cicero Complex," her bill explains, translates into Ruthless Cruelty. She said her husband, a Cicero police officer, had it.

Cicero has been known as the stamping grounds of Al Capone, the gang leader.

AUTO INJURIES KILL GANGSTER

CHICAGO, May 6.—(AP)—George Maloney, gangster who figured in the only radiocast murder on record, died yesterday of natural causes.

The state charged that Maloney and a companion were the two who entered the Granada Cafe during the 1929 New Year's Eve celebration and shot to death Hugh (Stubby) McGovern and William (Gunner) McPadden. There were about 300 patrons in the cabaret at the time and the orchestra was broadcasting dance music.

Maloney was convicted of the McGovern slaying but won a new trial and the case was nolle prossed. He was shot in July, 1929, but recovered. He had long been reputed in the business and had had frequent brushes with police. His death resulted from pneumonia which followed injuries in an automobile accident April 14. He was under 30.

74-Inch Sofa

Choice of Three Different Tapestries— An Exceptionally Low Price

$46.75

If furniture could speak, this sofa would tell an interesting tale of its expert construction . . . fine tapestry of durable quality covers it without in strictly tailored fashion. Inside . . . filled with moss and white cotton; webbing at sides, back and bottom. Its simple dignity and luxurious comfort are generally associated with furniture priced much higher. Three patterns from which to select. It's 74 inches long. Wouldn't it "speak well" for your living room or reception hall?

An arm chair of the same design is $26.75 in the Birthday Sale.

Sold on Our Convenient Budget Payment Plan.

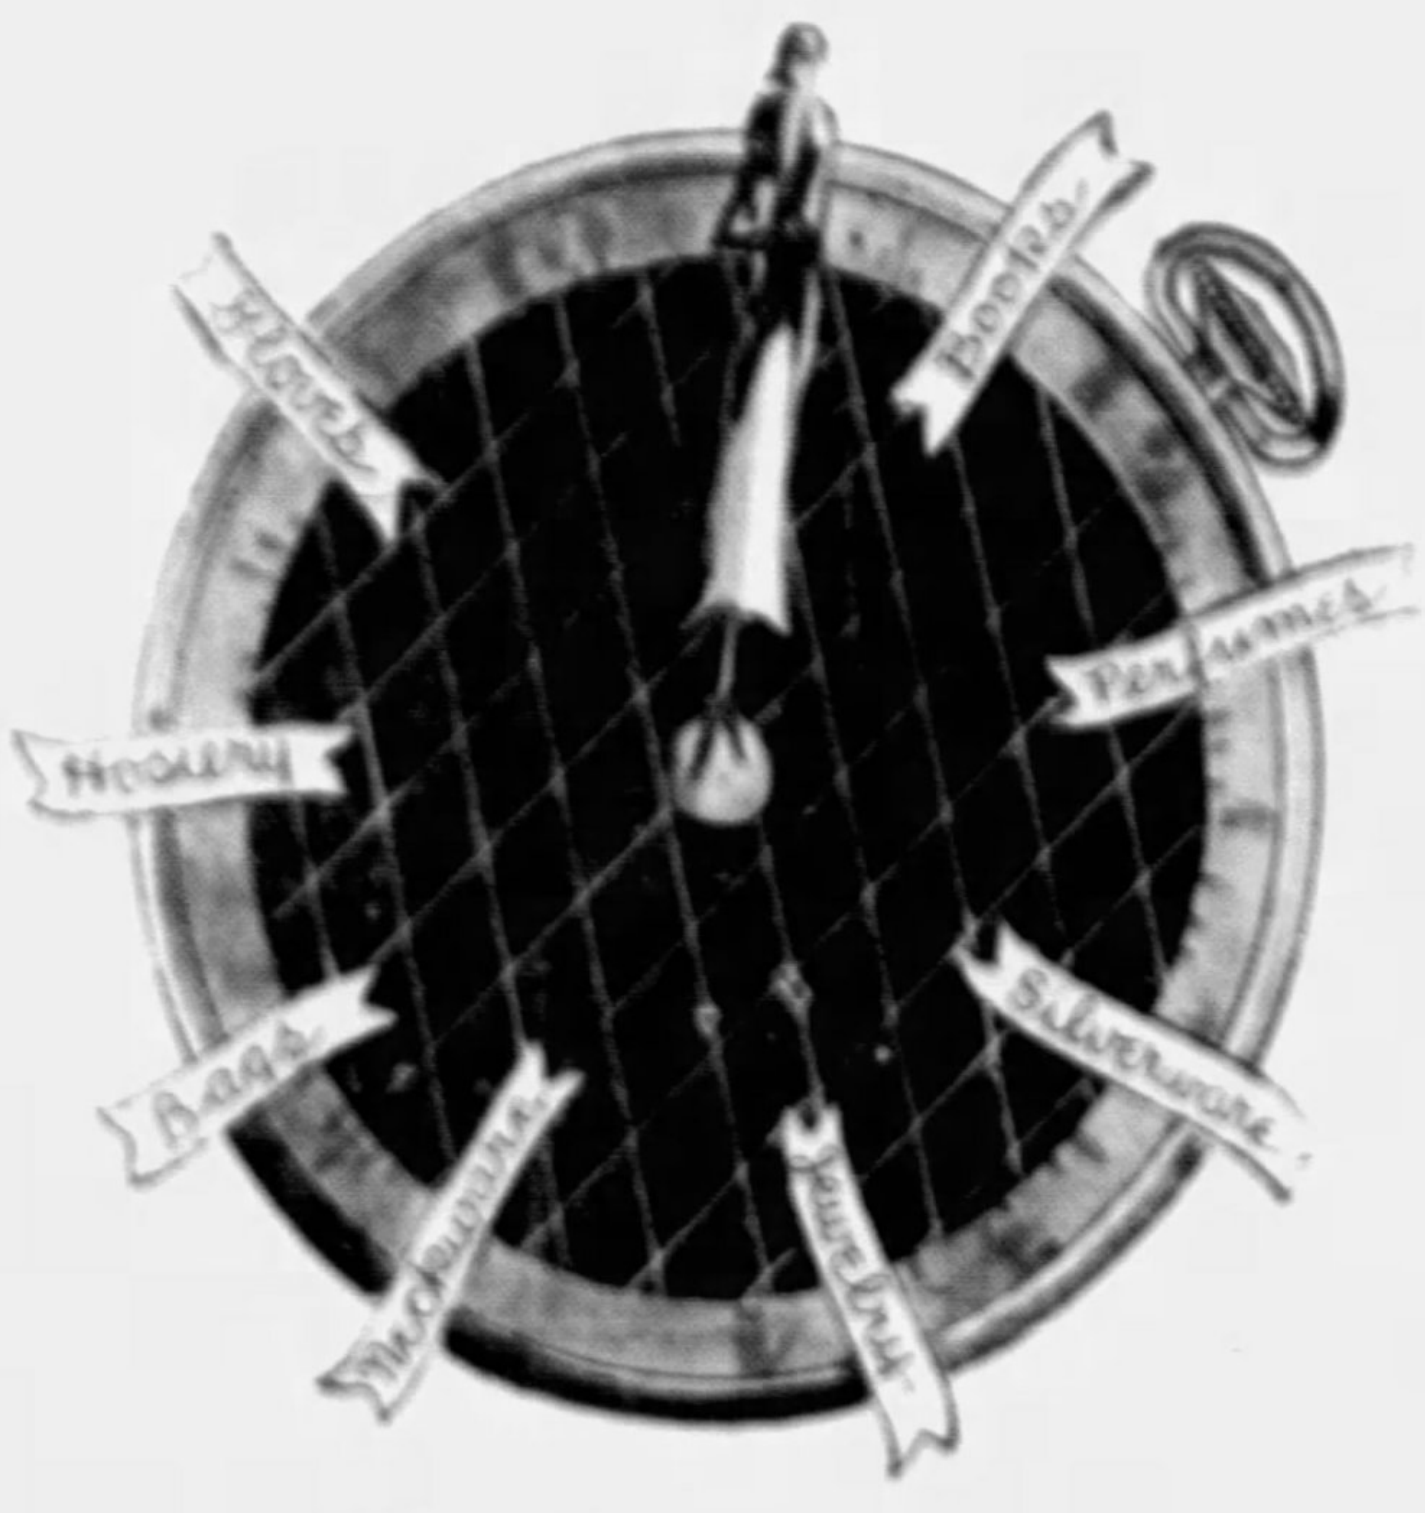
More Primer Stuff:
The Clock's I, II, III Is Now the Shopper's A. B. C.



Of course, it's breath-taking. But that's only because our First Floor is so new, so totally different. Some day, we predict, every large store will be designed this way, not only one floor but, architecture permitting, every floor. And once you "clock" your steps and see in minutes how much time and energy it really does save, you too will write us grateful letters about it.

Meanwhile, let's see. Suppose you come in by any of the eight, large, adult-size entrances. All of them lead DIRECTLY to the elevators and escalators—there ARE no long, interminable aisles to wander through, no blank spaces signifying nothing, no blind alleys that the architect forgot to open up. The whole thing's as neat as the arrangement of numerals on a watch-dial, and as logical. The axis of the dial-hands corresponds to the elevator banks, and your gloves, your hose, and your cosmetics lead out from that axis as naturally as do the I, II, III of the watch.

For Larger Women An Unusual Choice
Silk Coats
$59

Perfectly designed, as you might know they would be in our Duchess Shop . . . skillfully modeled on lengthening, tapering lines, of extra quality silk crepe faille, in black and navy, some with soft jabot revers, as sketched, others with soft, graceful capes or collars of cocoa-dyed broadtail. Sizes 38½ to 52½.

If You Wear Extra Size Be Sure to See These Sheer Frocks
29.75

For they are the most becoming type of frock you can wear while their practical smartness makes them delightfully wearable for the majority of occasions. Simple, yet distinctive models of georgette crepe, flowered and plain chiffon, also georgette over printed silk, as sketched. Sizes 38½ to 52½.

THE DUCHESS SHOP, FOURTH FLOOR

It's a Mistake to Wear 'Any Old Shoe' About the House

"No one ever sees me, so I just wear out my old shoes in the house," says the misguided young woman. Old shoes that have lost their shape may seem more comfortable, but the chances are that they don't give active feet the support they must have. Arch Grips do! They are trim and snug. Comfortable as scientific fashioning can make them. And so undeniably smart you won't have to change into others when you go out onto the street. And Arch Grips cost only 6.75 and 7.50.

Goes to Workhouse On Burglary Charge

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 6.—Wilbur Chestnut, of Westland, Washington County, was sentenced to serve from two to four years in the Allegheny County workhouse when he pleaded guilty to robbing a tailoring establishment at Carmichaels. He was given a similar sentence for larceny of a motor vehicle, the two sentences to run concurrently.

Man Dies From Auto Injuries, Driver Hurt

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 6.—Alexander Warran, 47, died today from a fractured skull received when struck by an automobile driven by James Barrance, of Struthers, Mahoning County. Warran was standing on the sidewalk at the time, waiting for a street car. Barrance, when arrested, said that he lost control of his car as he was driving over rough railroad tracks at Caledonia street, where the mishap occurred.

Wife Alone Three Days With Her Dead Husband

ERIE, Pa., May 6.—(AP.) An insurance agent found Mrs. William J. Kress watching over the body of her husband, who was fatally hurt when he fell down stairs three days ago.

The woman, it was learned, had been keeping a vigil since her husband died.

Dry Law Blamed By Doomed Slayer

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., May 6.—Walter Crabtree, 38, Hampshire County, W. Va., convicted of the murder of three persons at Romany, W. Va., whom he charged had been responsible for his arrest in connection with a liquor case, will be hung at the State Prison here Friday evening. The execution will be the first under Warden A. C. Scroggins. Crabtree blames the prohibition law for his downfall.

Two Injured When Auto Crashes Pole

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 6.—Mrs. Fannie Shaw, 74, of Franklin, is in a hospital, with both knees fractured and suffering from shock. She was the victim of an auto accident on the Fryburg-Tionesta road Sunday, when the car driven by her daughter, Lulu, was sideswiped by a machine driven by Oscar Eichner, of Harrisville. The Shaw car struck a pole. Miss Shaw was injured about one leg and body.

Ivory-tinted Dinner Plates

NEVER have we been able to offer to savers of coupons from Octagon Soap Products a finer premium than these six dinner plates. Plates are semi-porcelain tinted the fashionable ivory tone. Decorated with a lovely pattern of roses and forget-me-nots in natural colors with leaves of delicate green. Full dinner plate size—9 inches in diameter. Remember that you get six of these plates as a premium.

All you have to do to get these lovely dinner plates is to ask your grocer for "Octagon" every time you buy laundry soap, soap powder, scouring cleanser, toilet soap for the wash basin, floating soap for the bath, and chips for your washer. Then save the coupons you get. Soon you'll have enough to get this premium. You'll be delighted at the quality of the soaps themselves. And you'll enjoy having and using this fine ware.

CLIP AND SAVE

As a special inducement, we offer you this special certificate worth 15 coupons when presented in accordance with the rules printed in the certificate itself. Read them carefully.

Our offer on this unusual premium is limited to August 31, 1930. This special premium can be obtained only at our stores and agencies. It will not be sent by mail.

Read how to make this certificate worth 15 coupons to you

READ CAREFULLY

Present this certificate with 10 coupons from the products named herein and you will be given credit for

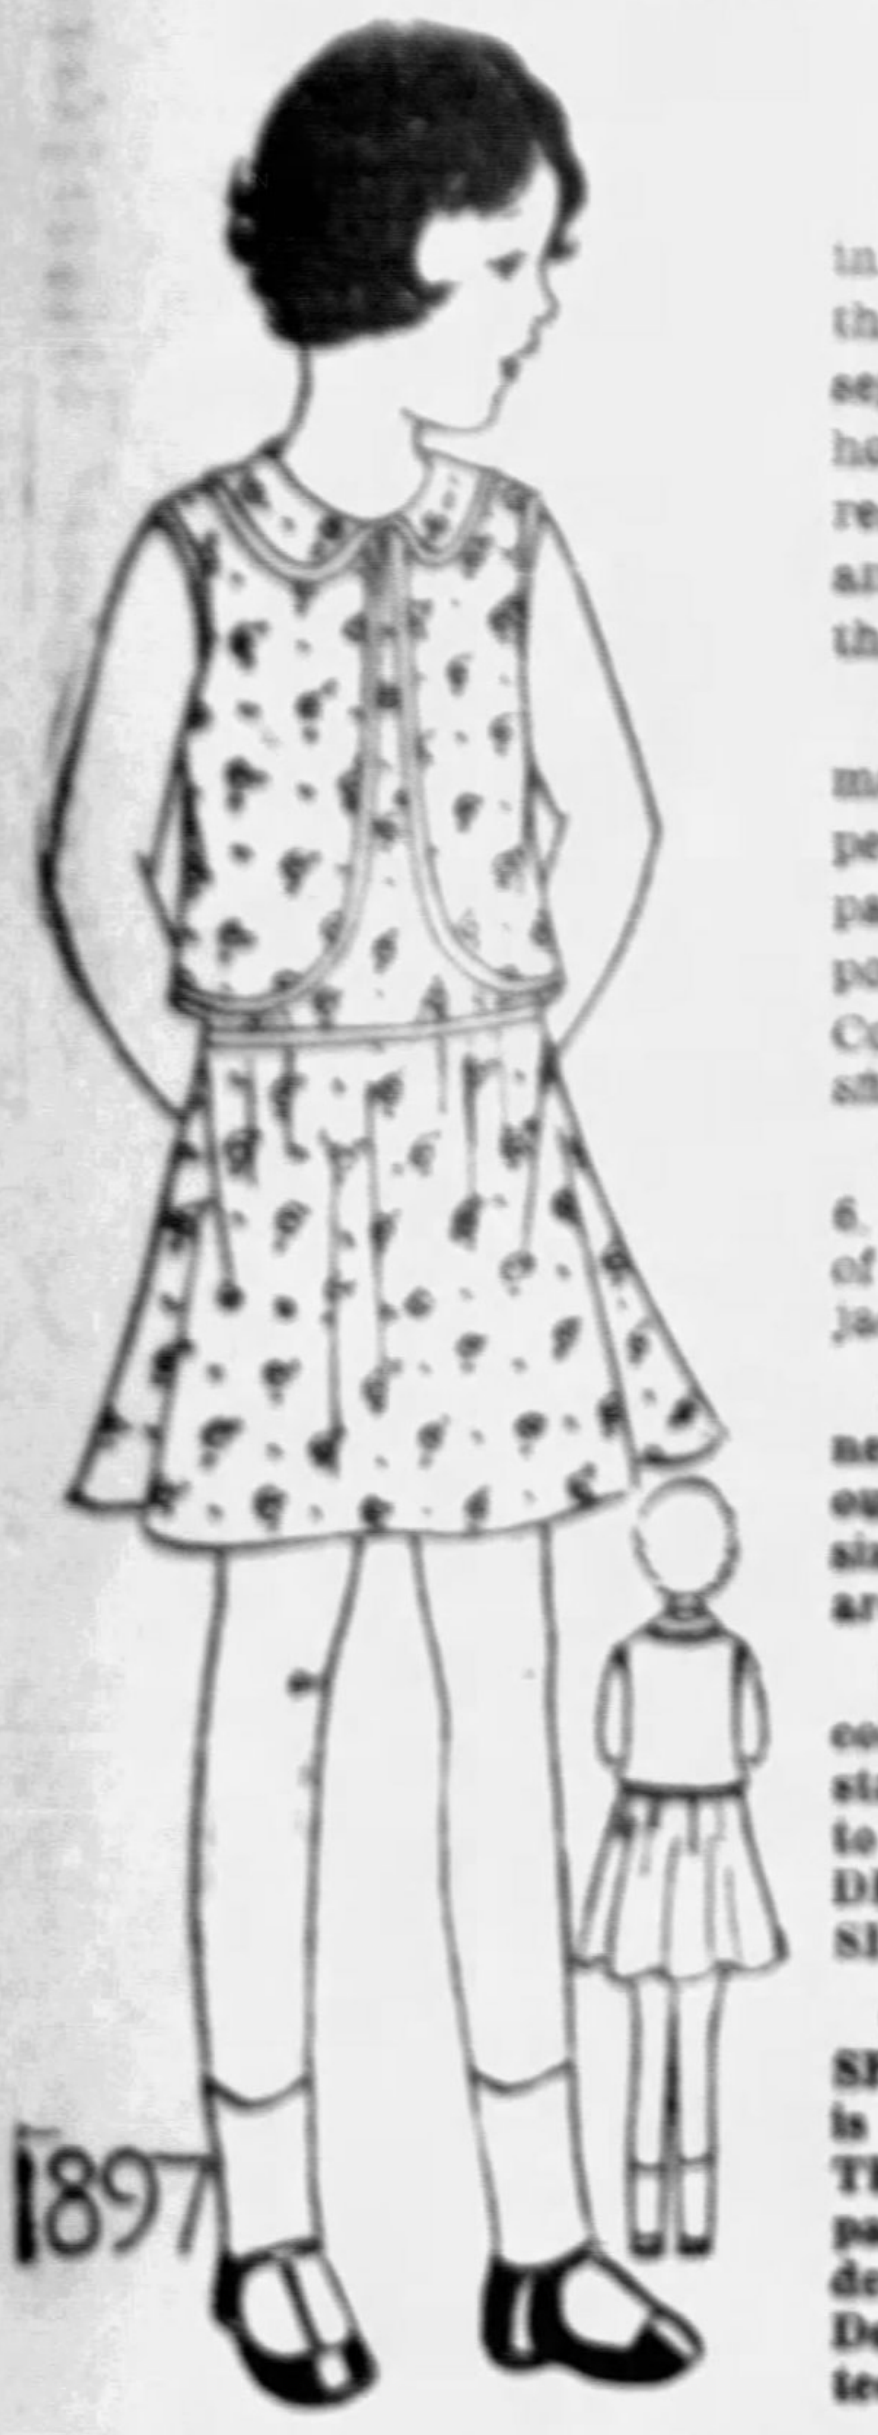
Sleeveless Frock and Bolero
Pattern 1897
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



1897

Can you picture your youngster in a more adorable little rig than this sleeveless one-piece dress with separate bolero? The collar, armholes and jacket are finished with ready made binding . . . an easy and quick method that is quite the vogue this season.

Pattern 1897 is delightfully made of printed pique, gingham, percale, wash silk or taffeta. The pastel shades, red and beige, are popular with the younger set. Contrasting binding would be smart.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 2 yards of 36-inch material for dress and jacket.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5.—Address your request to

GROCER ROBBED BY BANDITS

Search for four bandits who held up the grocery of Louis Greenberg, at 3400 Milwaukee street, last night and escaped after looting the cash register and robbing a customer, was being made by police today.

The robbers took $73 from the register and a watch and a small amount of change from Joseph Weiss, of Milwaukee street, the customer. They fled in an automobile.

No trace had been found by Center Avenue police of burglars who Sunday night entered three homes in Milwaukee street. Nothing of valued was stolen, police said. The windows of the dwellings were jimmied.

Chemical Blast Causes Slight Fire

An explosion of chemicals in the workshop of Wolfson and Grau, jewelers, of 409 Clark building, Seventh street and Liberty avenue, was followed by a slight blaze last night. Downtown firemen extinguished the fire without loss, they reported.

Henry Ford Sends McGuffey Kin Readers

SHARON, Pa., May 6.—A complete set of McGuffey readers has been sent Mrs. H. G. Thomas, wife of a local alderman, by Henry Ford, Detroit automobile magnate. Mrs. Thomas is a grandniece of the McGuffey brothers.

She met Mr. Ford and Thomas A. Edison during the 100th anniversary of the Chautauqua institution last year. Mrs. Thomas was able to give Mr. Ford much valuable information about the history of the McGuffeys.

City Pays $2,635 For Market Repairs

An ordinance giving the Mayor and Controller authority to issue a warrant for $2,635 for repairs made to the refrigeration plant in Diamond Market has been presented to Council.

The plant has been in operation day and night for 16 years, according to Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang. The repairs, which already have been made, will permit its operation for "several years" without additional expense except for minor repairs.

HEARING ASKED BY BROOKLINE

Council plans to grant a hearing to the Brookline Boulevard Improvement Association following a request received yesterday from Paul N. Smith, president, and Phyllis E. Davis, secretary.

The request for the hearing was accompanied by a petition signed by hundreds of residents. The association, an accompanying communication claimed, represented 1,612 property owners.

In general, the association wants two things; first, the relocation of the boulevard between West Lib- the paving of the boulevard throughout its length. erty and Pioneer avenues to follow the line of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and, second,

Students Complain About City Dump

Council yesterday received a letter from the Student Council of Langley High School complaining about a dumping place in the rear of the American Street School, Twentieth Ward.

Family doctor's laxative instead of harsh purges; trial bottle Free

Dr. Caldwell's prescription cannot form the cathartic habit. It can be given to the child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is fetid, or has a little fever. Or to older people whose bowels are clogged. Its ingredients stimulate muscular action and thus aid the bowels to more normal functioning. The pure senna and laxative herbs in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are good for the system. So do not hesitate to use it when there's biliousness, headaches, or any sign of constipation. Your druggist has this world-famous prescription in big bottles. Or, write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., and a free trial bottle will be sent to you, postpaid.

ITCHING ENDS WHEN ZEMO TOUCHES SKIN

—thousands say. It's wonderful the way soothing, cooling Zemo brings relief to skin which itches and burns. Even in most severe cases, itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the tender and inflamed surface. To draw out local infection and help to clear away unsightly blemishes, we know of nothing better than invisible Zemo. Always keep this family antiseptic on hand. Use it freely. It's safe as can be. 35c, 60c and $1.00. All dealers.

'SUICIDE' OF BOY THOUGHT HOAX

YONKERS, N. Y., May 6.—(AP.)—A month after his supposed leap to death from the Peekskill (N. Y.) Bridge into the Hudson, relatives of Gifford Kellogg, 19-year-old freshman at the University of Wisconsin and son of Royal S. Kellogg, Yonkers pulp expert, said they believed the incident was a hoax.

Mrs. Kellogg, step-mother of the missing youth, said she learned that no one really saw him leap from the bridge. A young woman reported to have witnessed the jump, later said she saw a young man poised on the bridge rail but did not see him leap.

Although the river has been searched daily for the youth's body, it has not yet been found. Members of his family said no motive for covering up his disappearance could have existed unless his mind was affected by over-study.

Former Postmaster Dies at Sutton, W. Va.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 6.—Amos Bright, 76, merchant, banker, educator and Republican party leader, died last night at his home at Sutton, of paralysis. He served as assitant state banking commissioner under Governor Morgan and was formally postmaster at Sutton.

Hundreds of Thousands Of Wise Americans Demand Kruschen Salts

Keeps you in good health all the time—skin clear and body free from fat.

Just think of it: these new, better and different salts were only introduced into America a few months ago—yet a host of intelligent Americans are healthier and happier because of their supreme goodness.

Kruschen Salts are the daily health dose of millions of people the world over—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain.

One-half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning gently but surely stimulates the liver, bowels and kidneys to healthy elimination.

But the six vitalizing and rejuvenating salts in Kruschen do more than cause regular elimination—the man or woman who takes them regularly need have no fear of poisons polluting the system, which is the cause of many annoying and depressing ills.

One bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) costs but 85c and one bottle will prove of vast benefit to people who have constipation, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism, depression, acidity and auto-intoxication.

Not only that, but one bottle will bring about body activity—increase in energy, vigor and ambition, sparkling eyes and freedom from pimples and blemishes—millions know all this—you ought to know it.

Sold by all May's & Liggett's Drug Stores and druggists America over.

ECKENER MAPS GRAF'S TOUR

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 6—(AP)—When May 18 dawns Dr. Hugo Eckener will lift the immense dirigible Graf Zeppelin into the air here and begin the first trip ever attempted between Europe and South America by lighter-than-air craft.

After stops at Rio Janeiro and Pernambuco, Brazil, Dr. Eckener will turn the nose of the big ship northward. She will visit Havana, then Lakehurst, N. J., and then turn toward the Atlantic again for Seville, Spain, where an anchor mast has been erected.

Dr. Eckener estimates that it will take 23 days, including stops, to accomplish this journey of 18,000 miles.

After leaving Friedrichshafen May 18 the Graf will fly via Switzerland and France to Seville, planning to arrive there from 20 to 24 hours after the start. The stretch of about 4,000 miles from Seville to Pernambuco will, it is estimated, take three or four days. No stop will be made at Pernambuco, but the airship will proceed directly to Rio Janeiro.

The next objective will be Havana, which Dr. Eckener expects to reach within about three days. The flight from Havana to Lakehurst is expected to take about 24 hours.

After a stay of three days the airship will point its nose eastward and head again for Seville, which, Dr. Eckener figures, should be reached in three days. The stop at Seville will be only long enough to change passengers and mail, and some 24 hours later the commander and crew of the Graf Zeppelin hope to be home again in Friedrichshafen.

Gain More Weight, Strength and Energy

Be Healthy and Vigorous Again, Say Druggists, or Your Money Returned.

If you are rundown, have that lazy feeling, are nervous, irritable and moody, it's probably because you need more Vitamins and the modern 1930 way of getting your supply speedily is mighty easy.

There's Vitamins in butter, eggs, milk and green vegetables, and thin, underweight people whose health isn't up to par should keep that fact in mind.

But when you want to get as near 100% in physical and mental efficiency as possible, do it this modern way. Take two McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets after each meal and two at bedtime for 21 days.

There are no drugs in these health building tablets, nothing but the magic Vitamins your body must have if good health is to be yours—lack of Vitamins is responsible for many common and annoying ailments.

You'll never know how valuable these magic tablets are until you try them and millions of people who aren't exactly sick but know they are slipping ought to try this inexpensive way to gain in physical charm and vigor.

You can get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets at your druggists with the understanding that they will increase your mental and physical efficiency—your weight—your attractiveness—your vitality, or money back—60 tablets, 60 cents. Just ask for McCoy's at any drugstore and get your Vitamins the year round.

MILL WORK TRIES STRONGEST MEN

Intense Heat Likely to Slow Up Action of Kidneys.

Sweating alongside great masses of molten metal for hours at a time is a severe drain on the strength of anyone. Men in the big steel mills who are exposed to the intense heat of melting metals sweat until the pores of the skin are all open, and absorb the fumes from metal and the gases. Thus they make extra work for the kidneys to keep the blood clean. But because they sweat so much the kidneys are not likely to do much work, and sometimes the men suffer.

Then when they go out in the cold from these hot rooms the pores of the skin close up, and they usually sweat no more until they come back again. Thus neither the skin nor the kidneys are working as they should. The exposure to the cold often leaves them with colds to throw off, and some of the men suffer all the year through from inflammation of the nose and throat—catarrh.

The poisons absorbed by open pores, the poisons the kidneys fail to throw off and the poisons of the catarrhal condition sometimes affect the stomach as well, so that the digestion is not good. Then, unless something is done, it is only a question of time until there is a complete breakdown.

Workers who are compelled to endure intense heat should drink plenty of water outside the mill, as well as inside, and they should get the benefit of a good medicine that will keep the kidneys at work and keep up the tone of the stomach and bowels as well as check the tendency to catarrh. World's Tonic is intended for just these conditions. It is not only indicated where one has waited until he is really sick, but should be taken whenever one feels badly. World's Tonic is a foe to catarrh, a gentle stimulant to the kidneys, a fine help to bowel regulation, and an aid to digestion. Hundreds of workers have found it the one thing that restored their health and kept them well, according to their own testimony. Maybe it is the one thing you need to be in perfect health again. You can obtain World's Tonic at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or any other first class drug store. (A-19)

HEROIC CARDINAL, MIRACLE DETECTIVE AND ANCIENT VILLAINY ON STAGE

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

This Town of Ours

The Edgar Selwyns (Ruth Wilcox) who have been like this for two months after a violent misunderstanding will reconcile, Ruthie being on a swiftly paced West Coast-bound rattler to cry it out with him . . . The Franklin P. Adamses (Esther Root) anticipate a blessed event . . . Gene Sarazen will replace McDonald Smith as pro at the Lakeville course Jan. 1 . . . The stork is due at the Maj. John A. Warners this week (ex-Gov. Smith's dotter Emily) . . . The leader of "Strike Up the Band" read a suppressed book while conducting the score Thurs. eve . . . Neva ("Simple Simon") Lynn and E. Judson are On The Verge . . . The husband of the late Arnold Rothstein's wife was scarred terribly in the recent London stock market blast.

Blanche Martin, the most beautiful of the Illinois insurance peddlers, and A. Brown, the "torchiest" warbler on the Grandest Canyon, are hmmmm . . . The Tommy Wanamaker-Phyllis Walsh romance still is blazing . . . Sue Conroy is not a bride . . . Margaret Bell, of Norfolk, is secretly welded to a Bostonian (being schooled in Washington), who is christened Francis (Roaring) Forth . . . Bud Hyde, nevview of Sec'y of Agriculture Hyde, the former garage keeper, insists that the ushers at his sealing wear ascot cravats and spats . . . Norman Anthony, recently deposed editor of Life, complains that our H. Dietz jokes are old . . . Perhaps if those in Life were newer Anthony wouldn't be reading the Want Ads.

That Eth Barrymore interview was arranged by her press dep't . . . Among other unusual sights in the Bulb Belt . . . A chin-ema star in a 54th St. asylum going gay over a gig while her ex-husband and a former heart look on from ringside tables . . . The Chicago Hurld-Exam staff explosion was heard here . . . Weldon Heyburn, the actor, and Dorothy McCallam, a Portland, Ore., deb, will centre-aisle it in June . . . The A. Rubiens anticipate a youknowhat . . . The Jock Whitney-Liz biz will not be announced until Sept. . . . The new Life ed graduated from the Lord & Thomas & Logan group, it appears . . . So sorren . . . Those sassy cracks about the younger social set in Town Topics are penned by Natalie Hess, once their pal . . . "Mia Cara," a grand chune, is by Pierre Norman, a West Orange, N. J., Jesuit Father.

Dorothy Day, of the "50 Million Frenchmen" lah-de-dah, will bride it with a non-pro on Decoration Tag . . . The horses have clipped "Dutch" Irwin For All . . . It's a boy over at the Raymond (Washington) Buckeys . . . Eleanor Whitaker, a Detroit breath-taker, is being Romeo'd by Sam Pass of Here and There . . . On June 2 the Brewer & Warren, Inc., will release Jean Cocteau's "Enfants Terribles" . . . The brother and sister in it were well known in Paree . . . He died before the tome was published and in it the boy and his sis commit suicide . . . After it was published his sister knocked herself off after the manner of the character in the tome, leaving a note saying that so long as the author had written it, "what else is there to do?" . . . The reason the Madison Square electric sign is gone is that it cost over 100 Gs to run it.

Recommended to diversion seekers: The re-opened Furnace, a hot-spot on W. 51st St., with the "Hot Feet" crew officiating . . . The Woodmansten Inn for swelegant minute steaks . . . The chune "I Never Dreamt You'd Fall In Love With Me," plenty good . . . The new cloud-scraper on Central Park West at 70th, where your apartment is fashioned to order . . . The P. Whiteman theme song, "It Happened In Monterey" . . . Wotta lyric! . . . The Foujita Book of Cats, and its superb drawings . . . "Saturday to Monday," verse by Newman Levy, with Held, Jr., illustrations . . . Forrest Wilson's piece in the June Cosmop, a romance with a Broadway column background.

The legend is that Gershwin composed his "Rhapsody" in 3 wks . . . We found a five spot and a one buck bill on the Cotton Club dance floor . . . The loser may call here and try and get it . . . Sanford Jarrell is word-sewing a novel . . . As is Jimmy Durante, who will christen it "Night Club," with Jack Kofoed of the Evepost's sports crew collabing . . . Gustav Blum, the bloomer show producer, is back at his old job teaching English (whatever that is) in the James Madison High School.

You may see that strange gent at 69th and C. P. W. any sunup with his Maltese cat on a leash . . . Add Long Song Titles: "I'm in Love With Someone Who Is in Love With Someone Who Isn't in Love With Her" . . . "Lysistrata," Aristophanes' most Mae Westish piece, is a riot in Philly and locals are trying to bag it for the Erlanger temple here, Whalen consenting, of course . . . Hmmmm, do the news services love Arthur N. Page, the AT&T vice-prexy who handled the naval confab's publicity, for the way he preferred the radio to the press . . . Credit the City Theatre's swift mind for creating a new name for burlesque, the new tag being "Girlesk." Clever?

Jean Ackerman, who got rich being a Ziegfeld show gel, is Yurruping it with her new heart . . . Eileen Wenzel of "Letch Book" and Nicholas Blair, owner of the Club Casanova, are plenty Voom-voom . . . Nat Lans and Marjorie A. Davis are what her initials spell (it was so beautiful while it lasted) . . . The D. Wittes will be stork'd in a fortnight . . . Charles LeMaire, the costumer, will hurl a birthday orgy shortly for Mme. Sherry, who first backed him . . . The Clamhouse in Hahlim, which charges only 25 cents for the stuff, tilts the price to six-bits per convulsion when Dwight ("Little Show") Wiman comes in with his Tall Millinery crowd . . . George White won't play golf with his friends anymore because he says he cannot resist cheating.

The best known society woman in the world frequents a 58th St. speakeasy because the furriner who runs it is the ace of Backgammon players . . . The Geo. (Laundry) Marshalls of Washington have exploded and are telling it to a judge . . . Judge Mean Nathan will defend the drama for Vanityfair comm'g with the Sept. issue . . . The Whitney Boltons are adding a nursery to their Goitre, L. I., shack . . . Larry Doyle, a Park Ave. prince, and Phoebe Lee, a phormer Ziegpheld philly, have the tremors for each other . . . RKO and Columbia phlickers just closed a terrific deal . . . Paramount is all set to take over That Tremendous Circuit . . . "The Middle Watch," which Argentinita'd on 42d St., has made $250,000 in London . . . At the Motion Picture Club they add a dime to your check if you scribble on the tablecloth.

Advertising Club To Hear A. H. Seed

Members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club today were to hear Allen H. Mr. Seed is a member of the New York Advertising Club and a director of the New York Junior Board of Trade.

William Gillette Stirs Playgoers Again as Sherlock Holmes

By GEORGE SEIBEL

George Seibel.

"MARVELOUS! MARVELOUS!" exclaims Doctor Watson as he listens to the series of deductions by which Sherlock Holmes proves he is still Sherlock Holmes. "Marvelous! Marvelous!" the audience at the Nixon Theater last night might have exclaimed after witnessing the play of "Sherlock Holmes" in which William Gillette proves that he is still William Gillette.

This drama of a master detective matched against a master criminal is full of tricks which must click perfectly if the proper effect is to be attained. After 31 years since first playing the part, William Gillette still does not miss a singe trick. This week, like Prospero, he is to say farewell to his magic arts, but like Prospero he still commands the enchantments he has used all these years.

Gillette has been seen in many diverse characterizations—in the farcical "Private Secretary," in the melodramatic "Secret Service," in the exquisite "Clarice," but he will be remembered best, no doubt, by his deliberately subdued acting in the role of the detective thought out by Conan Doyle and brought to life by Gillette.

No artist could draw any other picture of Holmes than the one presented by Gillette. He is Holmes. Holmes with his pipe, his violin, his soft catlike tread and purring voice—there can be no other Holmes, just as there can be no other Hamlet for those who saw Booth.

AS FOR THE OLD PLAY

Though the character lives, it seemed somewhat doubtful whether a play written over three decades ago would still prove good theater. With an older play there might be less doubt of this sort because the patina often heightens the charm of the antique bronze.

But surprisingly enough "Sherlock Holmes" keeps up the suspense as well as any mystery play of recent years. Gillette's technique when he wrote this piece was ahead of his time, and the thrillers of yesterday have just caught up with him.

Not that there are not moments, particularly in the last act, when you feel the action is being forced along by all sorts of devices that are not very plausible. Too much complicated ingenuity is wasted on the very simple operation of "bumping off" Holmes, which a modern gunman would perform with little trouble at slight expense.

But the audience is glad to see Sherlock in his cool and imperturbable style foil all these plots. How he does foil them! For all his years he is astonishingly nimble and adept at jiu jitsu when the ruffians in the gas chamber have to be thwarted.

CREDIT TO CRIMINALS

Not the least of Holmes' achievement consists in the fact that he deals with a gang of criminals who really deserve much credit. John Miltern as Professor Moriarty acted up to the traditions of this Napoleon of the Underworld. Montague Shaw proved very sinister as James Larrabee, and the most delicious scoundrel of them all was William Postance as Sidney Prince, a red-headed Cockney type surrounded by a real Limehouse atmosphere.

It is a question whether Burford Hampden as Billy should not be counted next in the value of his contribution to the evening's enjoyment, after William Gillette and William Postance. But there is also good old Doctor Watson, done with a fine air of professional pomposity by Wallis Clark.

Peg Entwistle played Alice Faulkner, the heroine, and Roberta Beatty was the villainous Madge Larrabee—but the women really are out of place in this plot and counter-plot.

Suffice it that Sherlock outwitted the wily and desperate Moriarty, and the audience obliged him to make a speech after act three to show they were on his side.

Speech in Three Tongues Enough For Audience

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP.)—A speaker before the first International Congress on Mental Hygiene delivered his speech in three languages and offered it in a fourth but found no one in the audience who needed the last translation.

Speaking in English to delegates from 50 countries, Professor L. Puusepp, of Estonia, repeated it in French and German for those who spoke those languages.

Finally, he asked if there were those who cared to hear his talk in Russian. There was no response.

STAR RUMORED ENGAGED

Rumor and baggage arrived today for Weldon Heyborn, the new leading man at the Pitt Theater, he being reported engaged or not engaged to a society deb, as you will have it.

Weldon Heyborn

Miss Dorothy McCallam, a Portland, Ore., society girl, is the reported bride for June, according to Walter Winchell, via New New York, today. It was with hesitance and a slight blush the youthful star announced there "was nothing to it." Even George Sharp, his producer, could not satisfy his inquisitiveness. After questioning his leading man left the matter still as puzzling.

Don't let the lack of ready cash deprive your home of modern plumbing fixtures

How old are the plumbing fixtures in your home? Have you redecorated your bathroom only to find that there is no way to improve the unsightly appearance of old, outworn plumbing fixtures? Have you thought of replacing them with modern fixtures, perhaps in one of the beautiful new "Standard" colors?

Has it occurred to you that new plumbing throughout the house would enable you to get a much better price for it if you decided to rent or sell?

For only $14 per month you can have a new "Standard" bath, lavatory and water closet at once and pay for them as you enjoy all the benefits they bring to your home. The "Standard" Time Payment Plan—small amount down and easy monthly payments—enables you to do this. It makes it possible to have a bathroom that is as beautiful as any other room in your home, with "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures in white or one of nine beautiful colors.

For $10 a month you can replace the old, hard-to-keep-clean sink with a "Standard" sink of the famous "Three 8's" design in white or color. It has an 8-inch back so that it may be placed under the kitchen window in the direct light; it has an 8-inch deep sink compartment to prevent over-the-rim splashing; it has an 8-inch front or apron to make it one of the most beautiful sinks ever designed.

You can have new laundry trays for your laundry, an electric dishwasher, an electric clothes washer—you can have all of these labor-saving fixtures by making a small down payment and arranging to take care of the balance, including cost of installation, in monthly installments.

Would you like to have the complete details of the "Standard" Time Payment Plan?

Then see your plumbing contractor or come to the "Standard" Showroom or mail the coupon. You incur no obligation by asking for this information.

"Richelieu" of Hampden Gives Alvin Audience Plots and Thrills

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

"MARK WHERE she stands; around her now I draw the awful circle of our solemn church. Step but one foot upon that holy ground and on thy head—aye, even though it wear a crown—I launch the CURSE of Rome."

"Richelieu" still is "Richelieu."

Perhaps there may have been some apprehension among the audience attending the excellent performance of the old Bulwer-Lytton play, as rewritten by Arthur Goodrich—apprehensive lest "Richelieu" might no longer be "Richelieu"—but when Walter Hampden, as the glorious minister of France, delivers the awful "curse of Rome," elevating the drooping and enfeebled figure of the heroic cardinal-statesman to majestic posture, inflecting the powerful phrases in thrilling crescendo to the ominous end, the effect is terrific, and doubt vanishes. "Richelieu" remains "Richelieu" despite all rewriting.

Those who attended the opening performance of Mr. Hampden's engagement in the Alvin last night have good reason to be thankful that there are artists who, like him, are courageous enough to present such plays in this day of modern drama devoted to snappy dialogue and the so-called facts of life.

It is good to sit down and watch intrigue pile upon intrigue and find it credible, because history tells us that the real Richelieu, not the central figure of a fictional drama, but the churchman who was France during the reign of Louis XIII, was the creator and center of more intrigue and greater drama than could be encompassed on the puppet stage. So the plots and counter plots of the play "Richelieu" seem credible. More, they seem reality. And corking good drama.

Richelieu was a favorite role of Booth and other great actors, but in recent years had been played only by Robert Mantell. It is a part that requires the utmost in strength, skill and art, and these fortunately, are what Mr. Hampden is able to contribute in abundant measure. The drama itself is filled with action and, as played by the company of Mr. Hampden, is a sound prescription for an interesting, enjoyable evening in the theater.

The star has excellent support from a large company, many of whom the audience recognize as players who have been with him for years. Ernest Rowan is the fiery De Mauprat, whose love for the ward of the cardinal, Julie, involves him in a plot against her protector and against his king, whose desire for the girl results in the famous "curse," the only weapon the aged crafty statesman has left as one result of the conspiracy. Ingeborg Torrup is the wholesome Julie. Moffat Johnston plays well the part of the archplotter, Baradas, and Cecil Yapp gives convincing realism to the part of Joseph, priestly aid to the cardinal. Also prominent are Charles McCarthy, Jr., Louis Polan, C. Norman Hammond, Dallas Anderson and Caroline Mead.

Postal Employes' Bill Opens Fight

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(INS.)—Consideration of the 44-hour week bill for postal employes was blocked in the House by Representative Cramton (Rep.), of Michigan, with a warning against passage of bills which might cause a treasury deficit. In retaliation, Representative La-Guardia (Rep.), of New York, objected to consideration of a bill raising salaries of postmasters in the larger cities.

Cardinal

Walter Hampden opened a week's engagement in the Alvin in a new version of "Richelieu" last night. He also will appear in "Caponsacchi" and "Hamlet," the latter to be given only at the Saturday matinee.

WARNERS GET NEW THEATER

Another local theater has been added to the Warner Bros. chain with the announcement today that the Hollywood Theater, 1439 Potomac avenue, Dormont, has been sold for approximately $200,000.

The purchase was made from Edward Murray, of 2916 Mattern avenue, Dormont, pioneer motion picture showman. The Warners will take possession May 28.

Mr. Murray's cinema experience dates back 27 years ago. He was one of the first exhibitors, traveling with the first Edison production, "Great Train Robbery," throughout Pennsylvania. He has been interested in many branches of the amusement business and included in his accomplishments were compositions for popular songs, including "Chinese Honeymoon," "Violet, Rose and You" and "Mother, the Best Pal After All."

CHANDOS BELLINGHAM FOILED AGAIN IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"After Dark" is all lit up on the Pitt stage this week. It is the George Sharp Players' version of that Christopher Morely revival that sent New Yorkers trotting over to New Jersey. Which either means that New Yorkers are keen on tunnels and boat rides — or that Christopher put something into his production that Mr. Sharp does not.

We don't say that the Pitt's "After Dark" is not amusing. Any old-time melodrama is amusing. But it doesn't live up to the expectation attained by all the hullabaloo raised over the Hoboken "darkness."

The great train scene with the hero thrown on the tracks, isn't any knockout—comedy or otherwise. When the huge cardboard locomotive comes walking in (and walking is the word) you just think: Well, well, so that's a train.

And that great waterfront scene isn't so much either. You can only hope that the leading woman doesn't turn her ankle when she jumps two and one-half feet into the watery deep; or that the sprinkling can doesn't get those curly locks of her's all wet.

HISSES FOR VILLAIN

Of course, everyone is happy when Chandos Bellingham—he's a villain—is foiled. And Robert Fiske, who "does" the villain, ought to be happy too. He gets enough hisses to insure that, as an actor, he's a success.

Naturally, the play isn't to be taken seriously nowadays. Galloping time has robbed it of that. Its only obvious object is fun—amusement. But there are moments when Mr. Sharp's emoters mix earnestness and burlesque.

Walter F. Jones, the Sharp character man, gives the best performance. He recites "The Face on the Bar Room Floor" and almost has us wishing we had been alive in those yestesterdays when such sentiment put gulps into the throat. Billy Link isn't half bad as a sort of understudy to the villain. Then there is Clyde Shafer, who acts and looks a bartender. When he warbles "She's More to Be Pitied Than Censured," the production reaches its height of audience enthusiasm.

JUMPING EYEBROWS

There is a whole stage full of other players. We can't begin to name them. It is proper, though, and deserving, that Edith King, our heroine, and Weldon Heyburn, a sort of second hero, get mention. Mr. Heyburn interests because of the way he keeps his eyebrows jumping up and down. Hugh Banks also should be mentioned. He puts in many of the heroics. Besides, he looks like the Civil War personified in that uniform he wears.

Well, if we write paragraphs in proportion to the scenes of this play, the home folks won't see us for a couple days. So we're going to call a halt. First though, we want to concede Mr Sharp credit for attempting this production. 'Tis a big job—this "After Dark," or "Neither Maid, Wife nor Widows" as the step-title has it. And, as the job is done, it is neither burlesque, melodrama nor straight comedy.

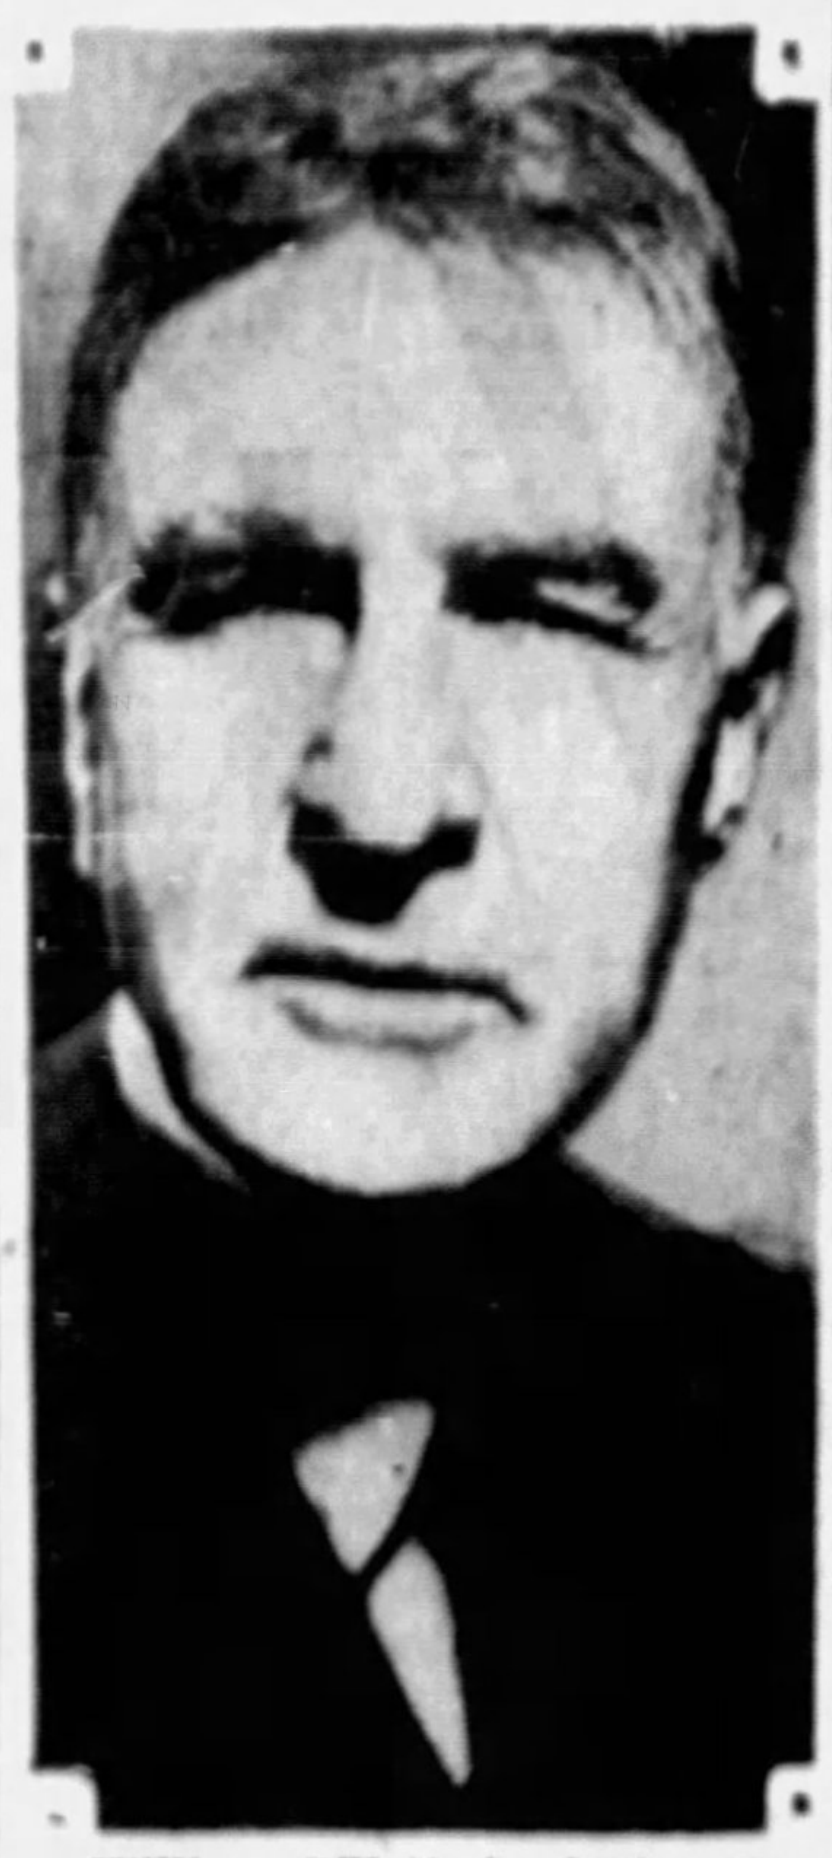
We believe that an older generation can get pleasure out of it that is lacking for us. But to a younger generation, at least to us, this "After Dark" is like an old man slipping on a banana peel; an old man that makes a ludicrous picture—but a pathetic one.

Posse in Mexico Errs, Hangs Wrong Man

MEXICO CITY, May 6.—(AP.)—Dispatches from the town of Ahualulco, state of Jalisco, reported that a posse out hunting for a bandit captured at night a man whom they thought to be the one they sought and proceeded to hang him immediately in the public square in the nearby town of Tala.

The execution took place after midnight, and the next morning the townspeople of Tala discovered to their horror that the man hanging from a tree in the plaza was Canuto Garcia, head of the local agrarian commission and a respected citizen. Garcia unfortunately bore a close physical resemblance to the bandit and had the same name.

Farewell



William Gillette is playing the final days of his farewell to the stage, which he will leave finally Saturday night in the Nixon, where he opened in his old success, "Sherlock Holmes," last night.

HERE TO TALK ON 'FIGGERS'

Prof. S. I. Krieger, is in Pittsburgh to lecture to students and industrial firms on just what he can do with figures. There being just about nothing he can't do with figures, he has a lot to talk about.

A co-worker with Einstein, Krieger has been called by the author of the theory of relativity "the greatest mathematical mind I have ever seen. There is no electric machine that can compete with him."

He has developed formulae whereby he can multiply, divide, compute roots and powers with little figuring. Tell him to multiply a number of eight figures by another of like bulk—he will give you the answer in 10 seconds.

Three weeks ago, he claims, the solution of a 216-year-old problem which has stumped the foremost scientists came to him in a flash. He has developed a formulae to determine whether six seven, eight digit numbers are prime numbers or are divisible. In 15 minutes he can do the work of years by older methods, he says.

FORMERLY WRIGHT'S

WORK SPEEDED ON AIR ROUTES

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Post-office Department officials announced that final plans are expected to be worked out in about three weeks for advertising for bids on the two proposed new air mail routes connecting Pittsburgh with St. Louis and New York on the one hand, and with Norfolk and Washington on the other.

Although the special inter-departmental committee on aviation approved the proposed routes several months ago, advertisements for bids have been held up pending passage by Congress of the Watres bill, recently adopted, which authorizes a re-adjustment of all air mail contracts.

At the office of Assistant Postmaster General W. Irwin Glover in charge of air mail activities, it was stated that the two Pittsburgh routes will be among the first considered under the new legislation. Based on present expectations, the two Pittsburgh services should be ready for the award of contracts by the middle of the summer, with the service to start by early fall.

At the time of the public hearings, held here last year, a large delegation from Pittsburgh appeared before the committee to stress the need for air mail service between the highly important industrial section surrounding Pittsburgh, the south Atlantic seaboard and St. Louis.

Oil Man of Butler Dies at Age of 95

Lang Asks $2,000 To Fight Fire Under Road

When the city annexed Hays Borough and part of Mifflin Township, making it the Thirty-second Ward, it became daddy of a war baby in the form of a burning coal mine.

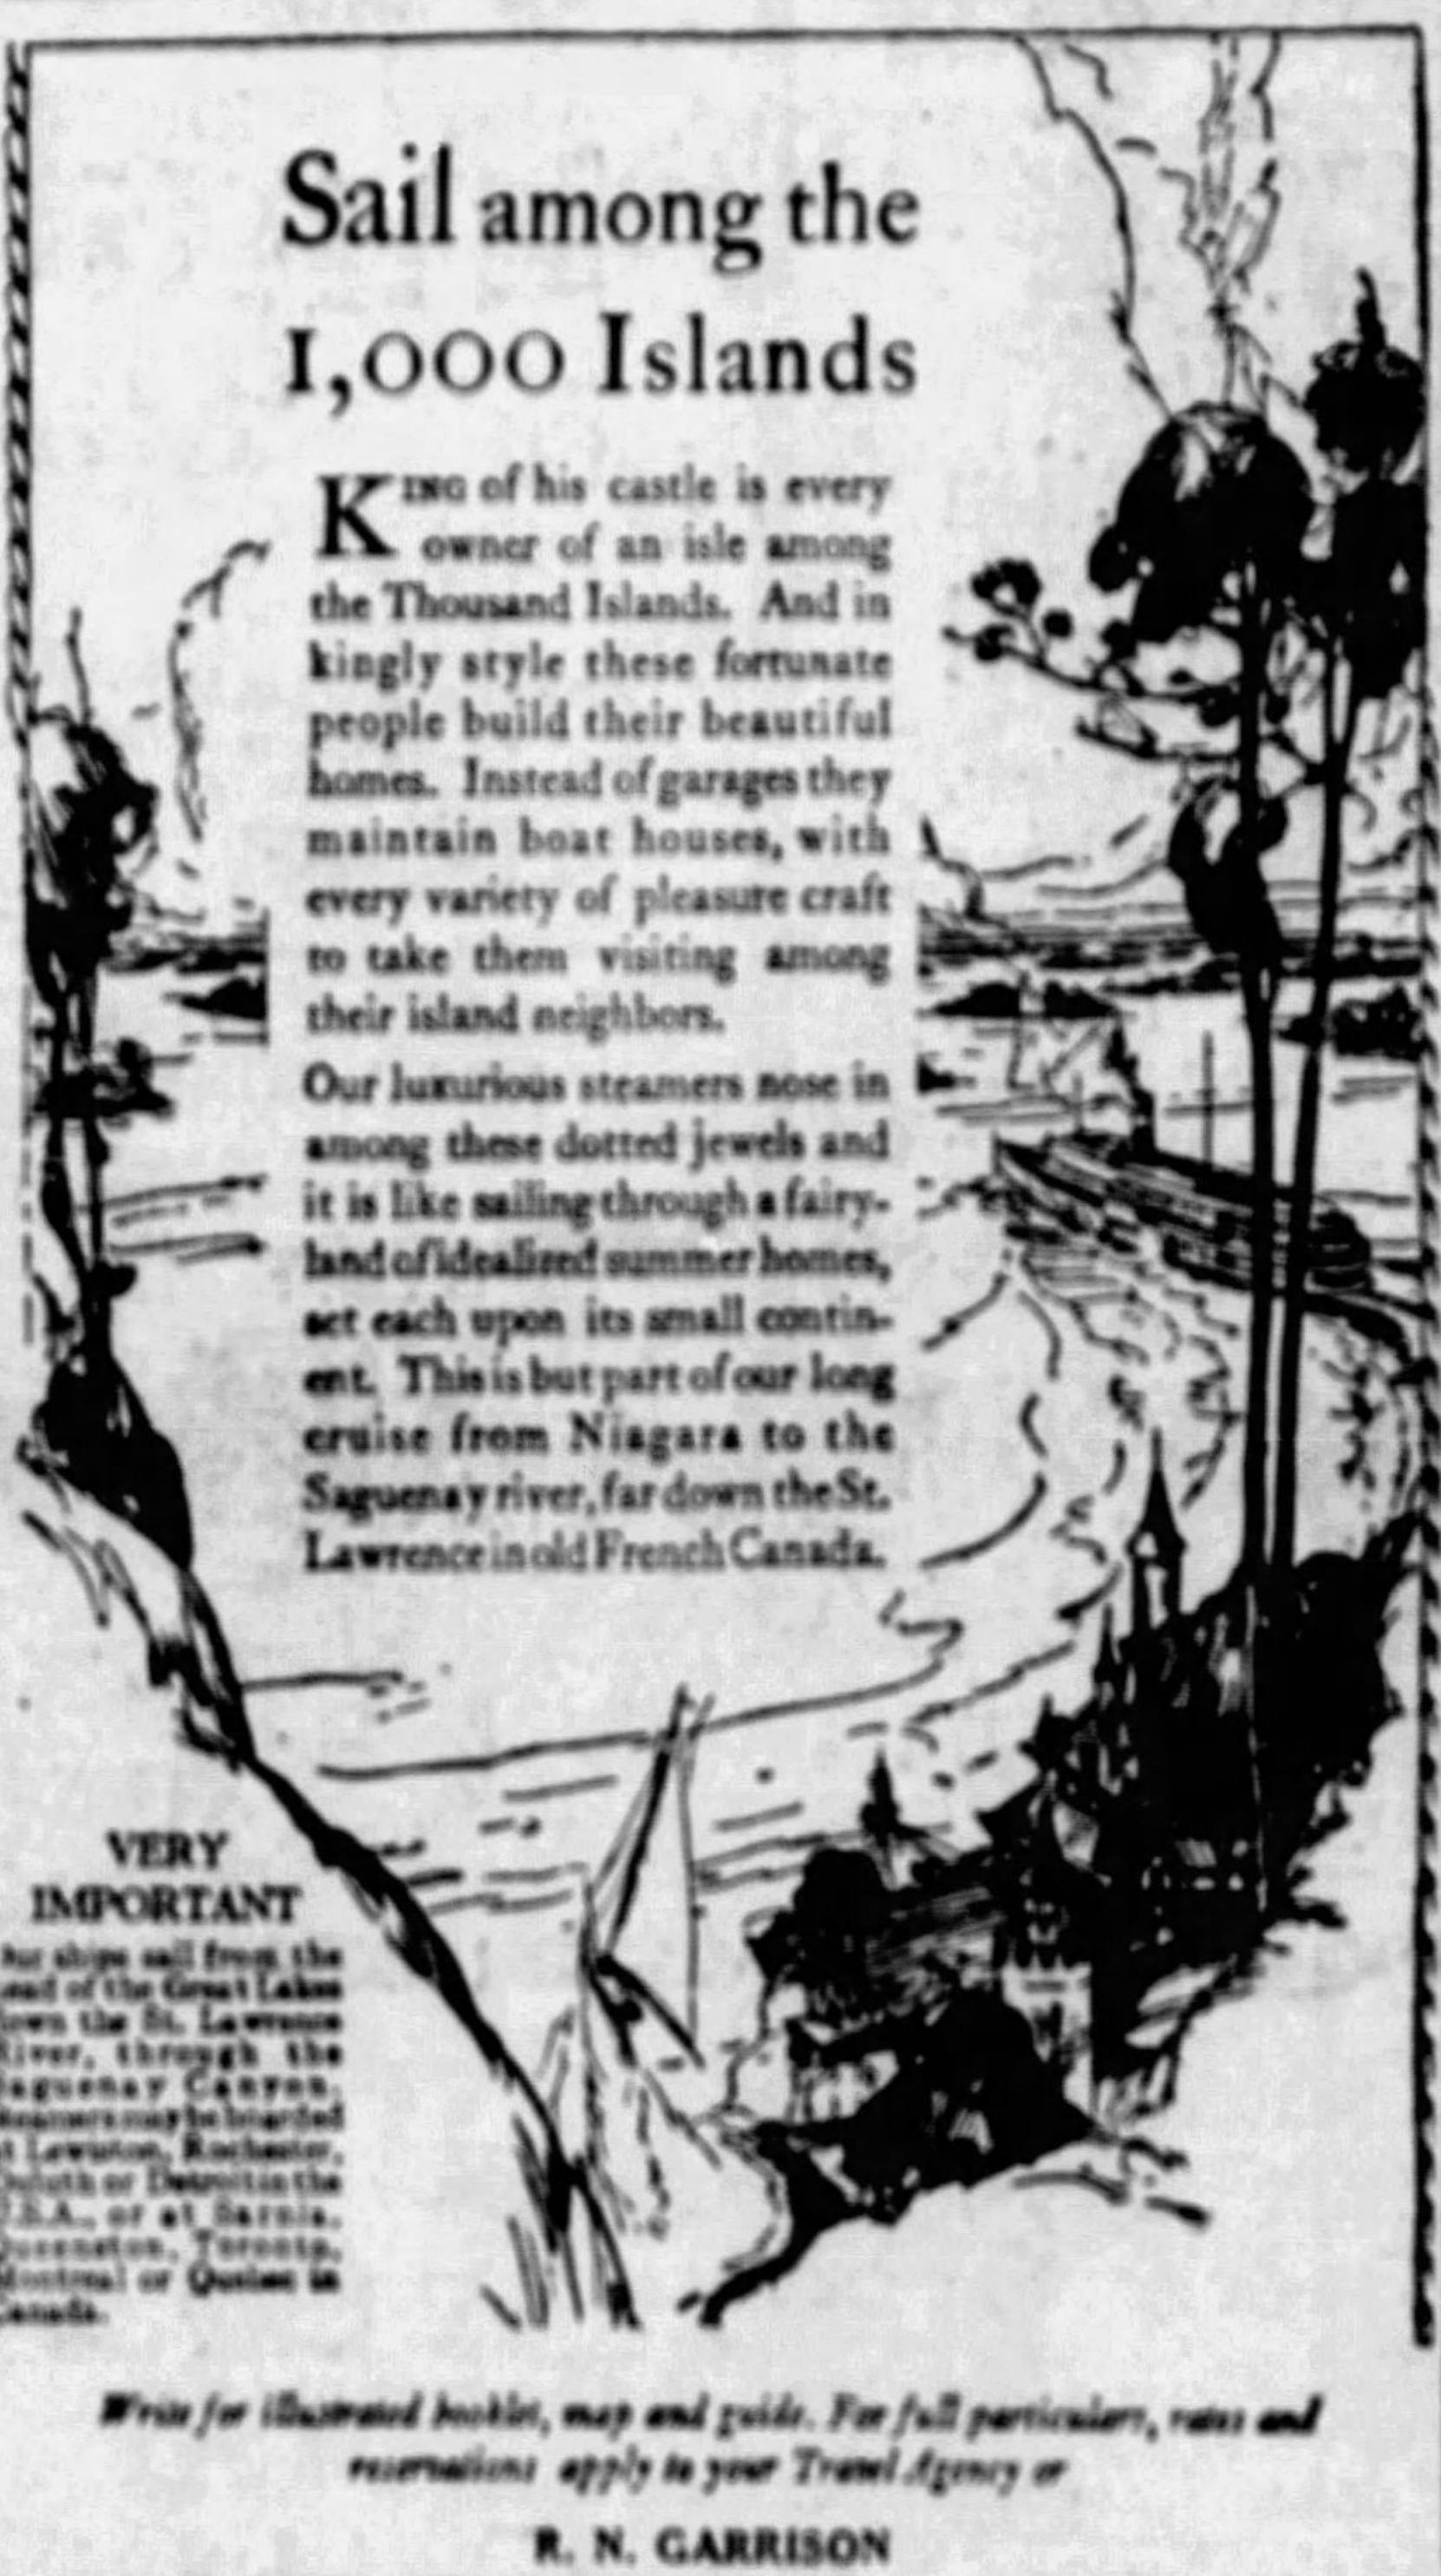
The problem of extinguishing the fire now is in the hands of the city Department of Public Works, the county's efforts to stop the blaze never having succeeded.

The fire is underneath the Pittsburgh-McKeesport boulevard in what formerly was Mifflin Township. The roadway is sinking in places and Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang has asked for $2,000 for repairs and for preliminary work in fighting the fire.

M. E. WELFARE FUND $201,208

Contributions to the $300,000 social welfare fund of the Methodist Episcopal Church Union have reached $201,208, it was announced at the third report dinner of the campaign held last night in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. There were 363 fund leaders and workers present, representing 123 of the 257 churches actively in the appeal.

Bishop Herbert Welch, of the Pittsburgh conference, was the principal speaker. He discussed the social welfare problems faced by the union, especially that of child welfare. John W. Vickerman presided. Progress of the campaign was reviewed by Dr. Sanford W. Corcoran, superintendent of the church union.



Sail among the 1,000 Islands

KING of his castle is every owner of an isle among the Thousand Islands. And in kingly style these fortunate people build their beautiful homes. Instead of garages they maintain boat houses, with every variety of pleasure craft to take them visiting among their island neighbors.

Our luxurious steamers nose in among these dotted jewels and it is like sailing through a fairyland of idealized summer homes, set each upon its small continent. This is but part of our long cruise from Niagara to the Saguenay river, far down the St. Lawrence in old French Canada.

VERY IMPORTANT
Our ships sail from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon. Steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

NINE BURNED IN BLAST RECOVER

Nine workmen burned in an explosion in a building at 1629 Liberty avenue yesterday were recovering today in Allegheny General Hospital.

The men, all Negroes, engaged in razing the structure, took refuge on the second floor when a thundershower broke. One of them lighted a match, and the blast resulted. The building formerly was occupied by the Federal Laboratories, Inc., manufacturers of tear gas and other chemicals.

While examining the ruins, Battalion Chief John Callaghan stepped on a nail. He was treated at Mercy Hospital.

Tree Planters Hurt By Premature Blast

BEAVER, Pa., May 6.—Clarence Zinkham, 35, of R. F. D. 1, was injured about the face and head by the premature explosion of dynamite. He was blasting to plant trees on the William Watterson farm, Brighton Township, when the accident occurred.

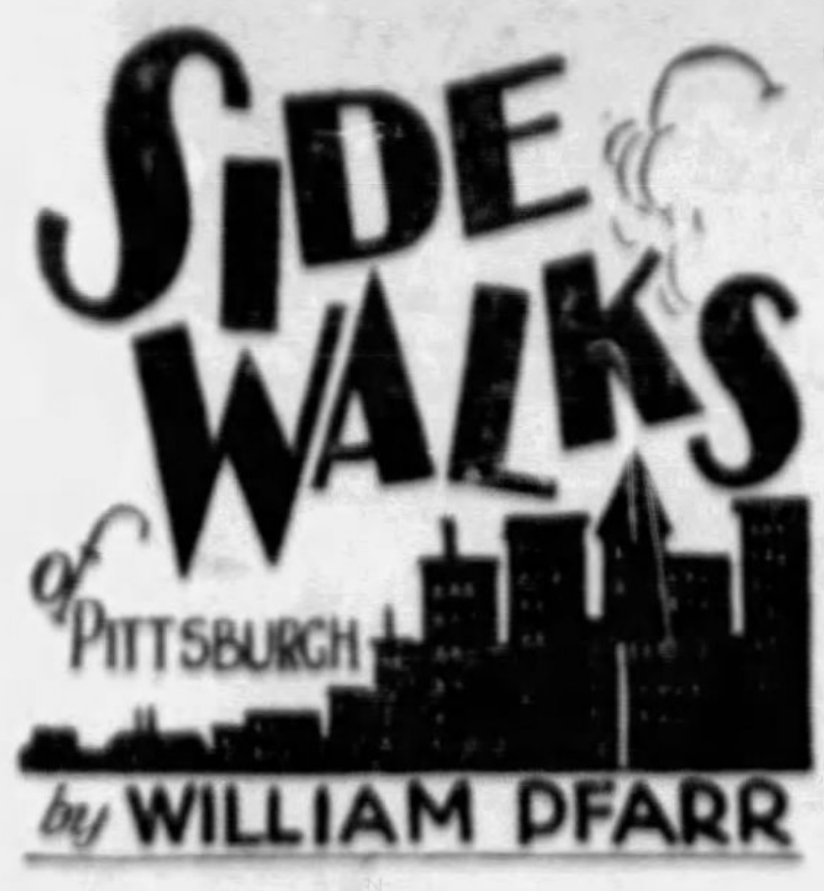
ACT TO OUST 3 OF MT. LEBANON BOARD



SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

William Gillette,
Alias Sherlock Holmes,
Nixon Theater,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Gillette:

It's just like us to run around digging up the past of a fine actor like you, especially when you're playing your last week on the stage in Pittsburgh.

But do you remember 20 years ago, when you were playing "Sherlock Holmes" in Pittsburgh, somebody sneaked into your dressing room—while you were still on the stage — and stole your overcoat? And you asked

YEH- HE ASKED ME TO FIND IT !
SHERLOCK HOLMES ?

Jim Eagan, the desk sergeant at Mt. Washington police station, who was then captain of detectives, to find it, and Jim said, "Find it yourself, you're a better sleuth than I am?"

And you didn't find it?

SIDEWALKS.

From the Lord Baltimore Hotel, which, we see by the stationery, has radio in every room, Elmer Kenyon, who abandoned the Schenley High School faculty for the more interesting business of lecturing for the Theater Guild, writes in answer to our request for an intelligent explanation of whatever good was accomplished by "Strange Interludes."

Mr. Kenyon feels that O'Neill succeeded by pointing out "the ills that are bound to flow from the nervous instability of emotional modern living." Mr. Kenyon says that Nina's last words, "Now I can rot in peace" will hardly entice others to follow in her footsteps.

But we are just as interested in Mr. Kenyon's revelation that he has spies back in Pittsburgh, those same students whom he once coached on the danger of the split infinitive and the advantages of the simple, if not declarative sentence. The piece in which we voiced dissatisfaction with "Strange Interlude" was immediately clipped, so it seems, by all of Mr. Kenyon's young admirers and mailed to him in bundles. The moral is: "Never slander a Kenyon."

He was unimpressive in an old slouch hat, unpressed, none too clean suit, dust-covered shoes, and a beard. At the counter of a downtown restaurant he sat beside two young, well dressed women. One of them turned, cast a critical eye over his makeup and handed him a dime. He ordered a cup of coffee.

The restaurant manager, Maurice Bigelow, approached him as he left his seat to pay his 10-cent check.

"I'll take your check," Bigelow offered.

"Why?" the customer asked.

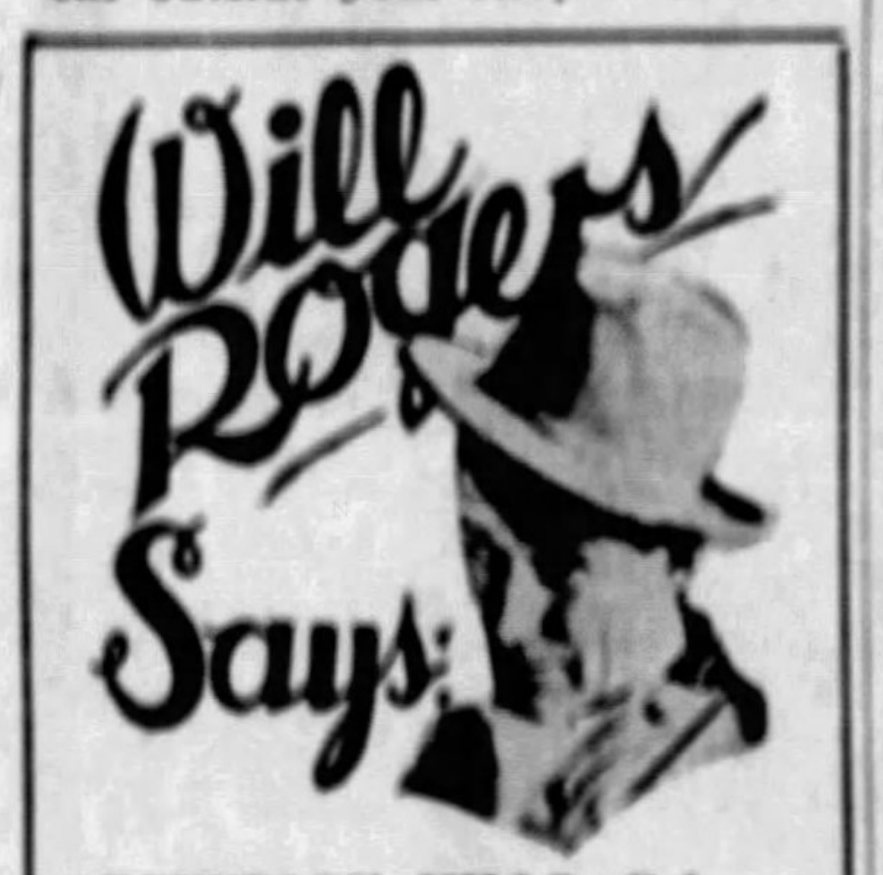
"Well," Bigelow explained, "to be frank, I've been watching you and I think you've been having tough luck. We all have tough luck. If you care to order a full meal, go 'head; I'll sign the check."

"Young man," the visitor spoke, "If one-third of the people in this country were as well off as I, it'd be a better country. I'm the superintendent of the ——— mill. Those two girls are my daughters. I didn't have time to change my clothes after work. We've all just been to a movie. My daughter gave me a dime because I happen to be out of money at the moment. That big car outside your shop is mine."



Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLEY HILLS, Cal.
May 6.

They got Gandhi in jail in India. He preached "liberty without violence." He swore all his followers "to truth and constant poverty." He wanted nothing for himself, not even ordinary comforts. He believed in "prayer and renunciation." Well, naturally a man that's holy couldn't run at large these days. They figured that a crazy man like that was liable to get other people to wanting those fanatical things.

The whole thing just gives you a pretty fair idea of what would happen to our Saviour if he would come on earth today. Why, say, he wouldn't last near as long as he did then. Civilization has got past "truth and poverty and renunciation" and all that old junk. Throw those nuts in jail.

Yours,
WILL.

AUTO INSURING PLAN CALLED INADEQUATE

Financial-Responsibility Law Urged in Pennsylvania at Underwriters' Meeting

Condemning the present basis of compulsory automobile insurance in some states as not being a panacea for motoring ills, William S. Diggs today urged a financial responsibility law in Pennsylvania.

Speaking before delegates to the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania convention in session in William Penn Hotel, Mr. Diggs, president of the Hoover & Diggs Company of Pittsburgh, cited the Massachusetts compulsory law's failures.

He said:

"Compulsory automobile insurance which does not render the owner liable unless he is guilty of negligence, which is the proper basis of such coverage, is wholly impractical.

"There is a growing public demand for protection.

"Nearly every one considers compulsory insurance an ideal remedy. It will not stand close analysis.

"The ever-present shortcomings of the Massachusett law are fully recognized. In 75 per cent of cases claims are improperly made as well as many wrongful settlements.

"A financial responsibility measure should be fostered in Pennsylvania. The proposed law should fit into our present system for establishing rates that are adequate. The law would avoid the confusion apparent in Massachusetts."

An industrial life conference, round table discussions, luncheons and a banquet featured today's program.

James Francis Burke will be toastmaster at the banquet in the hotel tonight, which will be followed by a dance.

11 HELD IN RAID ON SHOW BOAT

As a sequel to a raid on the boat Manitou, docked in the Monongahela River, near the foot of Wood street, last night, three young women and eight men awaited a hearing Friday before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan.

County detectives and deputy sheriffs raided the boat and arrested the women entertainers who are said to have been dancing without costumes and seized reels of alleged uncensored films and gambling paraphernalia.

More than 350 men were aboard the boat when County Detectives Frank Ritz, David Carlin and John Burke, who sat through the show, started the raid. Just then the light switch was pulled, throwing the boat into darkness.

Those arrested, according to detectives, were Louella Jenkins, 22, of Pius street; Betty Wilson, 21, of Sarah street; Alice Skipper, 25, of Carey way; Jack Dale, of Carson street; James Rodgers, of Monticello street; Jack Hadley, of Arch street; W. E. Young, living on a houseboat in the Monongahela River; John G. Kass, of Cobden street; Frank Jackson, of Capital avenue; Joseph M. Barone, of Madison avenue, and Louis Jacobs, of DeSoto street. Barone and Jackson were released on $2,000 bail each and the others committed to jail pending a hearing.

Fall Under Train May Prove Fatal

As a result of falling under the wheels of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train at the Thirteenth street crossing, McKeesport, according to police, William Blaine, 16, of Denver, today was in the McKeesport Hospital in a serious condition following amputation of his right leg. The accident occurred, police said, while Blaine was stealing a ride.

Young Mother of Three Takes Poison on Street

Mrs. Betty Popolio, 22, of 318 West Thirteenth avenue, Homestead, mother of three children, was in Allegheny General Hospital today suffering from the effects of poison swallowed, police say, in a suicide attempt at Water and Smithfield streets, last night.

Mrs. Popolio collapsed after draining the contents of a small bottle. Motorcycle Patrolmen Bert Keller and Nicholas Spudick reported. They took her to the hospital, where her condition was reported fair.

Joseph Popolio, husband of the woman, could ascribe no reason for his wife's act. She left home yesterday morning to meet him in a store in Eighth avenue, Homestead, but failed to meet him, he said.

GIRL UNAFRAID

CHAPTER XXIV.

Before Taits-at-the-Beach reached the scintillating glory of becoming San Francisco's most romantic cafe, it had been a large private dwelling standing in solitary glory on the city's ocean shore.

The long hall, now used for dancing, though ample for a home, was entirely inadequate for the pleasure-seekers which gathered here Saturday nights, and dances quickly evolved into a confused and laughing shuffle.

On the nights when she had come out here with Ken this had been a piquant feature to madcap gayety of the evening, to worm their way through the merry crowd, pressed close and laughing.

But tonight, as she slipped into Tom Corbett's arms, the piquancy was lost. Warm air, stirred lifelessly by the shuffling crowd . . . breathing of crushed flowers and stale perfumes . . . faces swimming by like drowned shadows in the half light . . . she had to fight to keep her spirits from drooping.

Fortunately, Tom was not subtle. He missed the strained note in Ardeth's laughter. He thought only that he had the prettiest girl out here and he told her so. At the sudden smile she flashed him, he caught his breath and a tender warmth crept into his heart.

As they made their slow way down the hall, passing the open doors of the small private dining rooms, Ardeth eyed each one beneath her lashes, hoping—and dreaming—to see Ken.

Sees Ken
He Is in Attendance With Cecile

She had already seen Mary Eastwood and Phyllis Hawkins dancing by. Now, in a small room at the further end of the house she saw the rest of Cecile's party.

Fred Eastwood's broad back turned to the door as he bent to speak to his dinner partner—a woman Ardeth did not recognize. At the end of the table, as coldly beautiful as a moonbeam in a severely smart white, satin dinner dress, was Cecile. Beside her, leaning on one elbow, head bent so the light gleamed on his hair, turning it surprisingly blond above the black of his tuxedo, was Ken.

At the sight of him Ardeth felt her blood rush back to her heart, felt her face go white and pinched. Instinctively she clung to Tom's stocky figure, for her knees went weak.

The man's arm tightened automatically and his gaze, warm with pride, rested on her shining hair.

At that moment Ken raised his head, met Ardeth's wide stare, became transfixed.

A breath of time only; then the measure of the music had carried her by the open door—away from the blue misery in Ken's eyes, and Ardeth dropped her lashes quickly, lest Tom read the wild grief in her face.

Vivacious
Forces Herself to Be Gay

Back at the table, she was determinedly gay. Her sweet, high laugh was frequent; she chatted with a bright vivacity, feeling all the while as though she were in some unhappy dream.

It was an open wound in her mind. She turned on herself with bitter scorn. Well, was she going to stretch herself out for a man to walk on? She seemed to hear the cackle of Aunt Stel's derisive laughter Neil's bitter sneer. Cecile's crisp voice, "I hate a doormat woman!"

She goaded herself to animation, trying to forget the sight of Ken's shining head bent to Cecile. Oh! Withering shame sweeping through her like a bitter wind, leaving desolation in its wake.

Let him have Cecile, if that was the kind he was! Whose heart was broken!

She drooped her bright head close to Tom's shoulder in a dreamy waltz, but her watchful eyes were searching, searching.

Over there — that cool and lovely white satin figure — and Ken.

Tom's arm instinctively tightened as the girl in his clasp sagged a trifle.

But after that she was hectically gay and Tom was entranced. When they danced by the dining room again she felt Ken's eyes upon her. She knew, without looking directly, that he sat in there alone, save for Mary Eastwood.

"You're a lovely thing—" Tom was saying softly.

The golden eyes swept up, startling him by their sudden beauty.

"Not really!" she mocked.

Tom Cuts in
Refuses to Let Ardeth Go

Tom's heavy face kindled to adoration.

"Really!"

Ardeth gasped. Ken suddenly between them. Taking her out of Tom's arms. Saying between light lips:

"Mary wants to talk to you, Tom. Go on in there—I'll finish this—"

The girl had a startled glimpse of the other's face, surprised, affronted. Ken's face, so raw with anguish that her heart jumped. Mary Eastwood's curious eyes watching from the dining room.

Then she was swept into the crowd by Ken, swung away from Tom, who still stood irresolute.

Her heart was pounding, stifling her so that she could not speak. But the man gave her no chance to speak. Eyes dark with anger, nostrils quivering, he said "Think I can stand that? You know Tom's crazy about you and you leading him on——"

She gasped. Her eyes as angry as his own. "You—you—" she sputtered. "You—telling me what to do! After tonight—you let me go!"

She tried to tear out of his arms and he pinned her so close to him that she could not choose but dance.

"You don't know what you're talking about!" his voice was smothered between his teeth. "You don't know, I tell you—God—what I've been through tonight—"

"And I!" her voice was shrill. "I—waiting—poor fool—a doormat—your doormat!" She tried to laugh, and it turned into a dry sob.

DIET NO. 8

To reduce one pound a week, a series of safe and sane diets have been prepared by Dr. A. I. Ringer, consultant on metabolism for the Medical Information Bureau of the New York Academy of Medicine. They are appearing daily in the Sun-Telegraph. Here is the eighth day's diet for tomorrow:

BREAKFAST

One dish of strawberries
Two shirred eggs
One piece of dry toast
Coffee, one cup, with milk (no sugar)

LUNCH

Moderate portion of bluefish
Asparagus salad—without dressing
Endives
One thin slice of bread
Tea, one cup, with milk (no sugar)

DINNER

One plate of chicken broth
Moderate portion of broiled sirloin steak
Combination salad, with lemon juice
One mashed potato
Eggplant

Diet Hints

Don't give up the fight! If you are losing weight gradually and sensibly by following the Sun-Telegraph daily diets, don't undo your good work by eating extra foods not included in the schedule.

Men and women who have an inclination toward obesity have a tendency to store up fat readily. They should always be on their guard, so far as diet is concerned.

The Sun-Telegraph reducing diets can be followed for an indefinite period of time, until the required amount of weight is lost. To avoid monotony in the diet, the daily menus may be varied.

No limit is placed on the amount of vegetables. Moderate portions of meat and fish are recommended. Either one slice of bread or one potato may be included on each lunch and dinner menu.

One-Way Traffic For Citron Way

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark has notified Council that for a trial period of 60 days he has ordered one way traffic westward on Citron way between Federal street and Boyle street. He stated that many motorists are using the way to dodge "red lights."

Club Owner Flees Dry Law Raiders

Twenty-four cases of home brew were seized by prohibition agents in a raid on a club in East Monongahela, yesterday. A man, believed to be the proprietor, fled as the agents neared the place.

Peter Barber, 36, was released on his own recognizance, agents said, following a raid on his home at 1319 Bluff street, where five gallons of moonshine and two cases of home brew were reported confiscated.

Two Held Here in Driving Stolen Auto

William F. Carney, 29, and Joseph Lewis Allanic, 20, both of Washington, D. C., were held for court by the United States Commissioner to answer a charge of transporting a stolen car from Chicago to Irwin, Pa. They were said to have been on their way to Washington when the machine ran out of gasoline.

Firing of Police Head Arouses Civic Club Ire; Legal Action Proposed

The Mt. Lebanon Civic Club today planned a move to oust the chairman of the board of commissioners and two other members, who last night fired Police Chief Charles C. Baldwin after publicly refusing to explain their action.

Chairman Clarence Scheck threw the commissioners' meeting into a furore when, after turning the chair over to F. H. Vitte, he demanded that Baldwin be discharged.

Commissioner L. E. Clark demanded Scheck's reason, and was cheered by the 500 or more persons who thronged the meeting room in the Mt. Lebanon School.

Scheck refused to answer Clark, and sat toying with a pencil while the crowd booed and hissed him, demanding that he be thrown out.

SCHECK CALLED 'LIAR'

After the seven policemen stationed in the room succeeded in restoring order, H. A. Jackson, a citizen, jumped up in the midst of the audience.

"You're a liar, Scheck," he cried. "You told me before the election that Baldwin wouldn't be fired, and I voted for you because you said that."

The crowd took up his words, and while they heckeled Scheck, a vote was taken on the latter's motion. Baldwin was fired by a three to two vote, with Scheck, Vitte and Charles Clatty voting to oust him, and Clark and William Menzilly voting to keep him.

J. V. Long, president of the Civic club, caused laughter when he asked about "that proposed public safety department you fellows are talking about." An ordinance creating the department has had two readings and final action was deferred last night.

MOVE TO OUST SCHECK

At a mass meeting after the commissioners adjournd, Long, Dr. T. M. Herad and Harry W. Watkins asked the crowd of more than 500 to support the club in its plan to remove Scheck, Vitte and Clatty.

Many agreed to sign as members of the club. Proper procedure as to the method of ousting the three commissioners is being determined, Long said.

Clark declared that Scheck's action regarding Baldwin was "shameful."

"It's a reflection on our township," he said. "Baldwin has been chief eight years now, and his work has always been above reproach. Scheck's petty politics in getting rid of him so that he can put a friend of his in, is shameful."

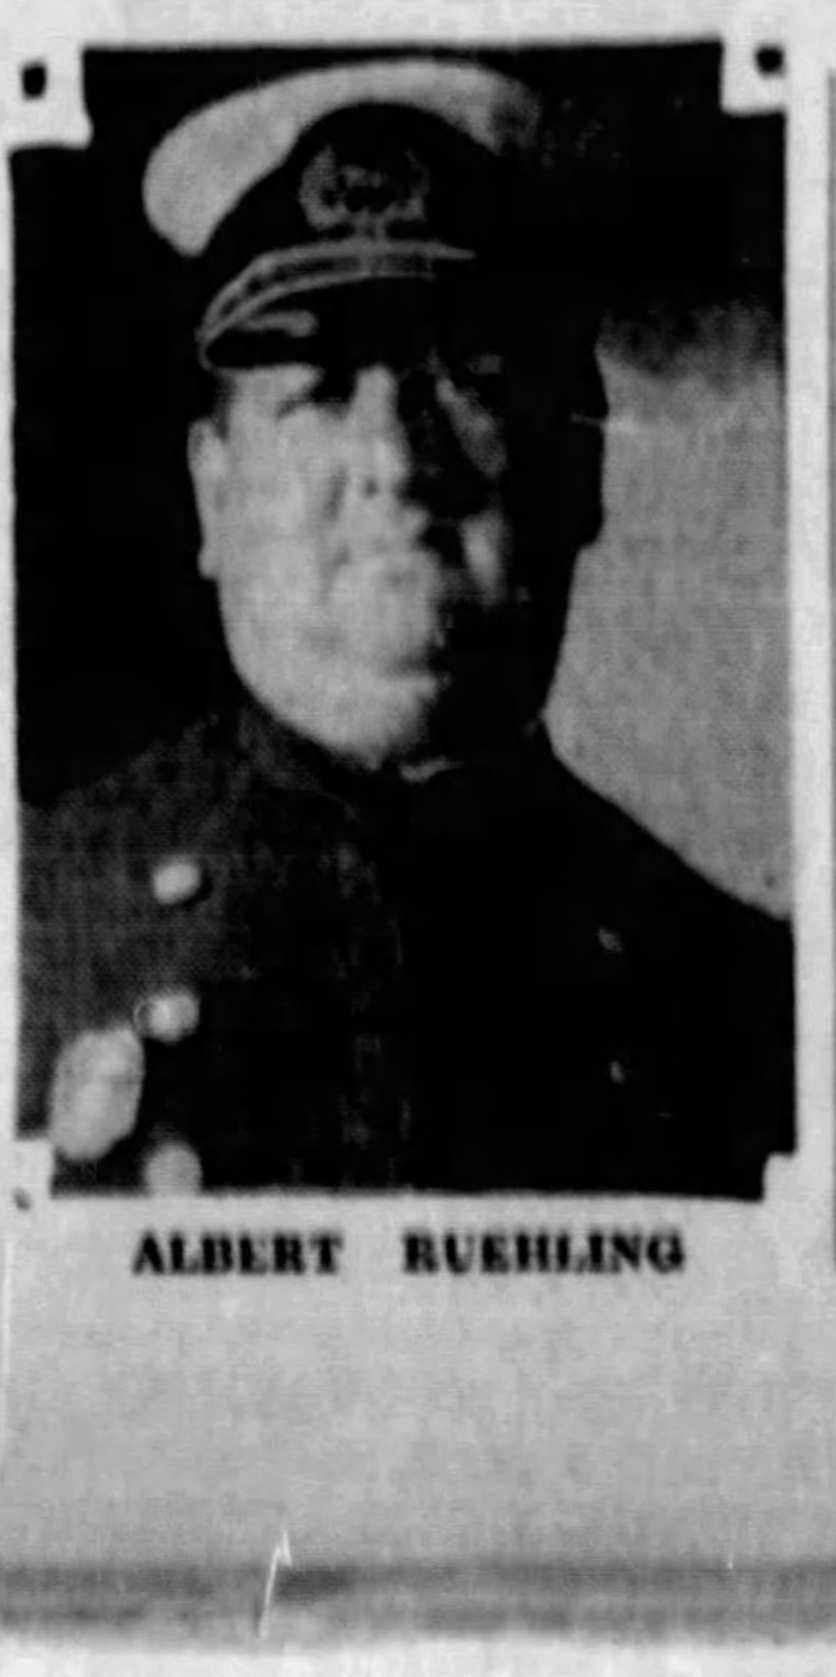
SCHECK'S STATEMENT

Scheck said today Chief Baldwin refused to obey the commissioner and the township manager, and came and went as he pleased.

"Baldwin was never duly elected chief. Years ago he was appointed an officer. As the county grew and new officers were added—well, we looked to Baldwin as the chief. He bought himself a badge, but he had no authority as a chief.

"Last night we voted to discharge him because he was insubordinate, refused to report to the township manager, wouldn't recognise our authority and because he came and went as he pleased."

Dormont Police Chief Dies On Mother's Burial Day



ALBERT RUEHLING

Double tragedy gripped the family of Police Chief Albert Ruehling, 49, of Dormont, today.

His mother, Mrs. Minnie Ruehling Miller, wife of Christopher Miller, of 412 Industry street, was buried this afternoon. She died Saturday.

Chief Ruehling died at 5:30 a. m. today at his home, 1347 Illinois avenue, Dormont. His wife, worn out from nursing him during his illness of a month, is under the care of a nurse.

Chief Ruehling was the first police officer of Dormont borough, and had been a member of the department 17 years. For several years he was the only policeman in the borough, and had held the title of chief throughout his career.

NASHUA STARTS RELIEF WORK

NASHUA, N. H., May 6.—(INS.) Its derbis-covered streets patrolled by national guardsmen, Nashua turned today to reconstruction work and caring for more than 700 persons left homeless by Sunday's fire.

An appeal for $1,000,000 by public subscription to aid the flames' victims was made by city officials, who estimated property damage at from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

Two persons, an aged woman and her grandson, were reported missing and may have been burned to death.

her gently. "No! You don't know what you're talking about —I've got to tell you"—

She lifted bright, indignant eyes. "You have nothing to say to me—not anything—ever again"—

He was white to the lips. "Perhaps you're right—perhaps it's best. But you must know"—

The music stopped and she tore herself out of his arms. Walked back to the table, threading her way through the crowd so that he could not reach her to speak.

He followed, stood for a moment as she took her chair.

"Ardeth"—he stopped, white misery turning his face to a mask. She would not lift her head. He made a queer futile gesture with his hands. Suddenly walked away.

Ardeth saw, through eyes blurred with angry tears, that Tom had seated himself in the chair opposite. Tom's broad face was very grave. He studied her downcast eyes for a moment then nodded slowly.

"So, that's it . . ." he said softly. "Ken—isn't it, Ardeth?"

It did not seem strange that it should be Tom Corbett sitting there talking so quietly and so intimately with her.

A queer puckered look about Tom's mouth. As though he tasted defeat and found it was not sweet.

"Ken . . ." he said again. He reached over, placed a heavy hand over her own where it picked at the tablecloth.

"Little kid," said Tom softly. "Don't get hurt, little kid."

HEAR APPEAL IN DIVORCE

On the ground that the decree in divorce which Harry Schreiber, 5521 Stanton avenue, obtained from his wife, Rose Schreiber, was not justified, argument on the wife's appeal to set it aside was heard before the Superior Court.

The couple were married August 18, 1925, and lived together until June 9, 1928. For a time they occupied an apartment over the garage owned by Schreiber's father in Mellon street, in order to cut down expenses. There were frequent quarrels, and, according to the argument presented to the court, there were three actual occurrences of physical abuse on the part of the wife.

It is alleged Mrs. Schreiber struck her husband on several occasions, Schreiber also alleging his wife constantly "nagged" him. The husband avers that "wild parties" were held. This the wife denied, together with allegations of intoxication. It was alleged at the trial that the libellant's parents were actually the cause of their marital difficulties.

The wife questions the right of the court to grant a decree alleging the facts presented by the libellant were distorted and if they occurred, were provoked by him.

Traffic Violation Charged 'Hacker'

Dennis H. Ward, 26, of 217 Dunseith street, was arrested at Smithfield and Water streets early today on a charge of violating the automobile laws. Police said he was "hacking" without a license.

Harry S. Ward, 41, of 1246 Sheffield street, a taxicab driver, was arested at Sixth avenue and Liberty street last night after, police said, he ran through a red light.

Man Dies on Street Of Heart Failure

George Terry, 40, of 4903 Baum boulevard, was found unconscious by police at Itasco street and Shore avenue, North Side, early today. He was sent to Allegheny General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead from heart failure.

ACCEPTS CALL TO AVALON

The Rev. J. Norman Hunter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Blairsville, Pa., has accepted a call to the Avalon Presbyterian Church and will take his new charge about June 15.

He was graduated from the Western Theological Seminary, in 1912. He held pastorates at Princeton, Lawrence County, and at Bakerstown, before going to Blairsville. He succeeds the Rev. James E. Detweiler, who went to St. Louis as a Presbyterian missionary society secretary.

Extortion Charged, Butler Man Held

BUTLER, Pa., May 6.—James C. King, 51, of Butler, is in jail on charges of attempting to extort money from banks and individuals of Butler County. State police and a private detective have been working on the case for several months. King is accused of writing letters in which demands for money were made.

King denies writing the letters. He was unable to furnish $3,000 bond.

2 COUNCILMEN QUIT OFFICE

Councilmen Charles T. Robertson and Thomas John, of West Homestead, members of the minority faction in borough council, tendered their resignations last night and within less than an hour their places had been filled. John was ousted from the last meeting of Council, after he had berated other members of the body. Robertson left because of the arguments.

John R. Boig, general superintendent of the Mesta Machine Company plant in West Homestead, and W. C. Weghorst, were named to fill the vacancies.

Woman Declared Of Unsound Mind

TITUSVILLE, Pa., May 6.—Mrs. Elizabeth Bigenhoe, who resides in Athens Township, held on charges of larceny, and suspected of setting fire to the Center school house, has been adjudged of unsound mind. She will be sent to the Warren Hospital.

Mrs. Bigenhoe came to Little Cooley from Pittsburgh about a year ago.

SCOUTS' DRIVE NEARS GOAL

Boy Scout campaign workers in Homestead today were confident that their goal of $10,000 would be reached before the end of the week. Contributions amounting to more than $9,000 were reported at a meeting held in Stahl's Garden yesterday.

Jack Starry, coach of the Carnegie Athletic Club of Homestead, presented Bert F. Klein, president of the Scout Council, a dozen baseballs bearing the autograph signature of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. The balls were sold to the highest bidders at the meeting.

Clark Asks Council For 3 New Trucks

The Division of Weights and Measures wants three new trucks to replace three that have been in operation since April, 1924, and have a total mileage of more than 100,000 miles.

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark had the necessary ordinance presented in Council. The total cost would not exceed $2,500.

BOROUGH QUIZ CLEARS MYERS

Patrolman Joseph Myers, of the Brackenridge police, was back on his beat today, after having been reinstated by members of the borough council at a meeting last night. He was suspended two weeks ago following the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Klenis, of Tarentum, who was hurt fatally when an automobile in which she was riding with the patrolman crashed April 15. Myers was injured, but recovered after spending four days in the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington.

Myers was exonerated of blame by a coroner's jury recently and council vindicated him after an investigation. He resumed his duties a few minutes after being re-instated.

Brackenridge was still on eastern time today, Clarence Smith, president of council, having declared the body had no authority to change to daylight time. Other members concurred.

LEGACY READY FOR FILM STAR

Final details of the $68,005.94 estate share turned over to Lois Moran, Pittsburgh film star, were being completed here today by the actress's mother, Mrs. Gladys Evans Moran.

The screen star did not accompany her mother here. The estate was given to her last week by a distribution decree. It was held in trust until Miss Moran became of age March 1. It was part of the estate of her grand-aunt, Mrs. Mary Darlington Ammon, who died in 1919.

Realty Owners War On Tax Increase

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board reports that many property owners have been enlisted in an organization to fight against increased local taxes on real estate. Literature on the campaign has been mailed to 4,000 prominent citizens. All of the owners whose properties are handled by members of the board are being seen personally. A number of large estates in the downtown district have joined the property owners' organization.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interested.

Today's Question: C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, contends that a police officer, instead of being given a sketchy half hour lecture and a badge and a gun as an introduction to his duties, should receive a definite course of instruction in law enforcement. What is your opinion in the matter?

HERBERT SNIDERMAN, North Side, census taker: It is my opinion that every policeman should be compelled to attend some sort of training school where they can be instructed in law enforcement. We would have better police if such schools were popular.

H. Sniderman

MARLIN WALKER, East End, clerk: To be a good police officer is no easy thing and requires some knowledge of law and its enforcement. If police received instruction along these lines they would know exactly what to do in emergencies.

Marlin Walker

C. E. BLOCKINGER, Carrick, census taker: Every policeman should know how to handle a case when he gets one. Just because he can shoot straight does not make a man a good officer. Everybody would be better off if the police knew their law and how to enforce it.

C. E. Blockinger

BELLE FINESILVER, Squirrel Hill, secretary: In order to enforce a code of laws a policeman should understand them. It is not enough that he has a shield pinned to his coat or a gun in his pocket. Guns and shields do not make a policeman efficient.

Miss Finesilver

MARGARET LA VELLE, Brookline, stenographer: Everybody engaged in business has had to have certain instruction before they really understand their work. The same should be true of police. Let them receive instruction in law enforcement.

Miss LaVelle

MAXINE HITE, Dormont, secretary: Without a knowledge of how to enforce laws the police are at a loss. They will not have confidence in themselves and, therefore, slip up in their duties. A good officer knows the law and knows what to do in enforcing it.

HOSPITAL PLANS FLOWER DAY

The Children's Hospital is planning its annual flower day, slated this year for May 17. Linked with society women and debutantes of the city who work in the clinics of the infirmary, the tag day will see nearly 2,000 of Pittsburgh's fairest daughters on the streets, asking contributions for the cause of Pittsburgh's child health.

The appeal is made for funds to operate the hospital during the current year. Children's cases occupy the attention of its clinics and staff. A large amount of charitable work is done in the clinics, with the result that a large budget must, officials say, be financed by contributions secured on the annual tag day.

St. Francis Xavier Will Repeat Play

APPEAL HEARD IN ANNEXATION

An appeal from the act of City Council and the mayor in annexing a portion of Penn Township to the City of Pittsburgh, was argued yesterday before the Superior Court.

The section involved begins at a line in Frankstown avenue, intersecting with Penn Township and the City of Pittsburgh and extends along Frankstown avenue eastward for a distance of 830 feet, northward for a distance of 368 feet, south a distance of 409 feet and thence west 892 feet, to the point of beginning.

In Quarter Sessions Court, Judge Thomas J. Ford dismissed the appeal of certain citizens to have the annexation of the proposed territory set aside. A petition was presented to have a partial rehearing and this was refused by Judge Harry H. Rowand, whereupon the anti-annexationists took an appeal to the Superior Court.

Wins $10,000 Verdict In Auto Accident

Dr. J. R. Hysong, Fort Worth, Fla., formerly of Sharon, won a $10,000 verdict in Common Pleas Court against the J. Kenney Transfer Company for injuries received June 26, 1926, when his automobile was ditched. Dr. Hysong, who is a dentist, blamed the accident on a swinging trailer of the defendant company. It occurred on the Mercer-Sharon road. Dr. Hysong claims his injuries interfered with his practice. Judge Samuel H. Gardner heard the case.

Group Here to Aid U. S. In County Coal Census

The United States government this year will take a census of coal consumption by counties and cities of over 10,000 population, instead of by states, it was announced yesterday in Washington. This is the first time that the census has been taken in this manner, a plan which was advocated by the local chamber of commerce for several months.

The Department of Census yesterday notified Frank Shaffer, manager of the natural resources division of the chamber, and requested the aid of the Pittsburgh group in gathering this material. Today, Shaffer is busy sending out appeals to local mining concerns, urging them to turn over all possible production figures to the census bureau as soon as possible.

The census results, when made known, will enable mining concerns to devise methods for finding continuous outlets for their production with a minimum of selling costs. In addition to information on coal consumption, facts pretaining to the channels of distribution, as well as to distributors of coal, will be obtained, Shaffer stated. All information is to be treated confidentially and will not be used for taxation or inquisitorial purposes, Shafer said.

FATAL SHOOTING CASE HEARD

With the State asking a first degree verdict with the death penalty, Genario Piarielo, 55, Highland avenue, Stowe township, today heard witnesses testify against him before Visiting Judge William T. Darr, of Jefferson County, in Criminal Court. Five women and seven men comprise the jury.

Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Adair told the jury he would prove that Piarielo shot Anthony Colosimo, 36, a contractor of 403 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, last November 29 in a new building at 813 Broadway, Stowe Township, which the builder had just completed for the defendant, following a dispute over cracks in the plaster and other alleged construction defects.

Mrs. Julia Kruskevich, who had just moved into the second floor of the new building, testified today to hearing Colosimo arguing with someone and then hearing the shots. Piarielo was arrested six weeks after the shooting in Crestline, O., where he is alleged to have fled. Most of yesterday was occupied with the selection of the jury and testimony of the coroner.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk See Noted Actors

Neither spring showers nor languor could keep society folks away from the theaters last night with two notable actors appearing at both houses.

Walter Hampden was in "Richelieu" at the Alvin and William Gillette paid his farewell visit to Pittsburgh last night in his creation, "Sherlock Holmes." Both houses attracted hosts of exquisitely gowned women and men in their smart formal attire.

It was a brilliant, enthusiastic audience last evening that heard Walter Hampden at the Alvin in the striking and famous role of Richelieu. I saw Mary Shiras wearing a gown of rose crepe, princess mode, and very long, of course. With her was Margaret Merrill, of Washington, and Margaret was wearing a gown of poudre blue lace, reaching the instep in many pointed godets. As they were leaving the theater I noticed that Mary was wearing a wrap of black velvet with a white fox collar, and her guest wore black velvet, too, with the collar featuring a novel scarf, faced with white velvet, forming a bow at the back. Adding a piquant touch of spring color were her rose slippers.

Smart Gowns

At the Nixon folks stayed until the final curtain at 11:30 o'clock. During the intermission many chatted with friends in the lobby.

Among those I noticed talking with friends was Mrs. Reginald Rinehart Church, looking distinctive in a cream lace gown, made with a full skirt and molded bodice. A huge bow of rose ribbon at the side gave a quaint touch.

And Col. and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church I noticed when they arrived, with Mrs. Church in dahlia chiffon. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Heinroth came to see William Gillette, as did Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., who chose a gown of old blue brocaded chiffon.

Others I saw in the audience were Mrs. George Pearson in black chiffon and Mrs. George Singer Ebbert in black lace and chiffon. Mrs. Ralph W. Harbison, I caught a glimpse of, too.

Talking with friends in the lobby was Mrs. John A. Byerly, who wore an interesting gown of black chiffon with a bodice of cream lace and with brief sleeves of the same lace.

Chiffon Vogue

Mrs. George C. Burgwin was in dahlia chiffon, with slippers of the same color, and the Simon T. Pattersons were there, with Mrs. Patterson wearing an evening gown of flowered chiffon.

I saw Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Jr., in an informal blue and white printed frock, and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Jones, III. Mrs. Jones wore a smart gown of black chiffon and tulle with pearl shoulder straps. Her wrap was of black velvet with a scarf of yellow panne velvet.

Talking with her in the lobby was Betty Scott in an interesting frock of wisteria lace boasting brief puff sleeves.

Among the late arrivals were the Gordon Kings, with Mrs. King wearing a white chiffon gown scattered with an orchid flower motif. Talking with friends in the lobby during the intermissions were the William A. Duckhams, with Mrs. Duckham in a grey ensemble. Margaret Stewart wore a smart spring frock of white crepe, sprinkled with small pink and blue flowers. Two circular flounces formed the skirt and a novel cape collar of the same material extended in the back to the waist-line.

Lace Smart

The Junior Wallace Hurtte Rowes I saw chatting with Florence Carroll, who wore a gown of pale jade green lace, with a cape of lace falling from the low back decolletage. Mrs. Rowe wore a simple frock of black satin.

And I saw Mrs. William D. Hamilton there, too, and with her were her two house guests, Mrs. Benjamin Chase, of Syracuse, formerly of New York, and Mrs. Marjorie L. Munroe. Mrs. Hamilton was wearing a gown of green chiffon, very long, and her wrap was of black velvet, collared with white fox. Mrs. Chase wore black chiffon and white lace, and Mrs. Munroe looked tall and striking in a gown of apricot chiffon, reaching the instep, and her wrap was a brief jacket of water green taffeta.

Dog Show

And of course I must tell you about the date of the annual dog show. The show is always a popular event, planned days and days ahead of time. This year it will be on Saturday, June 28, in the show ring of the Allegheny Country Club.

The proceeds of the affair are used to defray the expenses of the social service department of the Allegheny General Hospital.

And, of course, society folks give their assistance to the show, and a prominent worker is Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, and aiding her are Mrs. Christian Ihmsen Shannon, Mrs. J. Frederic Byers, Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mrs. A. Marshall Bell, Mrs. Lewis A. Park, Mrs. Thomas Atterbury McGinley, Mrs. B. F. Jones, III, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Mrs. Robert Milligan, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mrs. H. Norton Van Voorhis, Mrs. William Bacon Schiller, Mrs. Sidney Liggett, Mrs. George Crawford, Mrs. William Booth Trainer, Mrs. James H. Childs, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. Frank Ward Severance, Mrs. W. S. Mitchell, Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., and Mrs. H. L. Mason.

June Bride

Miss Hallie Harper Wager, daughter of Mrs. Charles Crawford Wager, of the Schenley Farms terrace, has named June 25 as the date for her marriage to Daniel S. Newman, of Pittsburgh. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock that afternoon in St. Paul's Cathedral.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Trexler, of Allentown, announce the marriage of their daughter, June Margaret Trexler, to David G. Hood, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Hood, of Potomac avenue, Dormont, which took place Thursday, May 1. After Saturday they will be at home in Dormont. Both are graduates of Pennsylvania State College.

The Pittsburgh Country Club has scheduled several social events for May. On Tuesday, May 13, there will be a bridge luncheon for the women members. Every Thursday, except May 15, there will be a special dinner, and on May 15 there will be a bridge-dinner. There also will be a Memorial Day dinner and dance. Every Saturday there will be a special dinner and every Sunday of the month there will be a buffet supper.

To Sail May 15

Miss Madeline B. Rosenbaum, daughter of Mrs. Eva H. Rosenbaum, of Darlington road, who recently gave her farewell recital at the Hotel Schenley, will sail from New York May 15 on the Tuscania to continue her piano studies in Europe. Mrs. Eva Frosh Lehmann, under whom she has studied for the last four years, will accompany her. Miss Rosenbaum expects to make Berlin her base, studying under the famous music masters of Germany, France and Switzerland and remaining abroad indefinitely.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Gardiner, of San Diego, Cal., have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Louise Gardiner, of Pittsburgh, to Victor Saudek, also of Pittsburgh. Miss Gardiner's mother is visiting her in the Adrian Apartments.

Miss Gladys Vance is general chairman of the annual spring dance to be given May 16 by the Western Pennsylvania Hospital Alumnæ in honor of the graduating class. The affair will take place in the ball room of the Hotel Schenley.

Press Club Nominates Officers

Miss Mary L. Hay was nominated as president of the Women's Press Club at the May meeting held yesterday. Instead of meeting, as is their custom, in the Woman's City Club, the members were guests at a charming little tea in Mrs. Edmund M. Ashe's home, Murdock street. The nominating committee, composed of Miss Ruby Eiseman, Miss Myra Sawhill and Miss Catherine Patterson, submitted the ticket for election next month, the officers named including, besides Miss Hay for president, Miss Marie McSwigan, first vice president; Miss Helen Donnelly, second vice president; Mrs. Helen Shaffer Collins, secretary; Miss Frances Walker, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh, treasurer. The directors nominated are Mrs. Albert J. Dawson, Mrs. A. W. Smith, Jr., Miss Bernice Shine, Mrs. C. M. Bouton, Mrs. Jane G. Burtnett and Miss Annabelle Craig.

Mrs. Ashe was assisted by Mrs. Norwood MacGilvray and Mrs. William White.

Musical Program

The musical program will be a pleasing feature tomorrow at the closing luncheon of the music department, Congress of Clubs. It will be presented by Janet Turner, violin, with Edith Weikal at the piano, and George Miller, piano soloist. Miss Turner will give "Rigaudon," by Monsigny; a Brahms waltz, the Rameau-Kreisler "Tambourin," "Bird as Prophet," by Schumann-Auer, and Kreisler's "Old Refrain." Mr. Miller's numbers will be Grainger's "In a Country Garden," two Brahms waltzes arranged by Freidman and Debussy's "Fireworks."

Dr. Charles N. Boyd, of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute, is to speak on "Musical Amateurs."

Mrs. Harry Dennison and Mrs. J. A. Gesler are joint hostesses today in Mrs. Dennison's home, Teece avenue, Bellevue, at a luncheon meeting of Lincoln Park Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle.

Mrs. Robbins A. Haddock, Jr., of South Graham street, East End, will entertain the junior circle tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. The program will close with a talk on the primary by Mrs. J. Wood Clark.

Closing Year

A picnic luncheon at the home of Mrs. Charles J. Mundo, in Beechwood boulevard, next Monday will close the year for the Pittsburgh Colony of New England Women. Election of officers will be held that day also.

Officers Elected

These officers were elected yesterday by the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg: President, Mrs. W. C. Graham; vice presidents, Mrs. James I. McLallen and Mrs. R. C. Beerbower; recording and corresponding secretaries, Mrs. R. T. Kintsing and Mrs. J. D. Flude; assistant secretary, Mrs. John L. Crouse; treasurer, Mrs. John M. Lessells.

The final meeting of the year will be the annual luncheon on May 24 at the Pittsburgh Country Club, with a program of music and readings to follow. The drama department will close its year with a meeting next Tuesday morning in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel.

Mrs. S. H. Augustine, of South Dithridge street, will be hostess Saturday afternoon for the meeting of the Keystone Chapter, Daughters of American Pioneers. Assistant hostesses include Mrs. T. P. Fleeson, Miss Jennie Knox, Mrs. W. P. Larimer and Mrs. T. H. Musgrave. Mrs. William Price will report on the donations given last month to the Children's Hospital; Mrs. A. M. Saunders will tell of her recent trip to Europe, and Miss Sarah Black will discuss current events.

The Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh is planning a rally of its members and friends in International Institute House Thursday evening. There will be a program of entertainment and reports of the recent national convention.

DESIGNERS SPONSOR SOME UNUSUAL FABRIC MERGERS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, MAY 6.—If you take stock in fashion, you will notice that this season you can get your share of personality preferred. Never has it been so possible to individualize one's personality through the medium of one's clothes, and still be part of the sartorial picture. A vast range of clothes are in style, though, of course, strict care should be exercised, that, despite the tolerance of the mode, a sartorial faux pas is not committed. An embarrassment of riches is always penalized by the necessity of constant vigilance, and this applies to fashion, as well as to other things. Do not experiment rashly with costume jewelry or other accessories, let your costume be individual, with originality displayed in the choice of materials or trimmings but see that all other touches are appropriate.

THE MODE has been responsible for some strange mergers in a material way, since last season, and still they come. A recent and certainly most startling one is a frock made of satin, trimmed with pique and worn with a linen jacket. Despite the strange alliance, the costume is quite a delightful affair and is essentially wearable by the type of woman who is an adept at donning a striking outfit and then promptly forgetting all about it. Anyway, so that you may judge the looks of said suit for yourself we have had two sketches of it made for your scrutiny. Patou had used heavy black satin for the frock, and has chosen as its trimming, a gilet and bow-knot of white pique. The soft folds at the waistline are laid in tiny pleats which pass under an appliqued band in front. This band forms part of a wide panel with a circular movement at the lower edge of the skirt and inverted pleats at the side.

WITH THE DRESS is worn a tailored jacket of gray linen, which you must concede is a most unusual combination with black satin. But somehow it contrives to be delightfully smart. It nips in at the waistline ever so slightly and fastens with one button. A pink gardenia worn as a bouttoniere emphasizing the debonair appearance of the jacket, as contrasted with the sombre satin frock.

CLUB NOTES

The Literary and Musical Club will bring its year to a close with a luncheon June 2 at the College Club. Yesterday's meeting was held as usual in the Business Women's Club, Arch street, the musical portion of the program consisting of three piano numbers by Mrs. J. R. McGregor and vocal and whistling solos by Mrs. Louise Metz Craig, a guest of the afternoon. Miss Lillian O. Sprague's paper on Byrd's expedition, Miss Alice Benning's on "The Duties of United States Ambassadors Abroad," which was read by Mrs. William B. Epley, and a deferred paper by Mrs. Adelaide Cornell on "Poland and Danzig Free States," read by Mrs. Walter Use, formed the literary part.

The ticket committee for the benefit bridge and bazar at the Congress of Clubs the afternoon of May 16, includes the executive board and Miss Helen Bennett, Mrs. F. H. Burdick, Miss Alice Hall, Mrs. J. B. Hermes, Miss Erma Jones, Mrs. Chester F. Johnston, Mrs. Sydney Kaufmann, Mrs. J. F. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell, Mrs. C. W. Parker, Mrs. Louis Rott, and Mrs. J. Charles Wilson. The board of directors, department and committee chairmen are sponsoring the affair.

An illustrated lecture, papers and music made up the program yesterday for the Monday Club of Carnegie which met in the First Presbyterian Church, with the executive committee members as hostesses. Under Mrs. T. Wray Greer's leadership, the program was given by Mrs. D. J. Walter and Mrs. Bertha Galbraith, who had the papers; Mrs. Oliver Heck, who sang, accompanied by Mrs. John Bigham, and Dr. S. H. Williams, who gave the lecture, all in keeping with the club's study of South America.

A change has been made in the place for the Forum's monthly card party tomorrow and Mrs. C. L. Griffith, of California avenue, Avalon, will be hostess instead of Mrs. L. B. Carroll. Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Carl Ruhe, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. J. L. Forster and Mrs. Samuel E. Diescher will be assistant hostesses.

* * *

The proceeds of the benefit theater party which the Montefiore Aid Society will have at the Pitt this evening will go toward defraying the cost of the $4,000 ambulance automobile which the society recently presented to the hospital.

GERMANS HOOT FRENCH OPERA

BERLIN, May 6.—(AP.)—The modernistic operatic biography "Christoph Kolumbus" composed by Darius Milhaud, French composer, and Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, had its world premiere amid an uproar here last night.

The performance of the opera, based on the life of Christopher Columbus and calling in the aid of motion pictures to supplement the singer, ended with 15 minutes of pandemonium.

Enthusiasts in the pits tested their lungs against derisive whistling and cat-calls emanating apparently from a crowd of young German Fascists in the galleries. The applause finally drowned out the cat-calls, but not until the iron curtain had come down did the uproar cease.

"Christoph Kolumbus" uses actors, orchestra and movies together. It requires certain of the soloists to appear on the stage while scenes are being screened behind them. The singing, the playing of the orchestra, and the acting must synchronize with the screened pictures.

Compensation Hits Circuses in State

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 6.—(AP.)—Circus and carnival companies seeking to give exhibitions in Pennsylvania this year will be required to carry workmen's compensation insurance, according to an order issued by Peter Glick, secretary of the State Department of Labor and Industry. Where abundant varieties of the season's most favored patterns are artistically developed into beautiful "dreams" of white shoe loveliness by craftsmen who know only the right way to make shoes.

Where one expects to find her exact style, size and width in an atmosphere of refinement and courtesy at a price that is a revelation—and is never disappointed. Only Nisley stores sell Nisley shoes.

"ROMANCE"
The embodiment of all that is new in regent pumps including the square throat, modified toe and high Paris heel. Beautiful in any color but simply marvelous in white.

"DAWNHAVEN"
No more striking two-strap pattern in white was ever created than Nisley's Dawnhaven. Daintily trimmed in white lizard calf and flaunting a "boxy" Cuban heel.

"WHITEHALL"
A high-waisted walking oxford in white, with the underlay and tongue in white lizard calf and the new "boxy" Cuban heel. A masterpiece in tailored smartness.

"RIVIERA"
White smartness dramatically expressed in a new single-strap, high heel slipper with just enough white lizard calf in the trimming to make it different and desirable.

Sizes 2½ to 9
Widths AAAA to D
Always in Stock

"PEEKSKILL"
An adorable new pattern in white one straps with a medium Paris heel and a liberal and novel trimming of white lizard calf to give it zest and character.

"GLENBROOK"
An open oxford in white featuring a trim front panel of white lizard calf. Has the Cuban heel and the fine fit that always characterizes a high waisted oxford.

IT is only logical to assume that the largest group of retail shoe stores in the world, under one management, catering exclusively to women, know best what women desire most in footwear and with their own factories can create it to sell for less in their own stores, than this whole procedure could be accomplished under methods that require several profits instead of merely one.

"TOWN CLUB"
A semi-tailored white one strap with the large and clever underlay (as well as the strap) in white lizard calf. The heel is Cuban • the toe modified.

All Styles $5 One Price

Sheer White Stockings of Fresh New Silk

"BOKARA"

FIRE DESTROYS N. Y. COLLEGE

ALLEGANY, N. Y., May 6.—(AP.)—The monastery, seminary and church at St. Bonaventure College, one mile from here, were destroyed by fire late yesterday with a loss estimated upwards of half a million dollars. All three structures which were grouped together, were of [illegible].

The fire started in mid-afternoon on the [illegible] floor of the monastery from a source believed to have been defective wiring. The telephone system of the institution was put out of order by the flames at their inception and it was necessary to send a messenger to Allegany to call the volunteer fire department there.

The firemen were handicapped by a small water supply and calls were sent to 15 other towns in the district, including Olean, N. Y., and Bradford, Pa. Water was pumped from the Allegheny river and the college swimming pool in an attempt to control the flames.

The blessed sacrament was all that was saved in the church, which was undergoing repairs. One hundred and fifty seminarians lost their belongings as did the clerics attached to the monastery.

The monastery contained many old and valuable paintings and scripts, all of which were destroyed.

Those in charge of the monastery said steps to rebuild would be taken at once.

NOMINATING IN TWO STATES

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 6.—(AP.)—The specter of the Democratic-Progressive Republican [illegible] coalition scampered into the South Dakota primary election today as Republican voters balloted on the political future of Senator William H. McMaster.

George J. Danforth, a Sioux Falls attorney, who has campaigned for the senatorial nomination as a Hoover Republican, has made McMaster's opposition to administration measures the chief issue.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 6.—(AP.)—Indiana's primary election was held today to nominate Republican and Democratic candidates for Congress, the state legislature and for county offices. Delegates to the state conventions to be held next month also were to be elected.

Each of the state's 13 congressmen seeks renomination and only five of the 10 Republicans and one of the three Democrats face opposition.

Bootlegger Sought In Hollywood Death

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 6.—(INS.)—That Mrs. S. N. Chat[illegible], who was found shot to death in a Hollywood apartment house, may have been murdered was a possibility being investigated by police today. Not entirely satisfied with the suicide theory, police stated they were seeking a Hollywood bootlegger for questioning.

Bar Jobless Group At MacDonald Home

LONDON, May 6.—(AP.)—Thirteen hunger-marchers, including two young women, attempted to gain entrance to Prime Minister MacDonald's residence today but were turned away by police. They then entered the nearby Ministry of Health and locked themselves in a reception room. Police ejected them.

The marchers plan another demonstration tomorrow under the auspices of the national unemployed workers movement. The demonstrators reached London May 1 after marching from various towns as a protest against unemployment.

Here Are the Rules for "Piratepuz"

(1) Every day until further notice the daily Sun-Telegraph will print a frame, or diagram in squares, each containing the letters that will, when placed in order, spell the name of a Pittsburgh Pirate baseball player.

(2) In this frame it may be possible that abbreviations and nicknames will be employed. The readers of the Sun-Telegraph in solving the daily PIRATEPUZ are to endeavor to submit as their answer the full, complete and correct name of the player, devoid of nickname or abbreviation, other than that of the middle initial, if there happens to be one.

(3) This is a contest that will test the skill of the readers of the Sun-Telegraph as to their knowledge of the names of the players of the Pittsburgh club.

(4) There will be a new PIRATEPUZ every day and daily prizes for the correct and most nearly correct answers will be awarded as follows:

1st Prize ....$10.00 in Cash
2nd Prize ...... 5.00 in Cash
3rd Prize .... 2.50 in Cash
Next 25 Prizes—Each a Grandstand General Admission ticket to the Pirates' game, good any day during the season.

(5) Neatness in the preparation of answers submitted will be a factor in the judging. In case of ties, the contestants so tied will be given an equal award. The decision of the judges will be final in all cases.

Contestants agree that entries become the property of the Sun-Telegraph. The contest is open to everyone—men and women, boys and girls—no matter where they live, with the exception of employees of the Sun-Telegraph. You do not have to purchase a copy of the Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. The files of this newspaper are available at the Sun-Telegraph Branch Office, Fifth Avenue and Market Street, where any person can copy or trace the puzzle.

(6) All answers must be addressed to the PIRATEPUZ Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and must be postmarked not later than midnight of the day following the publication of the PIRATEPUZ for which the answer is submitted. Contestants are requested to place the number of the puzzle on the low outside left hand corner of the envelope.

(7) Winners will be announced within one week after the publication of the PIRATEPUZ.

RICHER and CREAMIER

NO WONDER IVANHOE'S FLAVOR IS DIFFERENT

Such flavor, such perfection doesn't just happen. It's the result of an old time recipe, developed by a mother to delight her family. Today it is made with the same fine ingredients, the same painstaking care!

Plenty of eggs. Spices fragrant with the tang of the East. Vinegar for sharpness. Next, drop by drop was added the pure, rich oil. Then the work began! Beat. Beat. Beat. Faster. Faster. Faster. 'Til the mixture was golden as a buttercup and smooth as a perfect custard!

Buy richer, creamier Ivanhoe today at almost every grocery—quarts, pints, half-pints and 3¼ oz. jars. It's the same homey dressing that it was when first made in a sunny kitchen of long ago! Yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise.

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meaker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N. Y.

OLD PLAYHOUSE TO BE GARAGE

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—The old Thalia Theater whose boards creaked to the tread of America's famous actors for several generations, is to be a theater no more. Wrecked by fire last June, the Thalia is to be rebuilt into a garage.

Built in 1826 when the Bowery was the center of the city's social life, the theater had been burned fi . times, only to rise again, but last June's fire proved too much. No one seemed interested in starting up again.

For the first 50 years of its existence the Thalia was known as the Bowery Theater. Then, when that name became a word connoting the end of hope, the name was changed to the more fanciful one it bore until the last fire.

Edwin Forrest made his first appearance there. Edwin Booth was one of the old theater's favorite actors.

Of late years the Thalia had been used by Italian, Hebrew, German and Chinese troupes. It was being operated as a Chinese theater when it was burned.

The letter was mailed May 1 and reached Waynesburg May 4, a trip which ordinarily requires nine days.

APRIL TRAFFIC DEATHS PEAK

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of 16 persons in Pittsburgh last month, the highest fatality record for April in the city's history. Four of the victims were children. The Better Traffic Committee's report on the accidents state that 11 of the 13 pedestrians fatally injured were jaywalkers.

So for this year the traffic fatalities number 65. During the whole of 1929 there were 180 fatal accidents and indications point to a greater figure for this year. Of the 12 adults concerned in the accidents during April only three were under the age of 60.

LIONS CONVENE AT NEW CASTLE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 6.—Nearly 500 delegates registered at the eighth annual convention of the Fourteenth District, Lions International, consisting of clubs of Pennsylvania, which convened here today. The convention opened with a luncheon in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. President E. D. Marvin, of New Castle, presided, and the Hon. Fred L. Rentz introduced the speaker, the Hon. Charles Aubrey Eaton, Congressman from New Jersey, who spoke on "The World Background of American Business."

A business session followed the luncheon. "Stunt Night" was observed last night.

At the convention luncheon to be held today, Raymond D. Evans, assistant United States district attorney at Pittsburgh, will be the speaker. Reading and Wilkinsburg are seeking the convention for next year.

CHICKIE

Chickie Has Long Talk With Mary's Mother

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

Chickie was straining forward now, pressing little Edward—fever in her eyes. Mary looked at her intently and the wild blood spattered across Chickie's face.

She tried to speak. Her lips worked. And suddenly she put the baby on the floor. She leaned against the wall and began to cry.

"Chickie! For the love of heaven!" Mary's arms were about her waist. Mary said fearfully, "Chickie—why what's the matter?"

"Nothing, Mary! Nothing. A terrible thing. I saw a terrible thing. Kathryn Armour hanging to her bed. Oh—awful. She tried to commit suicide—"

"Kathryn Armour? Who is she?"

"You know—I told you—you know—the new girl. She came to work last month—you know——"

"No—you didn't tell me. Hanging to the bed? You saw her? Dead—why did you see her?"

"No—she's going to live. Oh, I went there. Just came from there this afternoon. We knew Janina and I knew something was wrong. When she didn't come to work we went to her room. We found her—like that. Oh, I can't get over it. That's what makes me feel so. I didn't mean to tell you."

"Oh—oh, isn't that awful! She's going to have a child, Chickie?"

"Yes, she is. She told me and she told Janina. And then she got to brooding over it and what her mother and father would say. They live in Flushing. And what all her friends would say. So she tried to kill herself."

Mary kept saying stupidly: "Poor thing! You saw her? Isn't that frightful—frightful! She's going to live—"

"Yes—and she doesn't know what to do or where to turn or what's to become of her afterwards or of the child. And she says the child will blame her and hate her—"

Meets Tommy Blake

Chickie recalled with a quiver of alarm the intent amazement in Mary's face. She had almost given herself away, standing there against the wall—crying—making up that wild tale. She was afraid to meet Mary again.

The next afternoon, as she came from work, Tommy Blake stopped her. "Mother wants to see you, Chickie. Right away!"

As Chickie pushed the screen door Martha's rich, mellow face sharpened. She brought out frozen raspberries and slices of a light, creamy cake.

"A long time, Chickie, dear, since you've paid your old friend a visit. I want to know about that young girl. Mary told me this morning."

Chickie's heart stopped. For a palsied moment she could not even remember the name she had given to Mary.

Chickie closed her eyes. "She's better. A little. You mean Kathryn Armour?"

"Poor child!" Martha shook her head. "I want to go and see her, Chickie—"

"See her? Oh—"

"Yes. I've been thinking all day about her—poor girl. Some one should help her. Will you take me to see her, Chickie?"

"See her! I can't! Oh—she's gone! She went away. She went this morning. She went to the country. Left a note. Oh, I can't take you to see her, Mrs. Blake. I don't know where she's gone. The note just said for us not to bother. She'd get along somehow. So I suppose she will. She doesn't care now what happens. Oh, she's desperate, I suppose. She'll try that again. I think so. I think she means to try it again—"

"We must find her, Chickie. She can come here. She can have Mary's room—"

Martha's Views

"You feel sorry for her? But won't she be better dead? Much better?"

"Why do you say that, Chickie! No one is ever better dead—"

"Mary thought so! Mary said it was a terrible crime to bring a child here without a father—"

"It is a terrible thing—"

"Well—" Chickie doubled her hands, driving the nails into her flesh. "Well — Kathryn was sweet. Oh—she would be good to it. She would love it. Why is it such a crime, Mrs. Blake because Kathryn was to have a child and it's so wonderful that Mary has one? That's what made Kathryn bitter. She loved the man; loved him terribly. She thought they had the right. I don't know—of course. But it seems queer that a thing can be so holy and beautiful after a few words are said and so shameful and hideous without those words—"

"Ah, no, Chickie! That's not it at all. Marriage isn't instituted to make an immoral thing moral as some people seem to think. It is instituted to safeguard the race—the child. We must do this. It isn't a question of right and wrong at all. There is no evil and no shame in a fine human emotion. Marriage doesn't alter this. It is merely a question of experience. And marriage is the device that helps us to meet honorably the consequences of our deeds."

"If that were true, Mrs. Blake, I should think there could be another device, a better one and when a girl like Kathryn was to have a child, it wouldn't be thought a crime and she wouldn't be frightened off the earth. They'd let her have the child. But even you say it is an awful thing—just awful——"

"Yes, Chickie—it is awful to bring a little helpless thing here when we know the struggle before it is so cruel! It is awful to bring a child here that the world will not receive."

"That's the world's sin. I should think—not the girl's—"

Martha smiled. "I think so, too, Chickie. But rather the world's blindness. Some day we'll have a different attitude to this race of ours—to all children. We will do homage to motherhood. The coming of the child will in itself legalize the union which produced it. We will awaken to the absurdity of placing at the threshold of birth a paltry human placard reading 'Thou shalt not pass.'

"Life laughs at this and ignores it. The child comes! It is above the law. It's right to be, to live is the simple fact of its arrival. Its coming is mockery complete and sublime of our barriers."

Cruel World

Without raising her eyes, but keeping her hand over her mouth to hide its tightness, its pitiful working: "That won't make it any easier for a girl like Kathryn or that Lily Tassman, will it? It seems hard that they should have to pay, and so many girls today do the same things and get away with it."

"They don't get away with it, Chickie. A woman never does! Life is not mocked or cheated, but these girls are. They drain one shallow cup after another and in none is any vintage that satisfies."

"Oh—you don't know, Mrs. Blake! Why, they do get away with it. And they're just as happy as any one else in the world. I know. Why, I've been to house parties and all the girls came with their steadies—"

"Steady, Chickie? What do you mean?"

"Oh—the fellows they go with all the time and that other girls aren't supposed to flirt with—"

Martha ran her hand across her eyes: "Well—steady—that used to be servant-girl talk—"

"It's slang, I suppose. But these couples went everywhere together, and there were weekends galore. Some of them thought that as long as they were engaged and were to be married anyway it was all right. Lots of them are married now and as happy as any one else. So they do get away with it! And others don't want to marry—they want to be free. They get away with it, too. They have everything they want and they go everywhere, and it's just one good time after another. You don't know—"

Talks of Other Girls

"No, I don't know, Chickie! Still I say they don't get away with it. A few years of this, and what have they? They come to the hollow forties and look back upon emptiness—they look forward to destitution of the heart and of the spirit. Saddest of all, Chickie, they are isolated; they have no connection with their kind, no link in the great immortality of the race."

"What good is that, Mrs. Blake? Janina says old-fashioned women are pawns that life uses for its own ends. She says the women of the past were duped. Life beat them over rough, hard places, and the lash she uses is love. And they run along with their backs breaking under their burdens. And in their hearts they wonder what it's all about and they envy women who are free, but they won't admit it. They get themselves into this blind alley and can't get out. So they rationalize their stupidity and call it nobility or virtue—"

"Only a coward, Chickie, runs from a fight because there's a chance to lose. We have to take that chance—be brave to meet it—"

Chickie pulled her hat over her eyes. She wished to say to Martha Blake: "Oh, yes! Brave to meet it. I'm Katherine Armour! What shall I do? Tell me! You tell me! Ho—you'll give me Mary's room — yes — let Jimmy know"

She kept fooling with the hair about her forehead—shading her frightened eyes.

As she did this she was aware of some one at the door—grinning; some one who had been there a long moment. Jimmy strolled over—gave her a push, making room for himself on her chair. He drawled teasingly: "Mother on the soap box, Chickie? Ain't she grand Been at it half a century more or less. Hire a hall, old lady.

Martha's face was radiant. Her eyes dwelt on the two of them—black head and gold. She said: "You may walk to the door with Chickie!"

Chickie nodded.

THE MISFITS

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

WE DON'T FIT. We don't fit really at all, in any way, in Gloriette's new scheme of life or decoration. The furniture is too little for my ensemble, for my style, and the new scheme of things is too little for my soul. And ole Dan'! He is an incurable reactionary as to surroundings his romantic spirit can thrive in. He had the whole hills of Greece to roam in, things as old-fashioned as the sea and trees and grass and flowers around him, in his youth, you know. Same with me!

These chairs cramp my legs. And the books that she gives me to read cramp my mind. And the new airs of my little wife herself cramp my merry and colonial-mahogany soul.

For my gracious Gloriette has gone modern-intense. My life, my house, my amusements, my reading matter, the walls that round me never a prison made before, are making it so, by George. I cannot breathe!

Our furniture is made by Jean Jacques Pierre Armand Lurgneaux, Paris. Our house is planned by Hans Ufergartenhof Stuttweissen, of Germany. Our kitchen comes, they say, from Rotterdam. Our living room from the hot brush and burning paper of "the Village" in New York.

And Gloriette waves a snooty little paw in our direction and says we are lucky that she hasn't wanted to build our house like the new captain's bridge effects that we'd find abroad! That we've got any pictures left on the wall at all! That our balcony isn't a hurricane-deck affair and our rooms all round! Cupid and I are out. Misfits. Les Miserables.

Katherine Suffers an Emotional Break

The imperative frightened note in Junior's voice drove all thought of our controversy over Katie from both my mother-in-law's mind and mine. With one accord we moved swiftly toward the staircase, Mother Graham clinging to my arm.

Our little lad was wide-eyed and patently troubled when we reached the top of the stairs. He put out his hand and caught mine as if he wished the support of physical contact in his bewilderment.

"Auntie Katherine's crying something awful in her room," he whispered. "I don't know what to do. I never saw her cry before, and she burst out awful sudden when she was putting some pictures away in her trunk. And when I said, 'What is the matter, Aunt Katherine?' she just sort of yelled at me, not cross, but as if she meant it; 'nothing, but go away quick, Junior, and shut the door behind you.'"

"I never saw her cry, either," Mother Graham whispered, and in her tone was distinct consternation. I could appreciate her feeling, for my little kinswoman with her wonderful professional skill, her keen insight, her resourcefulness and her loyal tenderness has been a rock upon which all of us have leaned in the year since she has undertaken to relieve me of all domestic care possible that I might go on with my work in the Veritzen dramatic studios.

"I suppose I ought," I said, and my mother-in-law finished my sentence for me with a relieved face and firm accents.

"Of course, you ought to go in there at once," she said. "You are the only one who can intrude upon her. She will resent nothing from you. Come, Pet." She held out her hand to her grandson. "Come into my room for awhile. Your mother will take care of Mrs. Bicket."

But with his hand clasped tightly by his grandmother, Junior hung back for a last word of entreaty, for his "Aunt Katherine" whom he loves as dearly as if she were indeed a sister of his father's or mine.

"You will stop her crying and make her feel better, won't you, Mums?" he pleaded, and I nodded to him reassuringly.

"I'll do the best I can," I told him, with far more optimism than I felt. His first request was an easy one to grant, if I knew Katherine, she was no longer permitting herself the luxury of tears. But to "make her feel better." I was sorely afraid that was beyond my power to compass.

I waited until my mother-in-law's door had closed upon herself and my son before advancing to Katherine's room. And at her threshold I stood irresolute for several minutes, hesitant to intrude upon her.

She solved my dilemma unexpectedly herself by swinging open her door abruptly.

"Lo! Madge," she said in her usual nonchalant tones with the suspicion of mirth always lingering around them. "Afraid I'm going to miss my train?"

"No," I stammered, and with suddenly comprehending eyes, she put out her hand, pulled me into the room and shut the door.

"I see," she said slowly. "Junior was frightened at my movie melodrama and you've come up to comfort me."

There was a hardness in her tones which I guessed was there only as a shell of protection over her quivering nerves. I spoke with equal brusqueness for I knew that tenderness would break her down once more.

"I've done nothing of the kind. I would not so far intrude upon you," I retorted. "I only want you to know that I'm here, ready to do anything you wish."

She caught at my hand, gripped it firmly.

"Do you think I don't know that, anyway, you blessed old darling. And I shall feel better for telling you. It's a very short and simple tale. It's only that I haven't had a letter from Jack for weeks and weeks, and the last one was so—unsatisfactory—and things are so complicated anyway—and then I came across an old picture I took of Jack when we were first married—and—it upset me for a minute. But I'm all right again."

Her confidence was ended. I saw that, but in my brain was beating an insistent question:

What did she mean by "things are so complicated anyway." Had Hal Meredith anything to do with these "complications" she found so troublesome?

Lovers—And Others

In love, cards, roulette or the stock market, the only sure way to "beat the game" is by staying out of it.

As long as a woman has the last word, she doesn't care HOW hard a man slams the door.

A man is always shocked and disappointed to discover, after marriage, that the girl who seemed such an ideal companion at smart dances and perfectly-appointed dinners, is just a wash-out on a hiking party or camping in the rain.

Women always wonder sadly why an attractive bachelor missed marriage; men always wonder enviously how he escaped it.

If the modern man eats out of tin-cans, he has only his father to blame. It didn't take women long to learn that it is easier to keep canned corned-beef cold than to keep fried chicken hot, while a man dawdles home from the office.

When you look at a man, who has just emerged from a barber shop, after complete renovation, it is almost impossible to believe that he CAN have anything but beautiful, clean thoughts, pure intentions and a spotless soul. A woman can spend hours on her scenic effects, and never look half so guileless!

Never fear that "Home, sweet home" will lose its place in American life. Even Americans have to have SOME place to stay while the car is being repaired.

The old-fashioned bride needed a scientific knowledge of baking and brewing; but the only thing a modern Spring bride needs is a strong right can-opener-arm and a working knowledge of "brands."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Kindly tell me how to introduce a young man to my mother, day and also my girl friend. SUNSHINE.

YOU MAY introduce him to your mother by saying, "Mother, may I present Mr. Allen?" or "Mother, this is Mr. George Allen," or "George, this is my mother." To your girl friend, too, " Miss Rowland, may I present Mr. Allen?", or "Miss Rowland, this is Mr. George Allen," or "Miss Rowland, may I introduce Mr. Allen to you?"

When you introduce the young man to your father, you will probably say only, "Father, Mr. Allen," or "Father, this is Mr. Allen," or "Mr. Allen, this is my father."

Do Not Put Crackers in Soup

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should or should not pancake be cut wedge-shape before pouring on the syrup?

2. When oysterettes, or any tiny crackers are served with soup, should these be put into the soup? I know, of course, that ordinary size crackers shouldn't.

3. After eating a cocktail, fruit cup, ice cream or the like, is the fork, or spoon, left in the dish or placed on the small plate in which the dish sets?

THERE is no reason why they should be cut in this form.

2. The best form says that the crackers should not be put into the soup. Each is eaten as a small piece of bread would be eaten with or without being buttered.

3. It is placed on the small plate that is served under the dish that contains the dessert.

Initialing Letter Paper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When an unmarried girl uses metal initials on stationery, should the initial of the first name or the last name be used?

2. If gravy is served in a silver gravy boat with tray, should a gravy ladle be used, or is the gravy poured from the boat?

L. S.

IT IS NOT good form or good taste to use this kind of initial. In cases where only one initial is used it is usually the initial of the last name.

2. With the gravy dish, a gravy ladle should be served. The gravy should not be poured from the boat.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Be Cautious After an Illness

Requests have come to me from time to time to write on erysipelas. I am glad to do so.

DR. COPELAND

From ancient times to the present the disease has been observed. It is known not only as erysipelas, but also as "St. Anthony's Fire." It may appear in epidemic form or it may attack an individual, coming on without warning.

In this condition the skin is inflamed and red, and there is more or less fever. In the severe cases there may be delirium.

It is a disease due to a germ, believed to be a special form of the dreaded "streptococcus" family. Whatever may be its origin, this disease must be taken seriously.

The greatest number of cases of erysipelas occur in the late winter or early spring. Perhaps the bad weather conditions, damp winds and sudden changes in temperature have their effects. The lowered resistance of the body after the winter's confinement indoors prepares the way.

Erysipelas of the face and head constitutes 80 or 90 per cent of all cases. It may involve the face, but generally it begins on the side of the face, spreading from the cheek as far as the nose.

The skin in the affected part is hard. It appears glazed and shiny. The color varies from a bright red to a darker hue. The involved parts itch and burn.

It spreads rapidly. The duration of the disease is usually from three or four days to ten days, and sometimes longer.

There are certain constitutional conditions which may predispose to the development of erysipelas. Bright's disease is the chief one of these. General debility or alcoholism are important factors. Under certain conditions there is danger of it after a surgical operation.

Anything that lowers the powers of resistance, creates a weakness of the body that permits such germs to enter the system and do their evil work. In cases of poor nutrition in old age and in debility from any cause the victim is liable to pick up the germ.

The person in fair health does not need to fear an attack of erysipelas. The one likely to suffer is the person who is recovering from some severe injury or surgical operation. In the latter cases erysipelas is a serious matter. In old people and debilitated persons it is much more likely to be severe than it is in young people.

The cases in which the head is involved are the most serious. In such attacks there is danger of the eyes or the brain being involved.

Erysipelas is an infectious disease. On this account the patient should be separated from the rest of the family. A doctor should be consulted in every case.

The strength should be built up with good, simple food. Milk is one of the best of foods. The skin is kept clean and moist by frequent bathing with cold or hot compresses.

Local applications are used. The common remedy is a solution of ichthyol in water or an ointment of ichthyol in vaseline. The itching may be allayed by swabbing the irritated parts with a solution of hyposulphite of soda, using three tablespoonfuls to one pint of water.

Needless to say, after the attack has subsided the general health must be built up with good but simple food, regular hours and plenty of fresh air and sunshine. The sooner you build up new vigor and vitality the better able your system will be to ward off further infection. There may be recurrences of this disease unless the health is improved.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, May 7

The planetary influences for this day should assist to great advantage accompanied by substantial rewards for those who have won the favor of superiors or those in places of power through fidelity, diligence and sterling qualities. Promotion, preferment and honors are in store for these, and they should be sought with confidence. Elderly persons and institutions will be most friendly disposed. Lands, agriculture and all pertaining to mining and machinery should thrive. There may be some private anxieties or friction.

Those whose birthday it is should push their affairs with confidence, being assured of the favors and assistance of those in position to give substantial recognition for diligence and fidelity. Promotion and dignities are foreshown, but there may be some personal inharmonies or anxietes to overcome.

A child born on this day should be hardworking, persevering and of solid accomplishments, which should win it substantial place in life and the preferment of those in authority.

BUCS' SLUMP COSTS LEAD

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Lucky Spot for Giants.
End Their Slumps Here.
Spitters' Tough Spring.
Dixon's Old Foe Dies.
Gomez Running True.
Years Change Tennis.

WALKER STILL HAS PIRATES' NUMBER

SEEMINGLY IT REQUIRES only a series with the Pirates to change the Giants' luck when John McGraw's club is in a rut. That was the rule last year, and if yesterday's game could be taken as an indication of what is to follow it might be expected to continue during the present season. Prior to invading Pittsburgh, the New Yorkers averaged more than seven runs per game in six straight engagements, but lost five of those contests. The hitters were delivering but the pitchers were off.

Bill Walker

As soon as the McGrawites landed at Forbes Field, however, matters proceeded to right themselves. The visitors got good pitching as well as hitting, and against that combination the Bucs didn't have a chance. They never do have much of a chance against Bill Walker's pitching. Counting in two games of last fall he has beaten the locals three times in a row, giving them only five runs in the three games. But that's beginning to apply to most of the New York pitchers. Yesterday's victory made seven in a row for the Giants over Pittsburgh, and of their last nine games at Forbes Field they have won no fewer than eight.

ADMITTEDLY, THE BUCS could not hope to win many ball games with only one run, and besides there were times when they did not show either their usual playing form or their customary fighting spirit. But in all fairness it must be said that fortune was none too kind to the Ensmen.

A break that ruined the game for them came when Bob O'Farrell was purposely passed in the fourth inning to bring up Walker and the latter slapped a home run over the left field wall with the bases filled. That was only the second home run Walker has made since he broke into the big leagues. In 29 games last year he made only seven hits for an average of .115. Yesterday he got three for a day's average of .750.

AND EVEN WITH the unlucky first game out of the way, possible further trouble loomed up for the Rovers with two more Giant left-handers, Herb Pruett and Carl Hubbell, waiting to face them before the close of the series on Thursday.

Hubbell has always been a jinx to the locals. Not only did he hurl a no-hit game against them last year, but he has defeated them five times in succession and they have not won a game from him since August 23, 1928.

Burleigh Grimes

IT'S A TOUGH spring for the four spitballers remaining in the big leagues. In being batted out of the box yesterday for the second time in three days, Burleigh Grimes shared in the misfortune that has been trailing the other moist-ball flingers since the season opened. Urban Faber yesterday, through his own error, lost his third game in four starts. Jack Quinn is charged with two defeats against one victory and was batted out on another occasion. Clarence Mitchell started only once and suffered an ankle injury that will keep him on the shelf for a couple of weeks.

By making two hits in four times at bat yesterday, Paul Waner kept his batting average for the season at .500 and maintained the fast clip that he has been setting for the rest of the Bucs, but his mates were unable to follow him. The home club was held to its lowest mark of the spring when Walker yielded only six hits.

The Pirates' lightest hitting previously was done on April 21 in St. Louis, against Hill, Haid, Haines and Frankhouse, and on April 30 in Chicago. On each of those occasions they made only seven safeties. Charley Engle has been the victim of the worst individual slump. After batting safely in 11 of the first 12 games played by the Bucs, he has gone hitless in the last four.

THERE ARE SOME paragraphs of general interest in the instructions issued to National League umpires by President John A. Heydler. If a player reports abuse by a spectator he is to repeat the language used and point out the offender; if the abuse is continued after a polite warning the umpire is to stop the game and have the offending spectator removed from the grounds.

John A. Heydler

Where an umpire is in doubt as to the identity of an offending player on the bench and orders two or more athletes to the clubhouse, he may, at his discretion, allow any one or all of such players to return as active participants in the game on request of their manager. Where there is no doubt and one or more are ordered from the game, coaching lines or bench, they must leave the field and may not return.

A PLAYER PUT out of the first game of a bargain double-header is out for the entire afternoon and cannot come back for the second game. On a holiday, however, a player ordered from a morning game can return and play in the afternoon. The instructions continue: "Be courteous always to club officials, but avoid visiting in club offices or stopping anywhere in the grounds to enter discussion, no matter what it may be. There is no surer way to start gossip than by thoughtless familiarity between umpires and officials of contesting clubs. Keep in mind that your position calls for settling controversies on the field and not for starting them elsewhere. You, no doubt, are going to make mistakes, but never attempt to even up after making one. Make all decisions as you see them and forget which is the home club. Be courteous and firm and compel respect from all, and never lose sight of the fact that friendship for the umpire, appreciation of

JACKIE WINS IN GREAT BATTLE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Jackie Rodgers, local Negro featherweight boxer, who until last night was 2 down to Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, in their series of battles, now is only 1 down. He grabbed a referee's decision over his clever rival in the 10-round main bout before a packed house at Motor Square Garden last night to the accompaniment of the most prolonged booing from the spectators that has greeted a verdict in that arena in years.

For all the booing, the decision was a just one. Dunn boxed a beautiful fight and for a time he appeared to have it in hand, but he tired and Rodgers, himself well spent at the halfway point, got his second wind and came on to beat him to the wire in the fight down the stretch.

Jackie Rodgers Johnny Dunn

Typical action in Dunn-Rodgers fight at Motor Square Garden last night. Most of the fighting was done at close quarters. Rodgers received the referee's decision, which was booed by the fans.

JUDGES DISAGREE

Judge Jock Simco voted for Dunn, while Judge Joe Keally and Referee Al Grayber scored the bout for Rodgers.

At no time was either boxer in danger of a knockout defeat. Dunn stood up under Jackie's hardest wallops in a terrific slugging bee in the third round, taking everything Rodgers had to throw, and thereafter the sleep-inducing sting was gone from the punches of the youth who until recently had been a local sensation with eight straight knockout victories to his credit. Several weeks ago Rodgers lost to Archie Bell in the Motor Square ring and then he defeated Marty Gold by none too wide a margin at the Moose Temple. In these two fights and that with Dunn last night he failed to score even a knockdown, let alone a knockout.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE STATUE OF LIBERTY STANDS ON A PRISON—Although it is paradoxical to associate "Liberty" with "Jail" or "Prison," it is a fact the foundation of the Statue of Liberty is an old prison in which military offenders were confined. Bedloe's Island, on which the Statue is situated, is in New York Harbor, but beyond the boundary of the state of New York, and within the maritime limits of the state of New Jersey. AN AMERICAN BECAME A CHINESE DEITY—During the T'ai P'ing rebellion, which cost China about two billion dollars and approximately twenty million lives, a picturesque American adventurer, General Frederick Ward, undertook by contract to capture walled cities for the Chinese government for a fee of $75,000 for each city. He was successful in putting down the rebellion, although he at times was outnumbered 20 to 1. The Manchu government made him a mandarin and an Admiral General of China. In the end he was created a Chinese deity, and to this day they worship and burn incense at his tomb in Sinkiang, China.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Back in second place today and with pitchers faltering, the crippled Pirates are in the worst stride they have shown since they started their long barnstorming trip many weeks ago. The Freebooters have lost four of their last five battles after making a start that had fans throughout the baseball world talking.

The handicapped team appears to have gone stale for the time and there is a crying need for Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner, especially the former. Pie and Lloyd are acknowledged to be two of the most brilliant performers in the game and just how the Buccos were able to remain on top without them has been somewhat of a mystery to many baseball men.

LLOYD BACK SOON

But in the gloom of yesterday's 9 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Giants, a ray of hope developed in reports from the bedside of Brother Lloyd. Mrs. Waner returned from Baltimore with good news about her clever husband. The doctors have been unable to find anything of a serious nature. Lloyd, however, will be ordered to rest for at least a week. Manager Ens is quite confident that his little star will be available for duty within two weeks.

Traynor's condition is still of deep concern to Ens and the remainder of the Pittsburgh team. Pie's left eye had not yet cleared up. There seems to be a danger now that he will force his way into the lineup at a risk as a result of the bad slump of the club.

Meantime, Ens is going right along in his optimistic manner. He thinks he has a club in action now that can beat the Giants, who made us look bad yesterday owing to one poorly pitched ball.

WALKER HITS HOMER

Larry French grooved a pitch to Bill Walker in the fourth inning with the bases loaded and two out. The Giant pitcher caused a big shock to the assemblage by hitting the apple over the left-

TOBIAS VICTOR OVER BRADLEY

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 6.—Phil Tobias, New York, and Ruby Bradley, Holyoke, Mass., leading flyweights, went an aggresive 10 rounds here last night at Jolly Bowl, the decision going to Tobias, who carried the battle to Bradley most of the time. Bradley cut loose in the ninth round and nearly took the honors by his clever work.

Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh, and Joe Boler, Erie, went six rounds to a draw. It was a battle to the finish. Jackie Ward, Cleveland, won the decision from Frankie Lands, New Castle, in six rounds. Billy Brenzel, New Castle, won the decision in the six rounds from Tony Brush, New Castle.

George Chip, New Castle, was referee.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Wel folks, now is the time for all good fans to come to the aid of the Pirates. That sounds a little like a line I used to practice on the typewriter when I was an office boy. I suppose you were disappointed yesterday, but it's too early to get disgusted. We're just having a lot of tough breaks, with Pie and Lloyd gone and all that sort of stuff, but we'll hit another winning stride because everybody is gonna hustle.

Yesterday was the first time I ever saw McGraw and the Giants. I watched the New York boss just to see if I could tell how he gave the signs, but if he was givin' any yesterday they was pretty smooth. But I did see him give a couple of birds in the stands a

JACKSON OUT STEALING — HOMER CLEARS BASES — WALKER SCORES ON IT — OTT TALLIES — GRANTHAM'S HOMER

The outlook wasn't brilliant for the Pirate nine yesterday as it ushered in the series with the Giants at Forbes Field with a 9-1 defeat. Pitcher Bill Walker, southpaw, held the locals to six hits and shut them out until Grantham hit a home run into the right field stand in the ninth. He also made three hits himself, one of them a homer which cleared the bases in the fourth inning. The Giants added insult to injury by getting three totally unnecessary runs in the ninth inning, Ott scoring the last of these.

Another banner list of opening games is carded this evening on the local sandlots with opening day ceremonies being planned in the various communities.

Mayor Kline has promised to throw out the first ball in the West Penn League game at Homewood, where Vogt and his Whitaker aggregation will provide the opposition.

Then at Dormont a big civic celebration will be held. Wilmerding, with the famous Eddie Artmann in the lineup, will meet Dormont, and the presence of the West Penn League team in the South Hills should draw a banner crowd.

C.-I. OPENS

This is also the opening day for the Commercial and Industrial League and it will find the champion Rieck-McJunkin nine starting out in defense of its title. Bill Stuhlfire will take the Milkmen to Burgwin field to meet B. & O., and from information coming from the Hazelwood section it would seem that Riecks will have a tough game on hand.

Stuhlfire has strengthened his champions but little since last season closed and the Milkmen feel that they will repeat.

Dean Field will see the opening game of the Central League schedule on that lot when Tommy Carson and his Allegheny Collegians meet the Y. M. H. A. aggregation. Practically all of the Collegians have been playing many years under the shadow of the Bloomfield Bridge. Manager Carson is very popular out that way since he piloted the Liberty Dairy team to the City League championship last year.

CIVICS, FINTEX CLASH

The other battle in the Central finds Lincoln Civics opening at Warrington Park with the Fintex team. Fintex seems to be one of the outstanding clubs in the district, and Manager Pickles is going to make things tough for all opposition. Fintex has won all of its exhibition games and the South Hills fans will see a good club in the Civics.

The City League will stage two battles. Stowe Civics will meet the W. O. W. aggregation at the latter's field, and according to Manager Mike Jedinak the Wows are all set. This game has been changed from Stowe Field, on which improvements have not been completed, but will be ready for Thursday evening. Going to the field Thursday the fans should cross the P. & L. E. tracks just before turning into McKees Rocks.

CHAMPS FACE TEST

The other battle will be a real fight and will bring together Art Rooney and his North Side Civics against the champion Pleasant Valley team. The game will be played at the Salt Works grounds.

The Steel City League finds Fox A. C. stacking up with the Demor club at Washington Park, while in the Washington County League Canonsburg meets Avella and Scenery Hill plays Washington Eagles.

JAMES W. MORRISON

Pleasant Valley Country Club

Jim Morrison

Maybe you don't know much about Jimmy Morrison, pro at the Pleasant Valley Country Club, which sets midway between and is claimed by Connellsville and Scottdale, but you can bet your boots he's one of the finest chaps you ever met in the pro ranks—and one of the longest drivers in this section of the country. He can control that pill for a "mile" off the tee! Jimmy started his golf career as a caddie at the Dubois (Pa.) Country Club, and soon elevated himself to work directly under Eddie Melvin, pro there at the time; he held that post for two years. He succeeded Melvin as professional and took on the dual role of pro-greenkeeper for six years before leaving to go to the Pleasant Valley layout, where he has been pro-greenkeeper for the last five years. This year he has had added work thrust upon him, but he delights in work—he also is secretary and manager of the club—and he doesn't expect to get in a lot of playing.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

CITY LEAGUE UNDER WAY

Featured by the 1-to-0 victory of the Book Shoe club over the Jimmy Smith nine in the City League, several sandlot baseball leagues opened their campaigns with games last evening. Most of the games resulted in close scores and offered clever baseball for the entertainment of the fans.

Latusek's rousing double, followed by Bruce's single gave the Shoemen the verdict in the City League battle with the Smiths. Roscoe and Stewart both pitched clever ball. In a second league game the J. L. Thomas nine and St. Johns struggled six innings to a 9-9 deadlock.

WILMERDING WINS

In the West Penn circuit, Wilmerding defeated Whitaker 11 to 2, Artman and Cryn holding Whitaker to five hits. Universal won a close 3 to 1 decision over Edgewood in the Greater Pittsburgh League. Demor walloped Dom Mazzie, 12 to 3, in the Steel City loop. Y. M. H. A. and the Soho Traders scored triumphs in the Central circuit, Y. M. H. A. downing Fintex, 3 to 2, and the Traders taking the Cosletts by a 3 to 1 count.

In the Iron City League, Fort Pitt defeated the Adams Club 18 to 3. Raybestos defeated McCreerys 7 to 1 in the Commercial circuit and the North Side team won from Troy Hill 1 to 0 in a North Side Twilight League fray.

CHURCH LEAGUE OPENS

The Crafton-Ingram Church League opened its 1930 campaign as the Methodists won 3 to 1 over the Presbyterians. Honus Wagner threw out the first ball, starting the league on its twelfth season.

The Homestead Grays pounded out an 11 to 3 victory over Pleasant Valley in an independent tussle. Scales hitting two homers and Charleston and White each one.

GAME SET BACK

The game at North Bessemer scheduled for this evening has been postponed until tomorrow evening to allow Homestead Aces to open at Verona in the Greater Pittsburgh League. According to Manager Tarr, Alcorn probably will start against the Steel workers.

FANS TO HONOR PIRATE PILOT TONIGHT

Baseball luminaries in abundance will attend the testimonial dinner to be tendered Manager Jewel Ens of the Pirates tonight at the Schenley Hotel. John A. Heydler, president of the National League, will be here for the affair. The boss of the league will be one of the principal speakers.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, also has signified his intention of attending the event. The famed leader also will respond to a toast. President Barney Dreyfuss, Vice President Sam Dreyfuss and Secretary Walters of the local club will give addresses.

Members of the Pittsburgh and New York clubs will be seated at the festal board.

Between Rounds

Only one more indoor boxing show remains on the local card now that the Moose Temple Club has decided to dispense with its proposed bill for Friday night because of the warm weather and daylight saving. That is the all-star card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, with Buck McTiernan meeting Young Saylor in the windup and Benny Schwartz battling Frisco Grande in another 10-rounder. Schwartz signed yesterday for this pairing, which will be fought at 120 pounds. The Duquesne Garden and McKeesport clubs both are through for the season.

A program of six amateur bouts is offered at the Pittsburgh Lyceum tonight, with Buck White, of the Lyceum, A. M. A. junior light-heavyweight champion, meeting Sparky Ewall, of McKees Rocks, in the main bout. In the other bouts, Larry Markey boxes Dick Graham, Dick Toomey takes on John Orbs, Walt Sczesiawski meets Mike Evanko, Max Elling opposes Chuck Mullins and Joe Shell battles Ray Javis.

Peter Brannigan, former local ring star, is back in the managing end of the game as the pilot of Cliff Cabanas, Negro lightweight of the North Side, whom he would like to match at the local clubs. He may be reached by calling Cedar 3422.

The Meyers Bowl management will begin accepting telephone orders today for reservations for its first show, Thursday night of next week, featuring Battling Battalino, the featherweight champion, against Vic Burrone, of New York, in the 10-round main bout.

Andy Martin, of Boston, a favorite here, boxes Goldie Hess at Los Angeles tonight. Sammy Chertin boxes Petey Mack. Ralph Ficucello engages Charley Hansen and Benny Britt meets Rinduilo Diaz in 10-rounders in New York.

Midget Wolgast, new flyweight champion, boxes Pinky Silverberg, of New York, in a non-title bout at the Broadway A. C., in Philadelphia, Thursday night. The Midget got his start in this small arena. Jimmy Smith and Joey Kuhns meet in the windup at the Cambria Club, Philadelphia, Friday night.

FANS BOO WIN OF RODGERS OVER DUNN

ing round he remained in close and handily outboxed Rodgers, who landed several looping lefts without damage.

TRY FOR KAYO FAILS

Rodgers came out to hammer the body with rights repeatedly at the start of the second round and forced Dunn to hold on, seemingly weakened. Johnny rallied near the bell to break up the attack with some inside fighting but lost the round.

The third round was the best of the fight, with Rodgers wrapping up everything in a cyclonic swinging attack which found him nailing Dunn on the head and body with his best bets only to see Dunn standing up under the punishment and fighting back. It was Jackie's round by a wide margin, although he tired under the hot pace.

Dunn held his own with his work inside in the fourth round, but was shaded in the fifth, when they stood toe to toe and fought to the body, with Rodgers forcing the going.

JACKIE FINISHES STRONG

Dunn got going nicely in the sixth in which he permitted Jackie to fight himself out swinging at close quarters, while Johnny kept his opponent's head bobbing back with straight jolting blows and also pounded the body with both fists. Dunn also had the better of the early part of the seventh, but then settled down to a slower pace and Rodgers evened up the frame with his forcing. Again in the eighth Rodgers had to overcome an early lead by Dunn to get an even break.

An incident occurred in the ninth round that may have influenced many of the fans in the back sections to think Dunn was scoring heavier than was the case. While forcing the fighting Jackie went off balance and reeled back across the ring and became entangled in the ropes. He was not struck, but his actions were those of a man who had been staggered with a blow. Dunn finished with a strong rally that forced Rodgers to break ground and run and hold, but Rodgers' early lead kept Johnny's edge small.

Came then the tenth and final round, in which Rodgers, showing fine recuperative powers, took the play completely away from Dunn with a swinging attack to the body and head while on the move. Dunn halted him a couple of times, once with a right and again with a left, but Rodgers was right back to continue carrying the fight to the bell.

Summed up, Rodgers won four and Dunn three rounds, with the fourth, seventh and eighth even, and Rodgers' harder hitting figuring in his favor. It was one of the best fights of the season here, and, judging from the expressions of disapproval of the crowd over the decision, the pair should go well for another repeat number at the Meyers Bowl this summer.

McTIERNAN STOPS SALA

Jack (Buck) McTiernan, of Swissvale, now a full-fledged middleweight at 159 pounds, turned in the most decisive performance of the night when he knocked out Lee Sala, rugged Donora entry, 154, with a clean left hook to the solar plexus in the third round. Buck won all the way and gradually beat down his opponent's resistance with a body attack, ending the fight with a right and then the left in close. Sala went down gasping and took the count lying face downward. The technique of the knockout was as classy as that turned in by McTiernan over Georgie Fifield in the same ring prior to his long illness. He polished off Fifield, former Canadian champion, with a right over the heart. McTiernan, who boxes Young Saylor of Charleroi in the windup of the final show of the season at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, looked good in his latest start and seems on his way back to the heights for which he was headed when he was overtaken by illness.

MURRAY BEATS WARD

Tommy Ward, of the South Side, 145 pounds, got up off the floor after taking a nine count from a right to the jaw in the third round to go the limit against Jackie Murray, Negro, of the Hill, 142, subbing for Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, in the second bout. Murray fought more viciously than in a long time, and Ward turned in a creditable boxing performance in staving him off. It was Murray's third straight victory, he having beaten Cowboy DeLuca and knocked out Gene Reed before taking on Ward. If he would fight always as he has in these battles, Jackie would be one of the most popular of the local ringsters. Judge Keally called last night's bout a draw, so that Murray won via the referee's vote.

Jackie Wilson, Negro, of the East End, 118½, defeated Mose Butch, of Oakland, 120, making his first start as a pro in the six-round opener, but the judges split and Referee Jack Henderson called it a draw. Butch, a southpaw and the National junior bantamweight champion as an amateur, showed his inexperience in the clinches, where Wilson had matters all his own way, and also was handicapped in height and reach and by the fact that he was not accustomed to fighting more than three or four rounds. He won only the first round and held his own in the last frame. He ought to go better his next time out.

NEW DOCTOR IN DEBUT

Al Grayber and Jack Henderson shared the refereeing. Jock Simco and Joe Keally were the judges. L. K. Meininger and A. C. Couch acted as timers and Bill Schuster did the announcing. Dr. J. W. McMeans made his debut as a commission physician at the ringside, filling the post vacated by the death of Dr. Briney, longtime incumbent.

Blaeholder May Join Browns This Week

ST. LOUIS, May 6.—(AP.)—George Blaeholder, holdout St. Louis Browns hurler, is likely to sign a contract before the week is out.

He reopened negotiations with Phil Ball, Browns' owner, last week and is now reported en route to St. Louis from his California home. According to Ball, Blaeholder was offered $5,000, the same as last year, and $1,000 bonus if he held strictly to training rules in the original contract but later the document was altered to read a flat $6,000.

TENNIS HEADS HOLD SMOKER TONIGHT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Racquet devotees of the district will foregather at the P. A. A. this evening and make the justly famous welkin ring at the first annual Pittsburgh Tennis Association smoker and buffet supper from 6:30 o'clock until some time considerably thereafter. It is quite a few years—seven, to be precise—since local netmen have staged much, if anything, in the strictly social entertainment line and the widespread enthusiasm with which news of the impending soiree has been acclaimed throughout the court realm here would lead one to prognosticate that the long-deferred outbreak will meet with success.

Chairman J. Howard Moore, of the committee in charge, has announced that team captains of the P. T. A. Inter-Club League have reported goodly quotas of playing members set to attend. There will be food aplenty, informal singing led by Vern Porter, community vocal director, special musical and comedy numbers by the ex-Tartan followers of Bob Schmertz of Stanton Heights, and a brief impromptu talk or two on prospects for tournament, team and inter-city play for the coming summer.

No tickets for the affair have been issued, but all tennis followers are invited to be on hand to aid in lifting the campaign lid in joyously auspicious fashion. Duquesne Library, West Penn Power, and Washington Heights performers will be on deck to make P. T. A. debut, while representatives of the old-liners—P. A. A., Edgewood, Westinghouse, University Club, Stanton Heights, Mount Lebanon, College Hill of Beaver Falls, South Hills, College Avenue, Minnetonka, Philadelphia Company and Wilkinsburg—will be out in force.

COACH IS POPULAR

MINNEAPOLIS, May 10.—(AP.)—Fritz Crisler, new athletic head of the University of Minnesota, has proved very popular here since his arrival from his former post as mentor at the University of Chicago. He has been able to have only breakfast at home, he says.

Grove to Have Blood Blister Cut Away

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—(AP.)—That old blood blister that has appeared each spring for the last eight years on the index finger of Lefty Grove, the Athletics' fireball pitcher, is again on deck.

"It's reached the point," Grove said yesterday, "where something has to be done about it. I've tried every remedy I could think of and everything that anyone has suggested. Now I hear there is a surgeon who can cure the blister and I'm going to him for an operation. When that blister forms it just about kills me to pitch."

BATTALINO BEATS MASSEY

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—(AP.)—Battling Battalino, world featherweight champion, belted his way to a slashing 10-round decision over Lew Massey, Philadelphia flash, in the main event at the Arena last night. Battalino weighed 128½ and Massey 129.

By winning, Battalino evened the score with the Philadelphian, Massey having won the verdict over the champion when they met here last January.

As in their former bout, last night's affair did not involve Battalino's title, both fighters coming in above the featherweight limit.

Luigi Quanrini, Italy, 126, won a decision over Eddie Stewart, Philadelphia, 126. Mel Aragon, Peru, 135, won a decision over Mickey Diamond, Philadelphia.

his arduous duties and practical co-operation in his troubles rarely extend outside of this office."

THE FLOSSY PITCHING done by Vernon Gomez, rookie Yankee left-hander, in his first major league start yesterday, when he held Donie Bush's White Sox to one run and five hits, was in line with what Pirate players predicted for him in the spring of 1929 after watching him in action for San Francisco on the Pacific Coast.

The Bucs tabbed the youngster as a comer as soon as they set eyes on him. Then he turned in and led the regular Coast League flingers in effectiveness with an earned-run average of 3.43. He won 18 games and lost 11. Gomez strongly resembles Dutch Ruether in both build and pitching style.

THE DEATH OF Walter Edgerton, old Negro fighter who was known as the Kentucky Rosebud, recalls a case like that of Jack Dempsey and Willie Meehan and others in which a top-notch fighter able to beat all other rivals was given a lot of trouble by one opponent whose rating was not of the highest.

Edgerton never approached the championship heights, but he was able to give George Dixon, featherweight king, harder fights than Dixon experienced against any other foeman. Including an exhibition, the Rosebud met Little Chocolate five times from 1892 to 1897 and twice held him to a draw, a feat that was beyond the powers of other boxers active during that period. Yet he was defeated several times by fighters who proved easy for Dixon.

John Doeg

PASSING YEARS SURELY have wrought great changes in American lawn tennis. The most striking evidence of this is found in the make-up of Uncle Sam's Davis cup team. Just a comparatively short while back the team was composed of Tilden, Johnston, Hunter and Richards. Now the members are Doeg, Lott, Van Ryn and Allison. A few years ago no one dreamed that the old team would pass out so quickly, but Johnston retired, Richards turned professional, and Tilden and Hunter were unable to keep up a winning pace against the stars of France. Age has given way to youth. Doeg is 22, Lott 23, Van Ryn 24 and Allison 25. Doeg, who replaces John Hennessy as the fourth member of the team this year, ranks third on the American tennis list in spite of his youth. His southpaw service is considered one of the best in the game. During the Southern winter season he made a better record than any other contestant, winning four tournaments. He is a product of Stanford University.

TECH, W.-J. MEET ON TRACK THURSDAY

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

TARTAN SQUAD FAVORED OVER PRESIDENTS

By JESS CARVER.

Carnegie Tech's varsity track and field team figures to win a dual meet Thursday. The Tartans will entertain the young gents of Wash-Jeff College in the Tartan Bowl, and are rather favored to outscore the honorable Prexys, who were decisively turned by Bethany in their opening meet just a week back.

Tech didn't fare so well against Geneva, but displayed enough strength to warrant the prognostication that it will fly its pied colors above those of the Wash-Jeffers, although by no walkaway score.

A SUGGESTION

A coach prominent in W. P. I. A. L. athletics made the suggestion at the Carnegie Tech Interscholastics last Saturday that Pitt, Tech and the league go into a huddle and put on one big two-day track and field meet, instead of staging the three major carnivals that are now annually programmed.

He did not go into any great detail, so I don't know whether he meant to have special W. P. I. A. L. events in with the open ones, making it possible to crown a league champion, or whether to rank the W. P. I. A. L. teams on the basis of the places they might score in events in which schools from out of the state and not members of the league might be entered.

DOPING IT OUT

The hammering that Duquesne's track team took from Westminster Saturday makes it apparent that the locals are not going to cut any hefty figure in the annual Tri-State Conference meet at Beaver Falls, and that it will be up to Bethany or Westminster to remove the Covenanters from the championship.

The chances are that Geneva will continue to rule, even as they have been doing with such aplomb ever since the Conference was formed. Bethany looks to be stronger than in years past, and if Westminster can hold to the points it has scored during the past two years, Geneva's winning margin will at least be reduced.

THE SCHEDULE

Today's collegiate athletic program is rather full. There are three baseball games in the district and a tennis match at Washington.

The diamond engagements bring together West Virginia and St. Vincent's at Latrobe; Fairmont and West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon and the California Teachers and the Charleroi Club of the Mid-Atlantic League at Charleroi.

Carnegie's varsity net team swings into action against Wash-Jeff at Washington, while the Tartan Plebes meet Shady Side Academy on the Skibo courts.

California Teachers track and field team and the Uniontown High squad have a dual engagement billed at California.

center fence for a four-run homer.

That one bad serving upset the Buccos' applecart and spoiled what probably would have been a keen duel between the two young lefthanders. French had two strikes on Walker and was making him look bad on low curves when he let fly with a fast one in the groove. Walker, like the average hurler, is regarded as a weak boy at the plate, but French certainly threw where he was swinging. It is quite difficult to alibi a ball hit more than 400 feet over the faraway fence, so that it would seem to be the better part of sportsmanship to decorate Bill for his unusual feat.

Perhaps the Pirates would have been trimmed anyhow in view of the masterly twirling of the lad who led the National League in effectiveness last summer. Bill shut the door in the faces of the Pirates for eight rounds. George Grantham's smashing homer into the upper deck of the rightfield stands breaking the dull monotony of the Pittsburgh ciphers.

KREMER TO PITCH

But today is another day, and Remy Kremer is all set to face the enemy. Kremer has had three days of rest since his last appearance and should be in form. Manager McGraw is expected to counter with Carl Hubbell or Herb Pruett, both lefthanders. In view of Walker's accomplishment of yesterday, McGraw may feel constrained to use both Hubbell and Pruett in the two battles. Walker, however, is the only lefthander who has dulled the Pittsburgh offensive.

Ervin Brame has returned to the Pirates after attending the funeral of his father. The tall righthander worked out yesterday and it is likely that he will be on the mound tomorrow or Thursday.

The opening clash of the series was held up for a short time owing to wet weather. The Pittsburgh management did not decide to play until 3 o'clock, the Giants going into action without going through the customary batting practise.

The one pitched ball ruined French for the day and Walker, maker of two other hits besides his homer, waged a brilliant defensive battle against Ens' sluggers. French came out for a pinch-hitter in the ninth and Heinie Meine who has been ailing, made his season's debut. Meine was unsteady, the Giants making three additional runs in the last round.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Fifty thousand to see the second division Yankees play Sunday and 40,000 more watching the Cubs. Yup, poor old baseball is on its last legs, just like a centipede. Well the Yanks are out of last place. They are still just hobbling along, but it is hard to stay in the cellar very long when you've got a team like the Red Sox in the league. They tell me night baseball is a success in the Western League. If they ever play it on the major circuits I know some magnates who are so tight they would turn off the arc lights when the moon was full.

Sport Vignettes

Now that night baseball is the latest fad, how about trading in a few hours of daylight saving for nightlight wasting? . . . . Fellows working on night tricks are organizing a protest against taking away their afternoon sports . . . . Can't blame players for going to sleep on the bases when they're not accustomed to being out after 9 o'clock . . . . And the cushions so inviting! . . . . Can you imagine night tennis, with Bill Tilden going into the stands and busting one of the spectators in the beezer because his snoring has upset Sweet Willyum's temperamental stroking? . . . Who was it that said nothing important ever happens before midnight? . . . . First thing we know we'll have Texas Guinan as master of ceremonies at our world series nocturnals . . . . And our national excuse for being late to work in the morning will be that we sat up to hear Graham MacNamee broadcast an extra-inning battle . . . . They've installed Gallant Fox, Earl Sande's mount, as the favorite in the Preakness at Pimlico next Friday as well as in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs eight days later . . . . Wouldn't it be a swell comeback for Sande if he should win both of these features, and a fine climax to his brilliant career? . . . . Eastern and Western-owned horses have broken even in the last 10 years' running of the Derby, each winning five, and the tie will be shattered Saturday of next week . . . . Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, says he took off about 1,000 pounds in making weight for his various battles . . . . Says his natural weight at the time was 145 pounds, yet by systematic training he was able to get down to 135 pounds consistently without weakening himself. He figures he made the weight about 100 times, which would total the 1,000 pounds, almost six times his natural weight . . . . That's taking away a lot from a little and having a great deal left . . . . The Kentucky Rosebud, former Negro boxer, who died in Philadelphia Sunday, was a colorful character in the "good old days" and ranks as one of the Negro fighters whose names will not soon be forgotten . . . . Of the greatest importance is the intelligence communicated to this department that the Pittsburgh Chess Club, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in this country, has been forced to vacate its quarters in the Apollo Building and now is ensconced in the Investment Building, across the street, in Fourth avenue . . . . The next big event at the Chess Club will be an exhibition of simultaneous playing by Frank J. Marshall, national champion, on the night of June 5 . . . . The public is invited to participate, bringing its own chessmen, of course . . . . Horace (Pip) Koehler, star of the Pittsburgh Morrys when they were the Central Professional Basketball League champions, is leading the American Association in batting with a mark of .456. He is the captain of the Toledo Club and the property of the New York Giants . . . . Pip first broke into the limelight as an athlete at Penn State College, where he was a teammate of Ken Loeffler, now basketball coach at Geneva College . . . . While in the Central Basketball League, he was rated the circuit's outstanding player and he went from that club to Fort Wayne, of the American Professional League, the major league of the winter sport . . . . Last season, he remained in Toledo, playing for the National League champions of that city.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

fine bawling out after the game was over. I guess they was riding him and musta said somethin' nasty. McGraw got out of the dugout and told the two of them where to get off.

NO PERSONAL STUFF

Well, if they were callin' the players names I don't blame him. I like to ride other players a lot, but we don't put over any personal stuff that hurts. The gents McGraw was lacing looked like intelligent men, too, and I can't figure out how smart people can sit in a box and abuse fellas who are acting like gentlemen.

Supper didn't taste so good last night on account of Larry makin' one too good for Bill Walker. But when the breaks are goin' again a fella them things happen. Pat Malone was driving in runs for the Cubs a few days ago and now Walker hits one out of the lot with three on the sacks.

But Larry is only a kid and everybody goes through a lot of things like that. He has the stuff and he's bound to win. We wasn't hittin' yesterday and maybe it wasn't in the books for us to cop, but we'd be out there hustlin' from now on.

MAKES 'EM HUSTLE

Jule won't stand for any players that don't hustle and he'll be eggin' everybody on today. I think some of the fellas were a bit down from the strain of things, but they'll make a comeback.

I'm still getting in the morning practise because I want to be ready for anything. I guess there aint much chance o' me breaking in this summer, but I wanta keep ready for them exhibition games. I suppose I won't have to make that one-day jump to Brooklyn Sunday, and if I don't I'll be open to any dinner engagements. You know Pittsburgh is a little dull on Sunday if you're not acquainted.

I'm gonna watch McGraw again today and see if I can pick off any of his signs.

Cubs Halted First Time By Rain

CHICAGO, May 6.—(AP.)—The weather at last has caught up with the Chicago Cubs.

After 19 straight days of scheduled toil, the National League champions yesterday had only time to gain a one-run lead over Philadelphia in the final game of the series before rain halted the engagement in the second inning.

N. Y. TO O. K. MAX TODAY

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling wasted no time yesterday in going strictly American as far as his exercise was concerned. The German heavyweight, who arrived from the fatherland Sunday, took advantage of the sunny day to get in 18 holes of golf.

Schmeling will appear before the New York state athletic commission today to apply for reinstatement so that he may fight Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium June 12 for the heavyweight championship. The reinstatement is a formality inasmuch as the title bout has been officially approved by the fistic fathers.

D.-E. WINS

ELKINS, W. Va., May 6.—The Davis-Elkins tennis team defeated Broaddus here yesterday, 4 to 2.

ATTREAU SOLD

SCOTTDALE, May 6.—Dick Attreau, first baseman, has been bought from Harrisburg by the local club.

W. P. I. A. L. NINES TOP CARD TODAY

CITY LEAGUE TEAMS HAVE OFF DAY

The W. P. I. A. L. baseball nines have the field to themselves today, and with the City League enjoying an off day, offer contests in all four sections. The league games lead the day's scholastic card, with three junior battles and two non-league frays in addition.

In Section I Turtle Creek and Pitcairn, both still in the running for the section title, clash at Pitcairn. Scott High, of North Braddock, defending league champion, and unbeaten so far this season, meets a test in Rankin. Edgewood and Wilkinsburg clash at Wilkinsburg.

In Section III Crafton, proud possessor of a win over the favored McKees Rocks club, takes on Mt. Lebanon. Dormont plays McKees Rocks, anxious to stage a comeback, at McKees Rocks. The Section IV game brings together Aliquippa and Stowe at Stowe.

In the junior division of the City League, Peabody meets Gladstone, Arsenal tackles Liberty and Oliver plays at Overbrook.

The independent tussles bring McKeesport and Shady Side Academy together at Shady Side and Ford City and Kiski at Saltsburg.

Yesterday in a City League game played at Phipps Field, Allegheny added further to the woes of the slumping Langley team by winning a 6 to 5 decision in an eight-inning game.

JONES, MATES IN ENGLAND

PLYMOUTH, England, May 6.—(AP.)—Members of the American Walker Cup team reached England today on the Mauretania. All disembarked except Bobby Jones, who remained aboard and proceeded to Southampton. He expressed the opinion that the team's prospects were good.

"But," Jones said, "I am sure that we shall have a very hard fight, for I think that Great Britain has got together her strongest team in years. I myself have been playing very well I suppose, but having played a lot of golf I don't like to say too much about that. I have not played for three weeks, however, and got only a little practice on the boat. We shall see how we shape up when we get down to hard practice."

Loughran, Schaaf Meet Again June 9

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—(INS.)—Tommy Loughran and Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, whose battle here a week ago ended with the Bostonian getting one of the most bitterly disputed verdicts in the history of Philadelphia boxing, have been rematched. They will sign agreements this afternoon for a 10-round tilt in the Sesqui Stadium on June 9, inaugurating the open-air season.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—(INS.)—Young Corbett, of Fresno, Cal., and Andy Divodi, New York, a pair of outstanding welterweights, will meet in a 10-round fight here, May 16.

AKRON, O., May 6.—K. O. Christner, who is matched to box Pat McCarthy at Boston, May 12, may engage Primo Carnera in Detroit on either May 31 or after the Sharkey-Schmeling match in New York, June 12, his manager, Suey Welch, announced here today.

Dick Shikat Tosses Steinke in Title Go

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—Richard Shikat, world's heavyweight wrestling champion in the eyes of New York State Athletic Commission, successfully defended his title against Hans Steinke, giant German here last night.

Shikat won on a fall after 43 minutes, 5 seconds, of wrestling. Steinke was the aggressor during the major part of the bout. After about 40 minutes of wrestling, however, Shikat went to work and finally slammed Steinke to the mat. Steinke's head struck the canvas and stunned, he was an easy victim for the champion. Shikat weighed 218; Steinke 240.

Woman Will Help Fairmount Lift Lid

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 6.—(AP.)—Mrs. A. D. Showalter, president-elect of the Fairmont Chapter of the Junior League, will pitch the first ball at the opening of the Middle Atlantic League season here today. Sheriff William Conway will be at bat and Albert Kern, city attorney, will be behind the plate. Fairmont opens the season with the Clarksburg Generals.

W. Va. Cards Both Army, Navy in Track

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., May 6.—(AP.)—With the scheduling of the Navy for a dual track meet in 1931, as announced yesterday, West Virginia University for the first time in its athletic history has future engagements with both United States service schools.

H. A. Stansbury, director of athletics, announced that the Mountaineers will meet the United States Naval Academy track and field team at Annapolis, Md., May 16, 1931.

The Mountaineer track schedule next year also calls for a meet with the United States Military Academy here on May 30 and West Virginia will engage the Army at West Point in 1932.

A'S REGISTER FIFTH WIN IN ROW

Associated Press.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics have overcome the spotty play that marked their early-season efforts and vaulted back into the lead in the American League race.

Al Simmons' fifth homer of the season enabled the A's to register their fifth successive victory at the expense of the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 4 to 3, in 12 innings. It was the sheer power rather than the continuity of the champions' batting that beat the Browns. Lefty Grove, A's ace southpaw, was pounded for three runs in the first two innings, but Joe Boley hit two home runs and Mule Haas one to tie the score by the end of the sixth inning. Five and one-half innings of scoreless baseball followed before Simmons broke up the game. Grove went the route for the A's as did Alvin Crowder for the Browns.

INDIANS TIED FOR LEAD

Victims of a vicious batting attack at Boston, the Cleveland Indians fell back into a tie with the Athletics for the league lead. Four Indian pitchers were pounded for 23 hits as the Red Sox won, 18 to 3, and snapped Cleveland's winning streak of six straight. The game was decided in the fifth inning when the Red Sox fell on Hudlin, Shaute and Miller for nine runs. Milt Gaston allowed the Indians seven scattered safeties.

The Washington Senators suffered their third straight defeat, losing to Detroit, 3 to 1, in a tight pitcher's battle between Lloyd Brown and Lefty Hogsett. Both went out in the eighth inning with the Tigers leading 3-1 and there the score remained.

YANKS WIN ANOTHER

Vernon Gomez, Pacific Coast League recruit, gave up only five hits as the New York Yankees won their third straight game from the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 1. Willie Kamm's home run in the second inning accounted for the White Sox's only run. Red Faber shut out the Yanks for six innings but they fell on him for three runs in the seventh. Lazzeri hit for the circuit off Caraway in the eighth.

In the National League, the New York Giants went back into first place with a 9-to-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Bill Walker was the whole show for the winners. He gave up only six hits, one a homer by George Grantham, and hit for the circuit with the bases filled in the fourth inning.

GRIMES KNOCKED OUT

Cincinnati pounded Burleigh Grimes for six runs in the first five innings and easily beat the Boston Braves, 10 to 6. After tallying once in the third inning, the Reds fell on Grimes for five runs in the fifth. Boston came back with five off Red Lucas in the first half of the sixth, but the Reds put the game on ice in their half with four runs off Brandt. Horace Ford had a great day at bat with three doubles and a triple.

St. Louis and Brooklyn had an off day and the Chicago Cubs played only one inning of their game with the Phillies before rain halted hostilities. Incidentally it was the first postponement the Cubs have had since the season opened.

HORTON SMITH STARS ABROAD

SOUTHPORT, Eng., May 6.—(INS.)—Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., only American contender in the $7,500 British professional golf tournament, turned in a tidy 74 in the first qualifying round played over the Birkdale course today.

Smith's score was among the lowest of those turned in by the 310 entries, comprising the cream of Britain's professional golfdom. His card:

Out ....3 4 4 5 4 4 3 4 5—36
In ....5 3 4 3 5 5 5 4 4—38

The 100 players turning in the lowest scores after two qualifying rounds on four different courses today will play two rounds each at Birkdale on Thursday and Friday.

C. A. Whitcombe was around in 70, and Aubrey Boomer scored 73. Leo Diegel, American professional champion, landed at Plymouth with the Walker Cup Players today and as he could not reach Southport in time to qualify, scratched his entry.

Babe to Broadcast to Fans At 7 O'Clock Friday Night

A great treat is in store for the baseball radio fans of the entire United States at 7 o'clock Friday night. The New York Evening Journal has arranged for Babe Ruth to deliver a baseball message over the Columbia broadcasting chain at that hour.

Station WJAS is the Pittsburgh station on the Columbia chain.

When the matter of making a radio address was first broached to Ruth the highest salaried athlete in the history of sport expressed a desire to go on the air immediately following the hitting of his next home run. The New York Evening Journal, realizing that thousands of baseball fans are eager to listen in on the great Bambino, prevailed upon him to set a definite time for his talk, so the day and hour might be announced that none of the fans would be disappointed.

To Expose Imposter.

The attempt to prove Rowley Rawson's identity and to expose the man posing as his uncle Roscoe Rawson as an imposter, carries Rawson and his confidential adviser, Jimmy Otis, to consult the records in the nearest cathedral.

Rowley has seen a copy of the birth certificate by which Uncle Roscoe is attempting to prove his identity and his claim to Grandfather Rawson's title. Rowley feels that the certificate is a forgery. He intends, by obtaining copies of the official church records, to prove Uncle Roscoe's claim fraudulent while establishing his own identity.

Several discoveries are made at the cathedral, and the boys succeed in liberating the sexton from a bad predicament.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

FIVE GUEST ARTISTS of national prominence tint colorful programs on the air tonight.

Richard Crooks, tenor, will take the trip to Germany on KDKA at 8:30. He has used good judgment in the selection of the Prize Song from "Die Meistersinger" and Lohengrin's Narrative from "Lohengrin," both works of that great German master, Richard Wagner.

Irene Dunne of Show Boat fame and John Held, Jr., cartoonist, will entertain on WJAS at 9 as guests of Paul Whiteman. Miss Dunne played the role of "Magnolia" in Ziegfeld's production.

Irene Dunne.

Caroline Andrews' fine coloratura soprano will be heard on WCAE at 9 p. m. With her will appear Herman Wasserman, noted Polish pianist, who will play special arrangements of Saint Saens' "The Swan," and a Rachmaninoff transcription of the famous "Liebesleid."

* * *

President Hoover's address from the rostrum of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg on Memorial Day, will be broadcast by KDKA and WCAE.

BEDTIME STORY

There is a temporary lull in the further radio appearances of Baby Rose Marie, 5 years old, until the Children's Society in New York decides what her bedtime should be. Her father, Frank Mazetta, 36, a salesman, was haled into court last week on a charge of having allowed her to sing at a beefsteak supper at midnight, a violation of the law.

Caroline Andrews, the Eveready Hour star tonight, once played operatic roles in Pittsburgh.

Babe Ruth is to talk over WCAE Friday night at 7 o'clock.

Norman Brokenshire of Columbia spends his spare time inventing small mechanical devices.

"AND THAT'S THAT!"
SAYS LOVELY MISS

"I've tried them all," explained the young lady whose brilliant smile revealed such beautiful teeth, "and I've come to rely on PEBECO Tooth Paste. I've never had such a sense of clean, white teeth, such a feeling of real exhilaration in my mouth than since I started using Pebeco. No more switching for me!" . . . and there are the very reasons why Pebeco keeps its friends longer than any other dentifrice. We ask you seriously: Have you tried Pebeco? Aren't you missing something?

Academy Awards Art Fellowships

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—The American Academy in Rome awarded its fellowship in painting to Salvatore De Maio, 22, of New Haven, Conn., and its sculpture fellowship to William Marks Simpson, Jr., 26, of Norfolk, Va.

Each receives a fellowship of an estimated cash value of $8,000 including all expenses for three years' residence and study in Rome with transportation both ways.

$40,000 ASKED IN CRASH

Miss Alice Bennett and Miss Mabel C. Lett, buyers for a downtown department store, injured in an automobile accident when a truck of the Elger Pottery Co., Ford City, collided with the Bennett car, have brought suit for $40,000 damages.

Miss Bennett lives in Millvale and Miss Lett at the Wendover Apartment, Hobart street. They claim that the driver of the pottery truck did not use proper precaution. As a result Miss Bennett who sprained her right ankle and was injured about the body, asks $25,000 damages and Miss Lett, who also received bodily hurts, asks $15,000 through their counsel, A. H. Rosenberg.

STOCK TRADING TURNS DULL ON RISE

Market Opens Up Stronger, Becomes Irregular, Stages Rally, Then Quiets Down

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP.)—Physicians to the Stock Exchange reported today that the patient was resting more quietly and showing fairly pronounced signs of recovery after the recent attack of convulsions. They were inclined to take a conservative view, however, indicating that intermediate setbacks would not be unusual in a case of this sort.

Stocks began the day with a further outburst of strength, as the short covering movement which caused the violent upswing late yesterday was completed. Advances of 2 to 5 points were common, with a few erratic issues making wider gains. The market soon turned rather wishy-washy, however, as speculation for the raise was largely held in abeyance pending more definite testing of the price level, and in-and-out traders who bought at yesterday's low levels took their profits.

TRADING TURNS DULL

As the market turned dull around midday, with the ticker running well abreast of transactions, and renewed pressure failed to appear, bullish operations in the utilities were resumed, and practically the entire market showed a strong upward trend during the early afternoon, trading soon turned dull on the rally, however.

Credit conditions remained favorable, with call loans renewing at 3½ per cent and the rate later dropping to 3. Business news was for the most part scarcely a character to influence the market. The further cut in copper price caused some further liquidation of the coppers during the morning, but losses were moderate. Chain Store Sales reports for April are largely favorable, but comparisons are made difficult by the later date of Easter. Cuts in Steel Wire Products by independents had been foreshadowed last week. Reports from California Oil Circles indicated that some trouble is being experienced with the curtailment program at Santa Fe Springs, but settlement without renewed price cutting is expected.

LONG LIST RISES

The forward movement in the utilities carried such issues as American Power and Light, North American, American Water Works, Western Union, Standard Gas and American Telephone up nearly 10 points. Investment rails joined the advance, such issues as Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Atchison and Union Pacific mounting 4 to 8 points.

Such shares as Radio, U. S. Steel, and general electric recorded gains of a point or two after absorbing considerable selling during the morning, but attracted renewed pressure and advances were not well maintained.

Among the more volatile issues, J. I. Case surged up more than 20 points, getting above 310, as compared to a low yesterday of 276.

COPPER BUYERS HESITANT

NEW YORK, May 6.—Stephen Birch, president of Kennecott Copper Corporation, at the annual meeting, said that all business is far from normal and the copper industry is no worse off than any of the other industries.

Mr. Birch added:

"We are not concerned about the price so much as dearth of buying. If Kennecott could sell at the present price all the copper it could produce, it would make as much money, if not more, than it has ever made."

Mr. Birch thinks that a great deal of business is being held back and that this business may be slow in coming in. He said:

"It is not so much the lack of ability to buy as unwillingness."

Reject Northwest Steel Rate Cut

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has rejected as unjustified proposal of the Milwaukee, the Northwestern and the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroads to reduce the rates on iron and steel articles from the Chicago district to Milwaukee, Kenosha and Racine, Wis., and intermediate points.

A new schedule proposing the reduced rates, which have been suspended pending investigation, were ordered canceled.

The carriers sought to justify proposed schedules on ground that a reduction in rates was necessary to retain traffic to rail carriers because of competition by water carriers.

Wheeling Traction Loses Fare Raise

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The Wheeling Traction Company, operating an 84-mile electric line in Ohio and West Virginia, lost in an effort before the Interstate Commerce Commission to secure higher fares on interstate traffic when the commission ruled that fares required to be maintained in Ohio on a lower scale were not in violation of the interstate commerce act.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 6.—Responsive to stock market rallies, wheat scored a brisk advance early today. Previous speculative sellers who attempted to reverse their position as to wheat found offerings scarce until quotations had scored material gains. Opening ⅛@1⅜c higher, wheat afterward continued upgrade. Corn and oats were also firmer, with corn starting at ⅜@1c advance and subsequently rising still more.

Provisions tended to sag.

Indications that the wheat market had been oversold were plainly in evidence much of the time today. Most commission houses had buying orders and the fact that the Liverpool market showed advances preceding the gains here had a noticeable strengthening influence. There were also reports of too much rain in Italy, with rust prevailing south and with crop conditions for France and Hungary lowered also by continued excessive moisture.

Exporters were credited with having done a fair amount of business overnight in North American wheat, with some United States hard winter wheat forming part of the total. On the other hand, it was announced that North America has exported but 265,000,000 bushels so far this season, 50 per cent less than was the case last year, whereas total world shipments have been only 30 per cent less.

Stocks of Zinc Increase in April

NEW YORK, May 6.—Stocks of slab zinc in hands of American producers May 1 amounted to 96,453 short tons, as compared with 94,033 on April 1, an increase of 2,420 tons, according to the American Zinc Institute.

Production in April was 43,080 tons and shipments 40,660 tons. Shipments for exports came to 26 tons in April. Metal sold but not shipped at the end of April amounted to 29,003 tons. Average number of retorts operating, during April was 49,373. Retorts in operation at the end of April were 49,150.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 6.—The curb market lost little time in moving toward higher levels today. Moderate improvement at the opening attracted some profit taking in stocks bought at yesterday's bottom prices, but the list turned decisively upward late in the morning and by early afternoon gains of two of five points were numerous.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Price on Copper Reduced Further

NEW YORK, May 6.—Custom smelters are quoting 12½ cents per pound delivered in the domestic market for copper. Some producers also are at that price but a leading one is not quoting.

Some consumers are said to be bidding 12 cents but as yet no one has been willing to meet that price.

Mack Truck's Net Off for Quarter

NEW YORK, May 6.—Mack Trucks, Inc., reports for the March quarter net profit of $490,709 after depreciation, federal taxes, equal to 64 cents a share on the 763,320 no-par shares, comparing with net of $1,429,587 in the first quarter of 1929, or $1.89 a share on 755,625 shares.

LONE STAR GAS CONTINUES RALLY

Stock Moves Up Briskly In Early Trading Here; General Tone Improved

A further vigorous rally in Lone Star Gas marked the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with the stock running up to a level about 7 points above the low point reached when the price collapsed at the opening yesterday.

It was pointed out today that Lone Star holders who take up the rights offered a few days ago will participate in the stock dividend declared last Saturday. This applies to stock paid for in installments, the last of which falls due January 3, 1931. The stock dividend will be paid to holders of record February 2. However, cash dividends in the interim will be paid only to holders who take up the subscription by payment in full by July 3, 1930. Installment paid stock will not receive cash dividends until the last payment is made.

Electric Products suffered a sharp collapse and enjoyed an equally sharp recovery at the noon hour. A raid on the stock similar to yesterday's rally against Lone Star was the only explanation the floor had for the incident.

U. S. Not Going to Dogs, Though Stocks Decline

By B. C. FORBES

THE UNITED STATES is not going to the dogs though "Wall Street" evidently rushed to that conclusion towards the end of last week.

The undeniable truth is that prosperity is on the mend—slowly it is true but unmistakably.

NOTHING TANGIBLE happened to precipitate the excited selling of stocks which broke loose violently last Thursday and continued until the close on Saturday after nearly 5,000,000 shares were jettisoned in the two-hour session, to be resumed again yesterday when many stocks were sunk to new low levels, although the market staged quite a substantial recovery towards the end of the session.

THE TERM "WALL STREET" is still used by many to denote only a lot of New York stock gamblers. Time was when buying and selling on the New York Stock Exchange was confined to relatively few individuals, mostly men of means, and led by a number of nationally-known gamblers of the Bet-You-A-Million-Gates type.

But the real Wall Street of today is almost synonymous with the United States.

Of course, there are still large scale speculators even though not more than two or three of them figure prominently in the day-to-day chronicles of the Stock Market. Financial reporters do lug in such names as W. C. Durant, Jesse L. Livermore, Arthur W. Cutten, J. J. Raskob, and during the pre-panic bull market they played up the so-called "Big Ten" in accounting for spectacular demonstrations in various stocks. Certain war-made multimillionaires were sometimes referred to vaguely rather than by name. But everybody recognized that the "Coolidge Bull Market" was much broader-based than any other Stock-Market movement, that it allured countless novices in the game of stock speculation and that stock ownership had multiplied amazingly.

THEREFORE IT is no longer fair to lay the sins of "Wall Street" to a number of professionel speculators or to New York. The percentage of New Yorkers who dabble in stocks probably is no higher than the percentage in Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco or other large cities.

It is important that the American public recognize this fact so that misunderstanding and sectional recrimination may be avoided.

THE COUNTRY was enjoying the most widely spread prosperity in its history at the time this writer began sounding warnings against the frenzied ongoings in Wall Street.

That warning was sounded not because national industrial, agricultural or commercial conditions were unsound, but because stock speculation was running beyond all reason and playing havoc with monetary conditions throughout the world. One did not need to be an inspired seer to foresee that the speculative boom would inevitably burst and burst disastrously.

When the panic raged, the advice was given here to buy good stocks for investment. Again it was not difficult to foresee that there would be a very substantial recovery sooner or later, from panic levels.

BY THE BEGINNING of April it had become fairly clear that many stocks were being forced above reasonable prices. Consequently, intimations were repeatedly voiced here that in the highest financial circles preparations were being made for a setback.

After backing and filling erratically for a period, a deluge of liquidation overtook the market last Thursday. Without exhibiting anything but feeble rallies, the market went lower and lower until declines of 20, 30, 40, 50 and even 75 points from the previous month's high quotations were sustained. Yesterday, as already told, stocks again declined sharply, but later recovered.

WHAT IS the outlook now? In the same influential circles where caution against following the market's sustained rise was sounded a month ago, caution is now sounded against following the market's frenzied decline. Just as the "Coolidge boom" was overdone, the November collapse overdone and this year's marking up process overdone, so it is reasoned that this latest selling outburst is being overdone.

The writer's own guess is that investment stocks can be discriminatingly purchased now with every confidence that they will show generous profits if put into strong boxes and retained.

Heavy Liquidation by Investment Trusts Reported in Wall Street,

Plans for closer scrutiny of the operations of investment trusts are seen in the making as a result of the move by the assistant attorney general in charge of the New York State Bureau of Securities, in seeking complete data relative to the operations of those trading corporations. The questionnaires now being dispatched to close to 300 such corporations are quite exhaustive in their scope. Whether this move has any connection with the current selling of stocks is, of course, something which cannot be readily confirmed. But it is interesting to note that investment trusts were reported heavy sellers at frequent intervals last week.

Through yesterday morning when the market was showing unusually stern resistance to selling pressure report was current that scale down buying was in the leaders in heavy volume. For a time it appeared as though the combination of buying of this character and strong support would be effective in checking the decline and perhaps bringing something in the way of a rally. But another heavy drive on steel common, toward the start of the final hour, drove that stock to new low levels for the move some 31 points under the high of the year, with weakness here influencing a renewal of general selling through the list.

Evidently the bargain-hunter, that trader of unusually keen vision, who usually appears on the scene near the tail-end stages of a decline such as now being experienced, has not yet put in an appearance. At least Wall Street observers, who are quick to note his arrival, have not yet been moved to remark his presence. The bargain-hunter is the type of trader who awaits just such conditions as now prevail to provide unusually attractive buying opportunities. Inasmuch as he finds such opportunities only a few times a year his activity when it comes is ordinarily accepted as a harbinger of better market conditions ahead.

The record-breaking volume of business transacted on the stock exchange during April, as set forth in the compilation of monthly figures a few days ago, is reflected in report just issued showing the amount of transfer taxes paid into the coffers of the state. The New York State Treasury collected a total of $3,772,209 through the sale of transfer tax stamps for April as compared with $3,221,656 in March and with $2,522,000 in April a year ago. This indicated brokers enjoyed a liberal business during the month and explains the current high quotations of stock exchange memberships.

The average trader in Wall street is quite at a loss to understand what is back of the selling which has been on the market for the last 10 days. Most observers still contend, in face of evidence to the contrary in the shape of brokers' loan rise, that the public had not come heavily into the market on the rise this year. They cite the loan position of the average big house to support their contention, holding that before the break last September such houses were carrying some $120,000,000 in loans for customers. During the break such loans dropped to an average of $40,000,000 and a week ago stood around $50,000,000 for most of the larger houses.

If, therefore, the public has not been heavily involved in the new speculation for the rise, it could not reasonably be a tremendous factor on the selling side at the moment. The belief has arisen that perhaps professional groups, after three or four months of bullish effort, not being over successful in attracting a public following became discouraged and let go. Certainly for the moment the setting was not just right for a continuation of bullish activity. The market had completed what was generally accepted as the first phase of its new bull movement, when it came face to face with disappointing first quarter results, sluggish railway freight movement, and inability of the market to respond to the world-wide cut in bank rates.

GIANNINI QUITS BANKING AT 60

NEW YORK, May 6.—(INS.)—Amadeo Peter Giannini, who as a boy sold fruit on the San Francisco waterfront, retired today on his sixtieth birthday as executive of the billion-dollar banking corporation he founded.

While he is "definitely off the payroll," Giannini will continue on the boards of directors and without compensation serve as chairman of the advisory committee of the Trans-America Corporation, the parent company for all his companies.

Direction of Trans-America, reported to be the world's largest bank holding company, he turned over to Elisha Walker.

Walker formerly headed Blair & Co., investment banking house taken into the Giannini organization.

Giannini, who is in Washington meeting with the committee on banking and currency of the House of Representatives to complete a study of the subject of group and branch banking, will sail on the Mauretania from New York, June 11, with Mrs. Giannini and their son, V. D. Giannini, for a year's absence abroad.

"Save the Surface and you Save All"

Of all the advertising slogans familiar to the public none seems to contain more sound, sensible advice than the slogan of the painters "Save the Surface and You Save All."

If consistently followed by everyone, that advice would result in the saving of millions of dollars worth of property annually. Decay and rust begin at the surface and are caused by exposure of the wood or metal to the weather. Paint provides a weather-proof coating which seals and protects the vulnerable surface.

Painters are waging ceaseless warfare against decay and rust, and in this they perform an invaluable service to mankind.

To the painters of Pittsburgh the Mellon National Bank issues a sincere invitation . . . an invitation to open accounts and to make use of all the Bank's facilities for transacting financial business.

INLAND STEEL EARNINGS STEADY

Operations Maintained at Satisfactory Rate During First Quarter This Year

NEW YORK, May 6.—Inland Steel Company's first quarter earnings statement helps to explain why other big steel units have sought to include the company in the past when conducting merger negotiations. The location of its plant, the adaptation of its mills to needs of the territory it serves, enabled the company to operate on a basis almost as high as in the preceding year, and net profit consequently showed a decrease of less than 10 per cent from the first 1929 quarter.

Net profit was $2,721,318 after all charges, or $2.26 a share for the 1,200,000 common shares, against $3,007,242, or $2.50 a share in the first quarter of 1929. Inland Steel made no large additions to its capacity, such as several companies did during 1929. The company's ability to maintain its earning power is attributable to the staple line of products produced.

RAIL ORDERS LARGE

Steel mills in the Chicago territory, where Inland's plant is located, have been operating at a rate substantially higher than at other steel centers. Large demands for steel for the railroads have been responsible to a large extent for the activity at Chicago.

Inland benefited by the stability in prices for heavy steel rails, which are quoted at $43 a ton at the mill, the same basis which was prevailing a year ago. Rails are about the only steel product quoted at last year's level, other items having been reduced several times this year. The stability in rail prices is due to the regularity of demand, railroads placing practically the same tonnage each year in the fall and spring.

BUSINESS STABLE

Only the large steel companies produce steel rails, and this market always has been free of such disturbances as now are being witnessed among automotive steel manufacturers.

Rail buying is seasonally slow during the summer, and Inland will not enjoy this business in coming months. This means an important source of first quarter earnings will not be contributing as substantially during the next four or five months. But Inland's line of products is well diversified and the company participates in practically all forms of steel buying in its territory.

Wheat Price Control Reaching Crisis

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A LOW OF $1 FOR MAY WHEAT reached yesterday at Chicago indicated that the world struggle over the price is coming to a decisive stage. Both the United States and Canada have been holding wheat since the last crop in the belief that world requirements would force consumers in other countries to pay the prices prevailing on this continent. These have been substantially higher than abroad.

By July 1 the crop in this country will be ready. A month later the Canadian crop will be harvested. Within the short space of time until then it will be known whether or not the attempts made to stabilize wheat prices have been successful or whether those in control of wheat on this continent have overstayed their market.

Last summer saw elevators here and in Canada crowded to capacity. The normal export movement of wheat did not take place due to the levels at which prices were being held on this continent. The large wheat importing countries naturally sought the cheapest markets. Most of the importing countries had good crops and the Argentine crop was cleared in a short time.

To Have Big Surplus

THE CARRYOVER WILL BE LARGER this year than last unless a very sudden change in conditions takes place. It has been estimated by one grain authority that the needs of importing countries between April 1 and August 1 will be about 216,000,000 bushels. Exporting countries outside of the two on North America have a surplus of about 100,000,000 bushels, leaving a demand of 116,000,000 bushels to be filled by the United States and Canada.

That is the bright side of the picture. But on the other side may be seen a North American exportable surplus of 350,000,000 bushels.

So far no export demand has been developed which shows much promise of moving any large share of the surplus before the new crop will be ready. Last week only about 3,700,000 bushels were exported from North America against 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Greater Exports Needed

THE NORTH AMERICAN stocks are 38,000,000 bushels greater this year than they were a year ago. In order to bring the carryover down to the level of last year by harvest time it will be necessary to export 2,500,000 bushels a week more than last year. The United States which has eight weeks to go before harvest has 25,000,000 more bushels of wheat than a year ago. Canada with 12 weeks to go has 13,000,000 bushels.

The problem of disposing of the old crop would not have reached such proportions if the Canadian wheat pool and the co-operatives in this country had permitted prices to decline to world levels. Their policy of supporting the price of wheat now brings them face to face with the task of finding what to do with the coming crop. Their marketing problem is becoming more acute each day and it is not being simplified by the fact that a shortage of elevator space may be encountered.

Foreign Supplies Low

STOCKS OF WHEAT in the importing countries are reaching exhaustion so that some increase in the export movement will have to take place shortly. These countries will have to be in the market until their own crops are harvested in August.

A large demand exists but the supply is so far in excess of this that the action of the wheat market in the next few weeks will form an interesting chapter in the history of attempts at commodity price control.

Bank Resources Show Big Decline

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Aggregate resources of the 7,316 reporting banks in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii Islands on March 31, 1930, amounted to $27,348,498,000, or a decrease of $1,533,985,000 since returns made by 7,408 banks on December 31, according to the comptroller of currency. Resources also showed a decilne of $1,673,414,000 for 7,575 banks as of March 27, 1929.

Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, on March 27, 1930, were $14,648,753,000, and shows decreases in the three and 12-month periods of $501,293,000 and $201,173,000, respectively.

Sweden Lifts Ban On Gold Imports

NEW YORK, May 6.—Recent removal of the gold import embargo by Sweden is characterized by the Bank of America N. A. as the final official step toward the return of that country to normal money conditions. The ban on gold imports, the bank points out in its monthly bulletin, was a war measure dating back to the early part of 1916, and was passed by Sweden in an attempt to avoid currency inflation and in the hope of obtaining a return for heavy Swedish exports in the from of much-needed commodities, rather than in gold or securities.

Bituminous Coal Production Gains

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Bituminous coal production in the United States during the week of April 26 increased slightly over that of the preceding week, as the output was reported by the Mines Bureau, but was less than that during the same week last year. Production for the three weeks compared was given as follows: Week ending April 26, 8,197,000 tons; preceding week, 8,103,000 tons; same week last year, 9,239,000 tons.

Crude Oil Yield Higher in Week

TULSA, Okla., May 6.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended May 3 totaled 2,589,030 barrels, an increase of 9,310 barrels over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. Light oil output increased 14,657 barrels daily.

Camden Shipyard Orders Boosts Force

CAMDEN, N. J., May 6.—(INS.)—The Camden shipyards will start work in August on $60,000,000 worth of new business, U. S. Senator David Baird, Jr., predicted before a gathering of business men here. He asserted that the force of 1500 men now at work in the shipyards here would have to be increased to 6,000 to handle the new projects.

The new orders will include the contracts for five ocean liners to cost about $3,300,000 each, Senator Baird said.

Corrective Movement in Stocks Leaves Reserve Group With Freer Hand

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, May 6.—The recent corrective movement in the stock market has left the Federal Reserve Board, the major American financial strategists, freer to go ahead with their conscious program of being helpful to business. It paved the way for the reduction last week of the rediscount rate at New York from 3½ to 3 per cent.

Until the brakes were applied the persistent rise in brokers loans since early in March indicating a resumption of speculative whoopee caused the reserve authorities to stop, look and listen to find out whether their artificial easing program which brought the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York down from 6 per cent to 3 per cent since Autumn had been overdone. Unquestionably artificially cheap money and the correct guess of speculators that there would be no near term departure by the banking authorities from the cheap money course gave the motive force to the major recovery of stock prices since the panic.

Until the recent setback there was some apprehension lest there would soon be a recurrence of the brokers' loan problem of last year. There is less reason to worry about that now. As a matter of fact though the rate of increase in the flow of credit to the stock market since March 1 was abnormally rapid, and plainly indicated a movement of stocks from stronger to weaker hands foreshadowing the reaction, the total volume of credit now tied up in holding securities is still very far from dangerous, from a strictly banking standpoint. The extent to which the banks are leaning on the Federal Reserve is also light.

RESERVE TO AID TRADE

In light of the changed speculative picture, it now becomes more feasible to foreshadow the Federal Reserve policy for the period that lies ahead. This opinion is based not only on my own survey of banking fundamentals but also on conversations with well-informed executives of the system. Unless there is some wholly unforeseen development the system will continue through the summer and the period of seasonal credit expansion later in the year to make no moves which would tend to put a damper on business enthusiasm. The main objective will still be to encourage rather than to discourage trade. This does not mean that the great easing process will continue indefinitely. But it does mean that the system probably will not take any steps to tighten money, but will seek to offset seasonal expansion with additional Federal Reserve credit.

As for the rediscount rate, there seemed little urgency in the domestic economic situation for bringing the New York rate below 3½ per cent. The simultaneous cuts in London, Paris and New York indicate that the adjustment represents window dressing for forthcoming reparations financing. The rate change is distinctly favorable to bond prices. A 3 per cent discount rate tends to emphasize the slackness of trade, being a subnormally low rate.

Although the country has imported $190,000,000 in gold since the first of the year, it involves no foreign exchange problem. The precious metal has not come in very largely from Europe, but has come chiefly from South America as a result of a special situation.

BUSINESS BETTER

Important officials in the Federal Reserve System in conversation point out that though we have been witnessing business recession, that the general volume of business has been better than expected six months ago. They connected the improvement of achievement over anticipation with President Hoover's business stabilization program. They also pointed out that, though trade had been slack, there have come in the last few days unofficial reports of a pickup in various key lines.

Roy A. Young, energetic and personable governor of the board, has been matching wits on Capitol Hill with the House Committee on Banking and Currency. Mr. Young, who until recently shared Secretary Mellon's view that there should be more study of group and branch banking before a definite policy is formulated, has switched over to Comptroller Pole's position that trade area branch banking should be organized. This has brought a protest from some of the group banking exponents who allege that control of unit banks by a holding company tends better to preserve local autonomy and to avoid the popular prejudice against chain stores. Mr. Young believes that ultimately there will be nationwide branch banking systems in this country, as there are in Canada and Great Britain.

In time the American people will demand banking laws which will assure the highest efficiency and service, irrespective of the vested rights and special privileges of bankers of the old regime.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 6.—Bonds showed signs of resuming the forward movement of last week during the earlier trading today. The reactionary tendency of Monday reflecting the disturbed condition of the share market was lacking and both investment and stock privilege issues displayed improvement. The volume was about even with the Monday's dull session.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP)—Transactions in the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, in thousand dollars, in sales (amounts of United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars).

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

ROBERT G. WOODSIDE,
County Controller.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Merger

The widow Hanneford was sprightly and optimistic. She had her health, $300 in cash and a car that was of an ancient vintage, but reliable.

Mrs. Hanneford yearned for the country.

Her late husband had owned a locksmith shop tucked away in a small wooden building between a couple of towering buildings. When Mr. Hanneford died suddenly his wife fell heir to his worldly possessions. She disposed of the locksmith shop and the meagre furnishings in the three rooms overhead for the $300. The car was "thrown in."

For 12 years Martha Hanneford had lived over that shop between the tall houses, with seldom a glint of the sun. Now she was free and she yearned for places where she could stand in the sunlight.

Martha didn't want to go back to the country village where John Hanneford met and married her and took her to the great city. She had no relatives now, and the old neighbors would gossip about her "comedown" in the world because John Hanneford had painted a glowing picture of going into business for himself in the city.

It had never been a prosperous or happy marriage but Martha didn't believe in divorces and so made the best of those 12 unhappy years.

Now she was free. She felt a little ashamed to have that feeling of relief so few months after being endowed, but she couldn't help that.

Stopped for Luncheon

Martha set forth in the old car with her other worldly possessions in the steamer trunk.

She went across the river on the ferry, followed a county highway for many miles and stopped at a roadside place for luncheon.

The coffee was vile, the rolls stale and hard, the pies were atrocious. Martha didn't enjoy her luncheon.

"I'll never go there again," she said to herself. She liked to talk to herself this day. She was thinking it over as she drove on. Other people who were stung there would never stop again. How silly those lunch people were. If they served good things it would be the other way, people would remember and flock there.

"I wouldn't serve such stuff to a dog—I could do better than that with one hand and my eyes shut—people want home cooked food out there—"

Martha slowed her car and pondered the idea that had suddenly come to her.

Here she had started out that morning with no idea of what she was to do for a living. Her one desire had been to get away from paved streets and stuffy brick walls and the incessant din of traffic. Now she knew what she wanted—some modest little roadside cottage and a lunch stand by the road. Martha wouldn't take a back seat for anyone when it came to cooking. She had been country bred and trained in the culinary arts.

It was sunset before she decided to find a place for the night. She had scanned every inch of the highway for the modest little cottage where she could erect a lunch stand, but had seen nothing. She put up at a country place that had a "Rooms" sign out. Next day she went on her way and just before noon, to use her own words, she ran "smack on to the very thing!"

The new highway had left a hundred-foot space in front of a little old cottage made of red sandstone. There was a "To Let" sign on it. She drove up to make inquiries.

Makes Inquiries

What she saw made her eager to go in. A big white house shaded by tall firs was up the slope a hundred yards. Martha drove up and peered in the windows.

Two dogs rushed out. A sharp command and the dogs stood motionless. The owner of the voice came out, a bronzed farmer of around middle age.

"My dogs aren't used to wimmen folks," he said.

Martha said, "I've never been bitten by a dog yet," and to the man's surprise the dogs went up and fawned over her. She asked about the cottage.

"Yes, it belongs to me, and it's for rent," he admitted, naming an extremely modest price.

"Will you show it to me?" Martha asked.

The man turned a deeper red and seemed quite embarrassed.

Martha went back with the key, marveling over having discovered a bashful man. Not much like the city men, she thought.

There was a big room, low, beamed, with a quaint fireplace. It had casement windows, and would make an ideal place for serving meals, as the kitchen opened from it.

The furniture was old-fashioned, but good, and one room seemed stored with cast-off furniture.

Martha went back and offered the man a month's rent. He seemed quite surprised.

"I suppose your husband will be along soon," he asked.

"No, he won't. I'm sure of that, I buried him three months ago."

"Oh!" The man hesitated and seemed more embarrassed than ever. "I don't know—your living alone there—I—people might talk—I think—"

"You've got your money and I'll promise not to ruin you, financially or morally—and I'm a good woman—if you are worrying about what sort of a place I'll make of that cottage——"

"All right, Mrs.——"

"Martha Hanneford. And give me a receipt, please."

She got the receipt. It was signed "Horace Folsom."

Martha built a fire, heated water, scrubbed and swept and sung all day long. She hadn't been so happy for years. The next day she drove away to have tables built and signs made. When she came back she was amazed. A long narrow sort of shed had been moved down to the roadside, right to the edge of the little lot that went with her cottage.

No Hot Dogs

Horace Folsom was putting up signs about fresh vegetables, honey, fruit and similar commodities.

"Do you sell hot dogs and stuff?" Martha asked him as soon as she could climb out of her car and get over.

"Oh, no—I wouldn't be bothered, Mrs. Hanneford. Er—don't you expect to get your own meals?"

When she explained about her plans he shook his head. "People don't stop here much. I'm afraid you'll lose money, Mrs. Hanneford."

"They'll stop if there's something to stop for. They buy your vegetables and things, don't they?"

"Some do. I didn't make a cent on it last year, and if I lose out this year I'll quit and truck my stuff into market."

Martha's signs were attractive. There was a big one that read THE COTTAGE. Either side of her place, a quarter mile away, she put signs REFRESHMENTS AT THE COTTAGE. She didn't believe in any of those "Ye Olde Goodie Shoppe" signs.

A few people stopped off for food. Those who came back that way stopped again. Before the end of the month Martha leased the cottage for a year.

One morning as Horace was putting out his vegetables at his place, Martha came over with a glass case on a wheelbarrow.

"Look here, Mr. Folsom," she said, "I want to put cakes and pies in here with a sign and an arrow pointing to the cottage. People who stop for vegetables will see the display and come over. And I want you to let me fix up a little display of your prettiest fruit and vegetables in my place, with a sign directing my customers to your place—we'll sort of help each other that way."

He agreed, although he wasn't very enthusiastic about it.

The scheme was profitable, each got more customers from it.

Martha decided to go over and tell him if he painted his place up and made neat cases for his fruit and put out some flowers and shrubs and made it attractive he would do better.

"You can charge fancier prices," she argued.

"I couldn't do that. I'm no hand at it," he protested.

"I'll help you," she promised.

When she got some spare time early the next morning she went across to his place. She heard voices out front. She came up the back way and they didn't see her.

"I tell you, Hod, it don't look good," someone said.

Martha thought he meant the vegetable stand, and was mentally agreeing with him. She changed her mind when she heard more.

"Gossiping fools," Horace growled.

No Need to Move

"Might just as well have taken that pretty widder woman into your home as to have her in th' cottage—that's what they are saying—"

"Look here, Joe Wheelock, I'm a God-fearin' man, but I'll bust you in the nose and anybody else who says a word about her. She's the first woman who didn't scare me, she minds her own business and I like her and she's a good woman. More'n that, you tell Deacon Gilson that I'll beat him up if he don't quit spreading such talk."

"Now Hod, be calm. Gilson sent me here to tell you to git rid of that widder or he'd have you put out of church."

Horace spoke luridly for a moment and the visitor departed. Martha promptly went to him.

"I heard that, Mr. Folsom, and I esteem you so much that I guess I'll have to move away," she said.

"No need of it—won't listen to it, Mrs. Hanneford—the way your place has helped my own sales is wonderful—need you here. Don't give a dam' what folks say about me, won't have them talking about you."

"Well, that's lovely. I'll tell you my idea—a merger, Mr. Folsom?"

"A—a what?"

"A merger. It would be better for both of us."

"You mean you'd marry me?"

Martha Hanneford stared thoughtfully at Horace Folsom for a moment.

"Yes, Horace, in a minute I'd marry you," she said, "but what I meant was for you to put your vegetable stand alongside my cottage, fix up the grounds and the parking place and then it would make more money."

"Oh—Oh good lordy, that kind of a merger—and I thought you meant that we get married!"

"Well, Horace, that was what I hoped it would lead to."

"We'll go down to the minister's first, Martha, and fix up our personal merger, then we'll merge our business affairs," Horace said, "and—"

"And what?"

"I—I sort of ought to kiss you."

"If you want to, Horace."

"Gosh!" said Horace, and he sort of did.

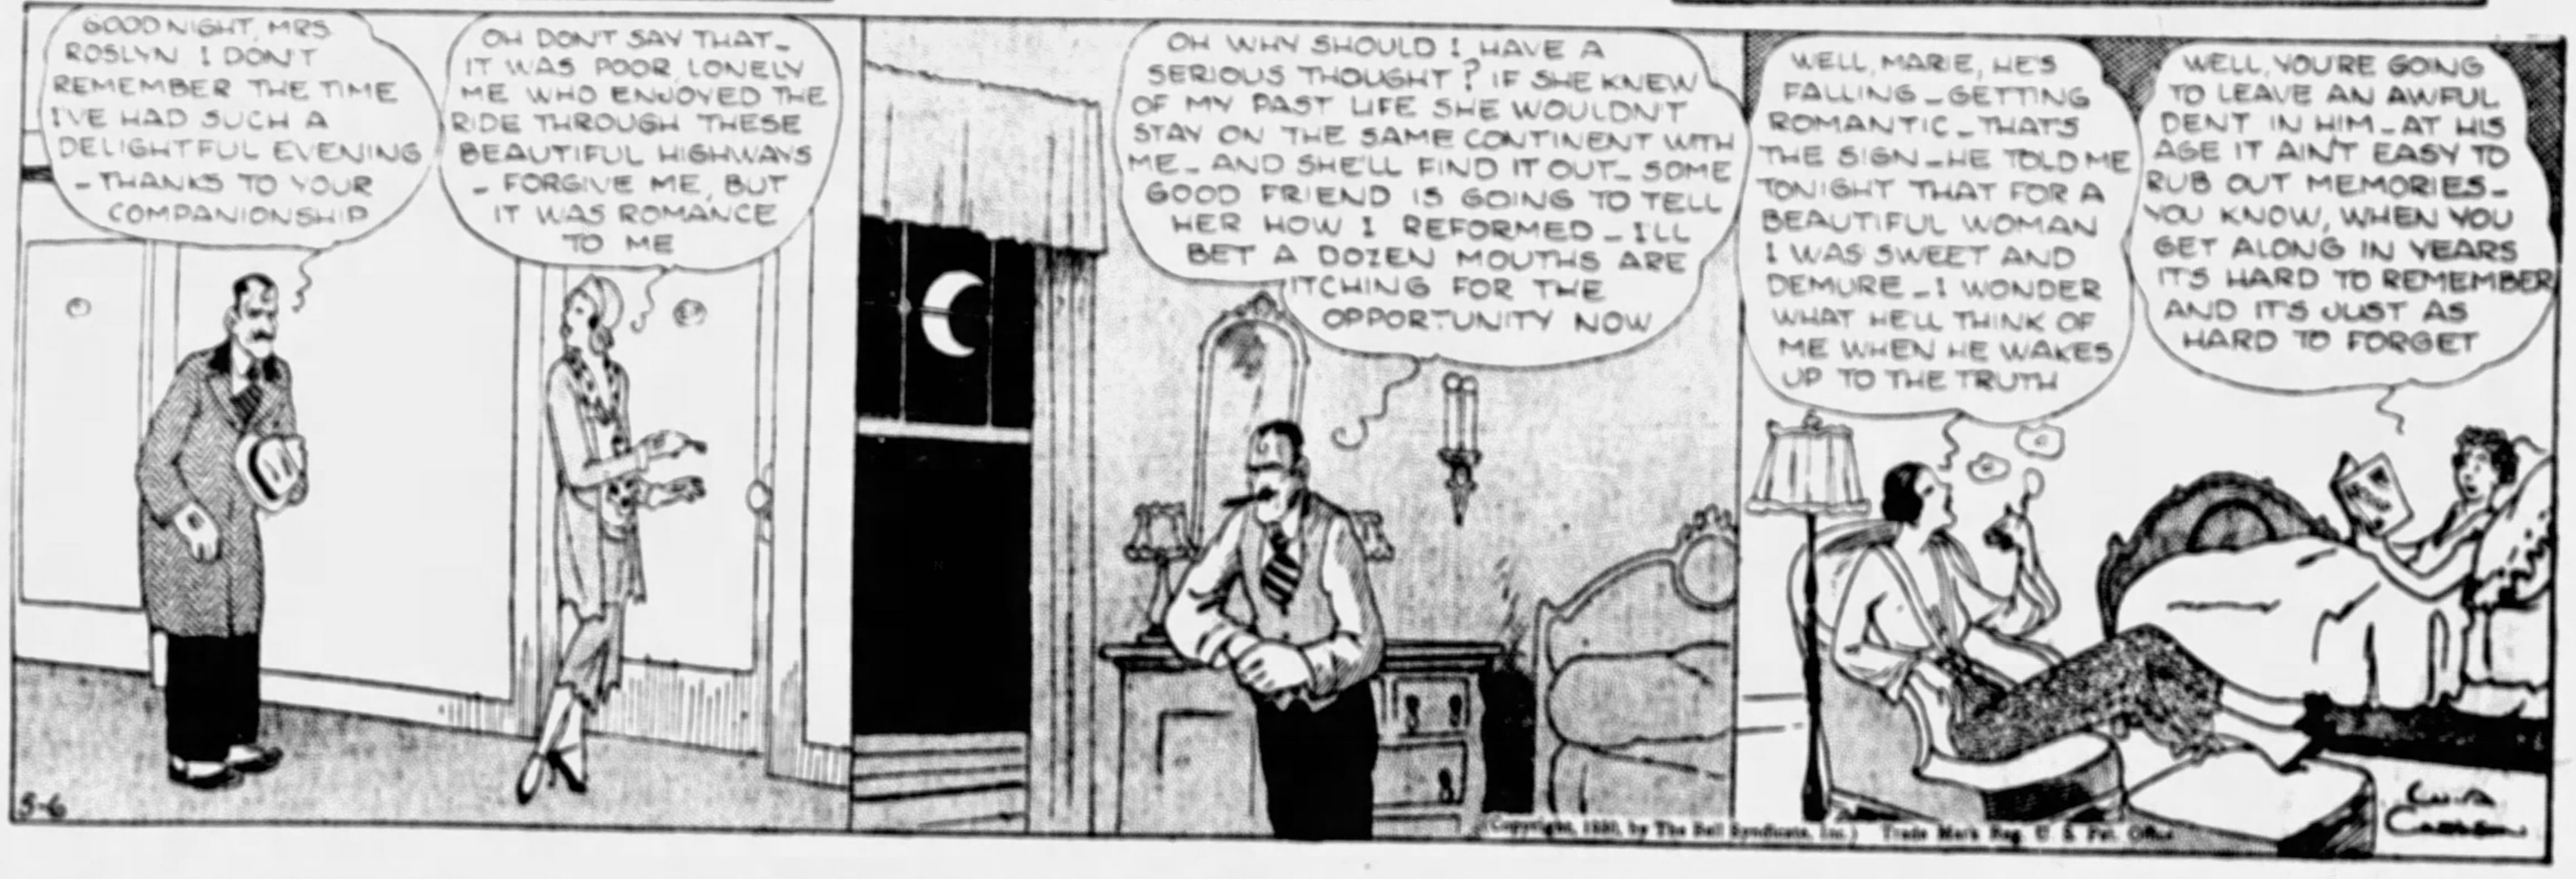
Shades of the Past



GOOD NIGHT, MRS. ROSLYN. I DON'T REMEMBER THE TIME I'VE HAD SUCH A DELIGHTFUL EVENING - THANKS TO YOUR COMPANIONSHIP
OH DON'T SAY THAT - IT WAS POOR LONELY ME WHO ENJOYED THE RIDE THROUGH THESE BEAUTIFUL HIGHWAYS - FORGIVE ME, BUT IT WAS ROMANCE TO ME
OH WHY SHOULD I HAVE A SERIOUS THOUGHT? IF SHE KNEW OF MY PAST LIFE SHE WOULDN'T STAY ON THE SAME CONTINENT WITH ME - AND SHE'LL FIND IT OUT - SOME GOOD FRIEND IS GOING TO TELL HER HOW I REFORMED - I'LL BET A DOZEN MOUTHS ARE ITCHING FOR THE OPPORTUNITY NOW
WELL, MARIE, HE'S FALLING - GETTING ROMANTIC - THAT'S THE SIGN - HE TOLD ME TONIGHT THAT FOR A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN I WAS SWEET AND DEMURE - I WONDER WHAT HE'LL THINK OF ME WHEN HE WAKES UP TO THE TRUTH
WELL, YOU'RE GOING TO LEAVE AN AWFUL DENT IN HIM - AT HIS AGE IT AIN'T EASY TO RUB OUT MEMORIES - YOU KNOW, WHEN YOU GET ALONG IN YEARS IT'S HARD TO REMEMBER AND IT'S JUST AS HARD TO FORGET

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER

TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1930

Hoover Acted Wisely, As Hearst Papers Advised

The President's address on returning prosperity is good and it is true.

Moreover, what the President did in order to overcome the depression was good. He deserves all the credit he gives himself for this action, and all the credit the Hearst papers give him and all the credit the public gives him.

It is the first instance in history when a people refused to take a crisis "lying down."

President Hoover organized the business forces to check the remorseless wheel of the business cycle, and they have checked it. The country is on the road back to its normal prosperity.

It is also fair for the Hearst papers to remind the President that before he took action, they suggested to him the business conference he called to salvage the nation from shipwreck.

On November 15th all Hearst papers published an editorial signed by William Randolph Hearst and addressed to the President of the United States. It read in part as follows:

> "Honored Sir:
> "The present unwarranted depression in the value of sterling securities is due partly to the vicious manipulation of bear interests and partly to the alarm of the public at the sudden and unjustifiable collapse in values.
> "Such panics, as President Wilson said, are largely a matter of psychology.
> "Lack of confidence is contagious; but on the other hand, so is confidence contagious.
> "The people expect as much from you, Mr. President, an active and experienced business man, as they would have expected from your strenuous predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt, under similar circumstances.
> "Surely your administration could assemble the banking and financial leaders of the nation and insist that they co-operate with the government.
> "Undoubtedly President Roosevelt would have taken some such rigorous action and Wall street leaders would have known he was in earnest and would not have hesitated to co-operate with his administration to the utmost."

That was published in the Hearst papers of November 15. On November 16, the following day, the President announced a preliminary conference of representatives of industry, agriculture and labor to meet with government department heads. This was followed by further conferences and the eventual mobilization of business to overcome depression, with the happy results related by the President on Thursday night.

All that the President now needs to do is to flourish Mr. Roosevelt's "big stick" a bit to prevent the international bankers from manipulating the stock market in the interest of their forthcoming foreign loans.

The Hearst papers do not mention their recommendations to the President themselves. They merely transmitted to Mr. Hoover, through their columns, what was being said among the 30,000,000 readers of these papers. Mr. Hoover did the rest.

The Hearst papers simply recall these facts to remind Mr. Hoover that the advice of the Hearst papers is good, because it expresses the popular will.

Their advice is based on information gleaned from all parts of the country by an institution which believes in government by the people, and which believes in the ability of the people to decide public questions wisely and well.

We recall this advice because of the success which has attended its application and in the hope that Mr. Hoover will take some further advice about the League Court and other matters in which the Hearst papers have advised him, both for his own good and for the good of the country.

There is no reason why Mr. Hoover should have only this one popular act to his credit. He could have many if he would have more faith in the people's wisdom and more democratic respect for the people's will.

Strangely Dumb

There Was a Reason.

Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis' correspondent in London complained that American newspapermen could get no news from the American delegates to that Naval Conference and had to go to representatives of foreign powers in order to get information for the American people.

That is a novelty, public officials being usually inclined to talk about themselves until reporters are tired of listening.

Perhaps in this case the gentlemen sent from Washington to London were not sufficiently proud of what they had accomplished, or of what they had failed to accomplish. You remember the gambling gentleman who was told he cheated, and replied, "I know it, but I don't like to be told about it."

Something New in Storms

Very Disconcerting.

Of interest to Mr. Ripley—if he hasn't heard—is a new kind of storm reported by aviators over the Mediterranean.

It is described as an area 400 yards long and 100 wide of thick, dense rain.

The strange thing about it is that the rain, instead of coming down, goes UP.

Scientists say it is a second cousin to the waterspout. Its technical name is a "willy nilly."

Fliers who have been through it, however, call it something else.

Correct—you guessed it.

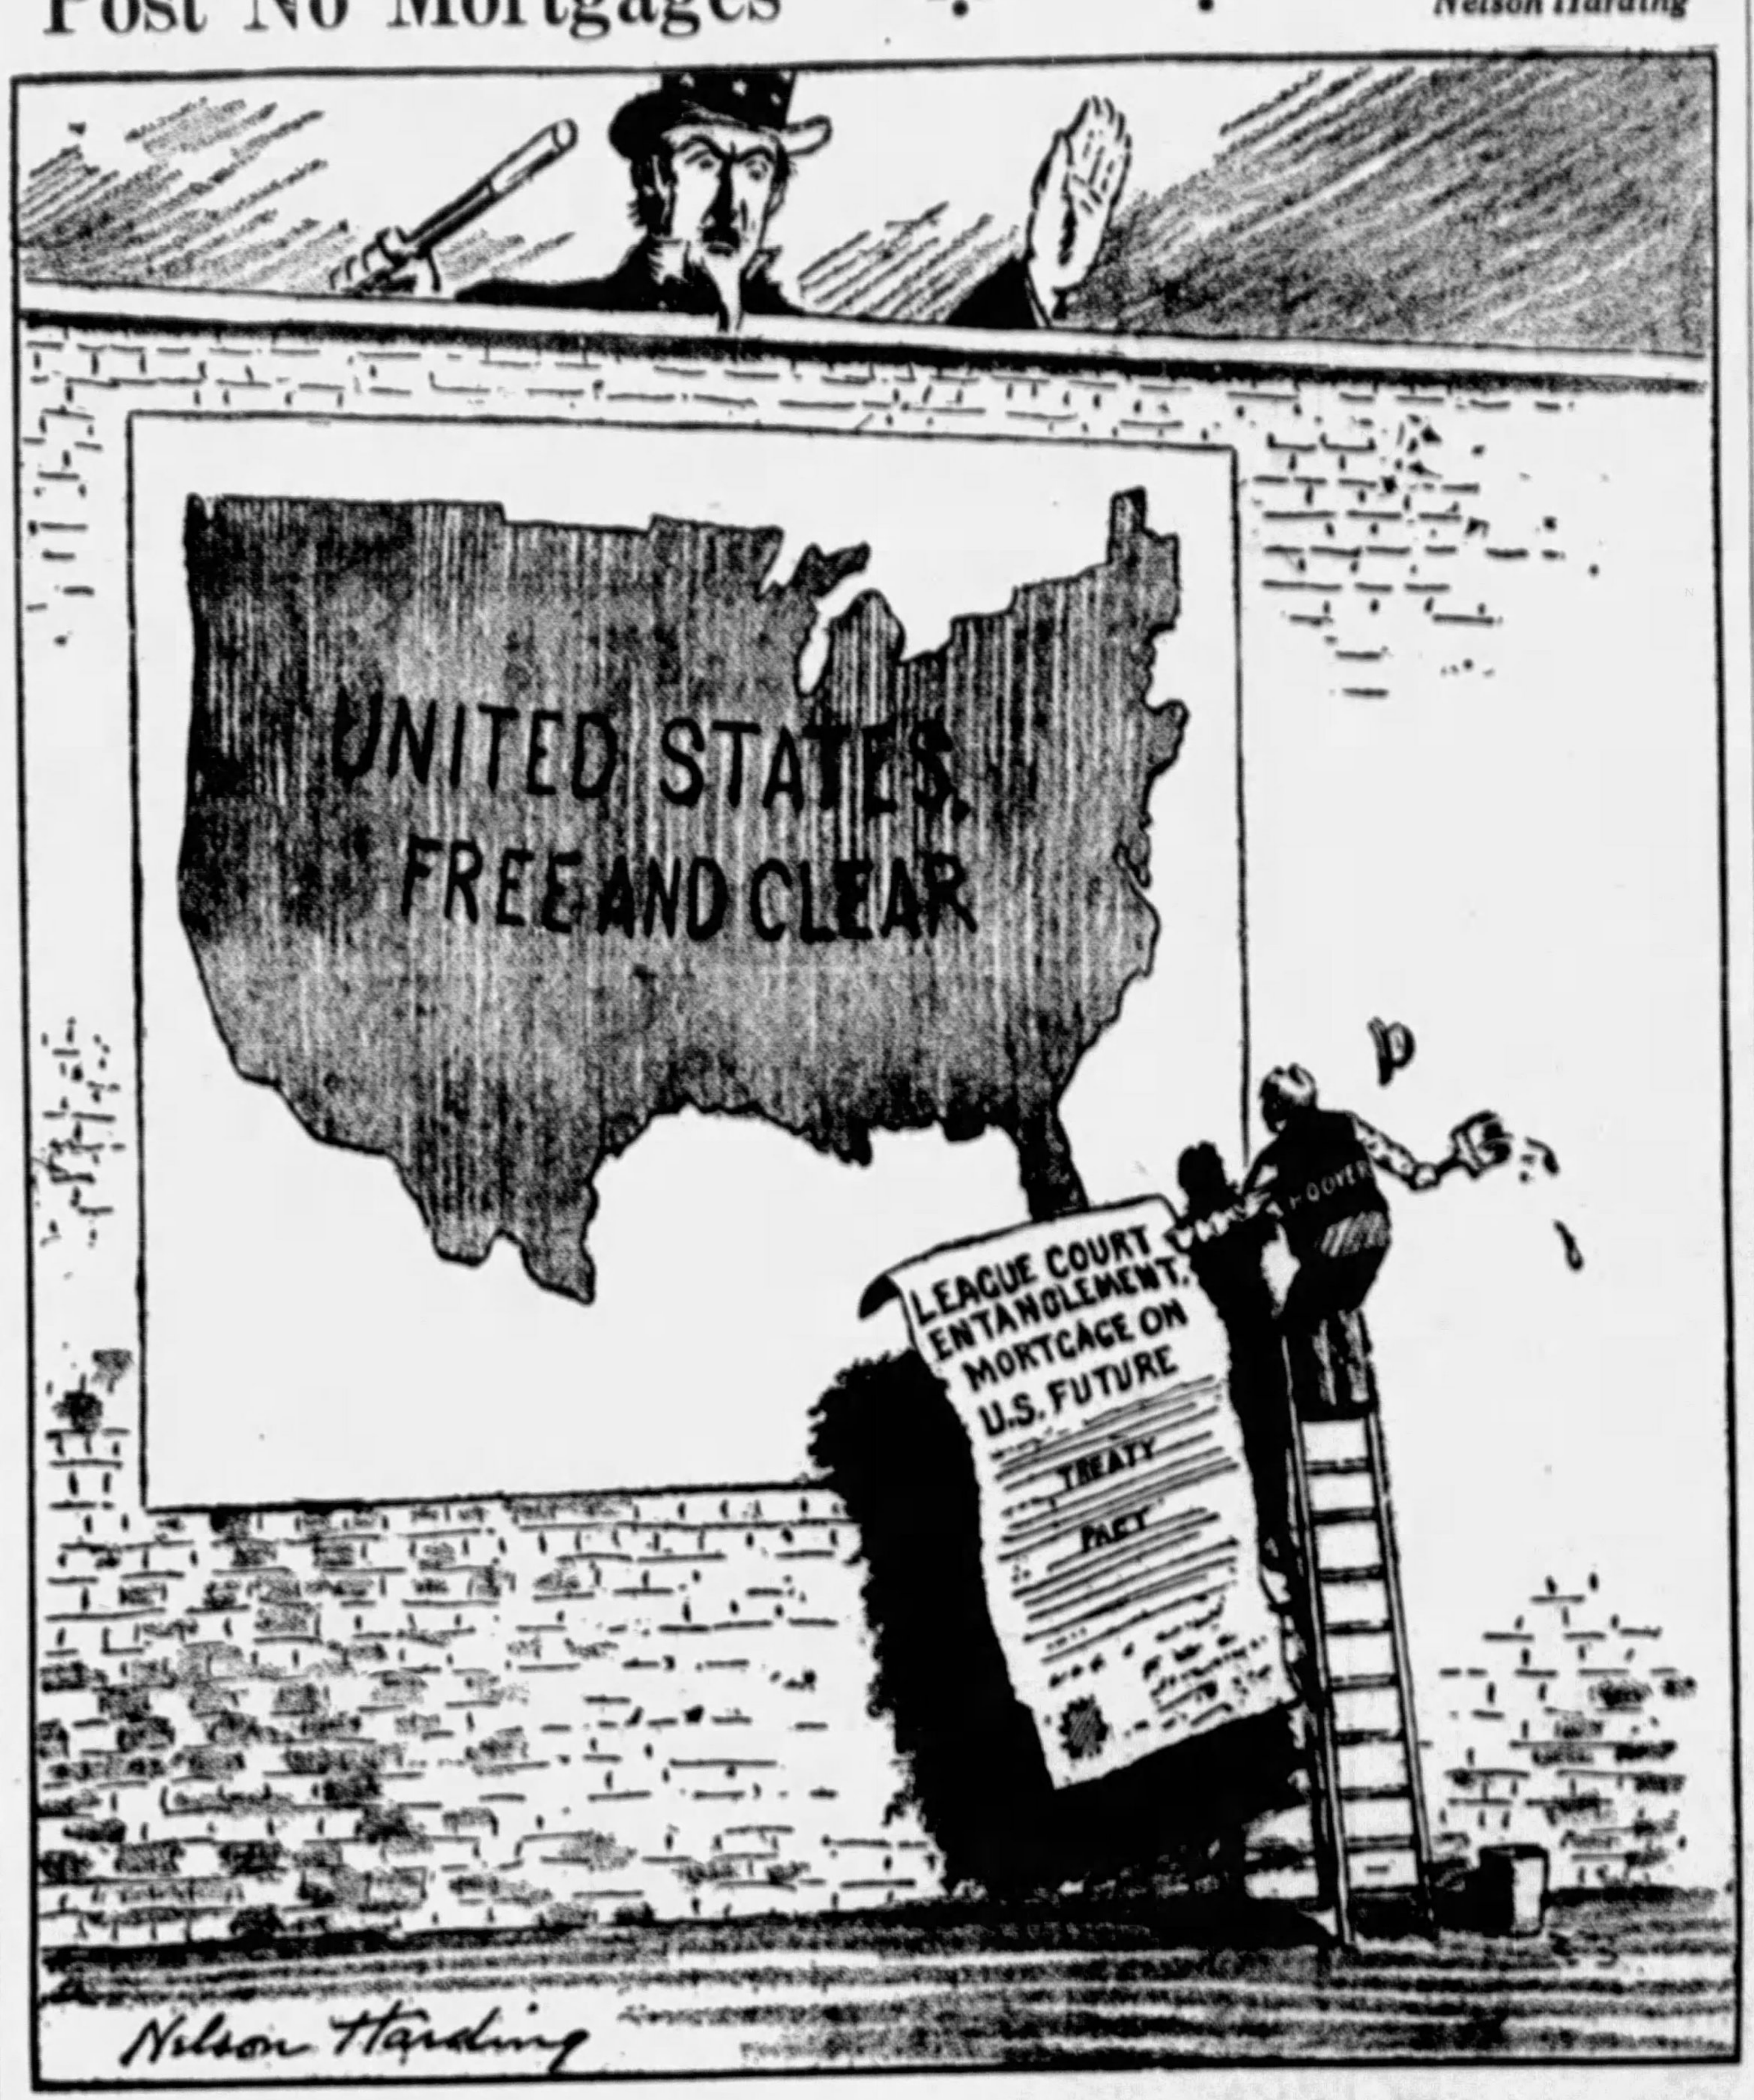
SUN TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Community Fund for charities.
6—Town Hall, seating at least 15,000.
7—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
8—Development of river transportation.
9—Development of air transportation.

Post No Mortgages

Drawn by Nelson Harding



Just as the mortgage is prepared
A well known figure, strong and tall,
Arises in alarm and wrath
To guard that map upon the wall,

The voice that in objection speaks
Is loud enough for all to hear
And say that these United States
Are now, and shall be, free and clear.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Soul of a Blotter

Psychologists are all frothed up over President Hoover's scribbling on his desk pad.

"Bugs" Baer

These diplomatic hieroglyphics are merely the usual dibdabs and jiggers that any man would make when listening to a psychologist or any other unwelcome visitor.

One of Mr. Hoover's favorite designs is a cobweb. Here is the way the experts analyze it:

The cobweb—Its round markings, ornamented with triangles, indicate a mechanical turn of mind, a mind which would conceive bridges or turbines. The top part of the cobweb shows that he would rather be remembered in history than patted on the back now. He is ruthless in forging ahead with his plans.

It either indicates that or possibly that Mr. Hoover aspires to be an Army carpenter.

The real analysis of the cobweb on the pad is that the visitor looks like a spider and Mr. Hoover feels like a fly.

Another of President Hoover's dabs in elementary psychology is the comet, which is diagnosed:

The comet—The round sweeps of the comet, which terminate in triangular marks, indicates that this man is a good starter but often leaves things for some one else to finish.

As a matter of referendum and recall, the President is hoping that his visitor gets smacked on the nose by a comet.

The tablecloths of many hotels are famous for their lightly engraved pencilings of famous financiers. The usual design is the dollar mark with its business end slanting toward the party of the first part. Once in a while, you see the stains of soup or pie. It's an old Spanish custard.

While dining with the late Dion O'Bannion in Chicago we noticed him scribbling some abstract psychology on his napkin. We glanced over his shoulder to criticise his technique. Mr. O'Bannion's art consisted of a lily with its petals akimbo. We strolled out leisurely and came back the next day for our hat and topcoat.

All great men have the vacant habit of scribbling on everything but the dinner check.

COMPLEXITY OF SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

A familiar quotation, with countless applications, is: "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." We may, for the purposes of argument and comparison, rephrase this saying as follows: "Unscientific people proceed rashly on their way, while scientists tread softly for fear of disastrous consequences."

The more you know, the more dangerous everything appears to be. A little piece of radium will burn away the tissues of the human body, and quickly destroy life.

A small stick of dynamite will blow up a house.

A small mass of TNT will wreck a huge battleship.

Consider a simple problem, such as that of examining the structure of the top of the table on which I am writing. To the average person, the table top is solid, substantial. It is not transparent; you cannot see through it or poke things through it, because it appears to be of hard and uniform constituency.

The scientist regards it in quite a different manner. He knows that the table top, instead of being solid, is actually for the most part empty. Darting about within the table top are countless electric charges; and they are moving almost unimpeded at enormously high speeds. But their bulk is almost unbelievably slight. Indeed, it is estimated that their bulk is less than a billionth of the bulk of the table top itself.

As I press my pen upon the paper, why does the paper not sink down through the emptiness of the table top? Physics answers, because it is being bombarded on the underside by a mass of molecules. These little electric charges, constantly hitting the paper, maintain it in shuttlecock fashion at a nearly steady level.

In studying this "scientific" table top, as Eddington calls it, we must realize that it is not substantial. It is pervaded by what Clark Maxwell called "fields of force." These are influences at work within the table top, whether it be made of wood, marble or iron.

In similar fashion, suppose two men—one unscientific, the other scientific—enter a room together. The former does not hesitate; he is not afraid to step upon the hardwood floor. The latter knows that he is stepping upon a platform traveling at the rate of 20 miles a second around the sun. When he makes his step into the room, he himself is hanging outward into space from a planet making a complete revolution every 24 hours. A wind of ether is blowing through every interstice of his body. He realizes that he is performing a hazardous act when he takes a step forward.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

Hardest job on earth—getting on with our own folks. Queer—we can hit it off fine with strangers. No trouble at all being pleasant and tactful with people we hardly know, and patient with their blunders. But just let one of the family try to pull something like that and—!!!ZZZ*???¼¼ ⅔½!!!

Yet we're fond of our folks. We honestly want to be happy with them. But—you know how it is. Just one row after another! And even if it doesn't break into sound, the fight's always going on inside—one spirit yanking at the other, demanding agreement, demanding understanding, demanding obedience—

Why? Why do we traffic so easily with outsiders yet tangle so terribly with at-homers? Because we're willing to let outsiders be themselves but we want to make our own kin over.

A stranger's his own boss and has his own notions. We may not admire those notions. We may consider him a very odd and limited person. But we don't quarrel with these facts. We accept him As Is. And he accepts us in the same spirit. As a result, we do not sit in judgment on each other—nor bear grudges, nor expect impossible co-operation.

But when it comes to the family—that's different! Are we willing to take them or will they accept us? Try and do it! All the regular ringside rules for Human Behavior are discarded when we enter the Family Circle. Because we share the same blood, we expect perfect understandings, consideration and co-operation from our relatives. We also feel that we have unlimited right to meddle in their affairs and give advice and criticism. If they resent this meddling, we feel affronted. If they fail to show understanding, we are aggrieved. And if they insist on living their own lives in their own way, we regard them as unnatural monsters.

As a matter of fact, there's no particular reason why relatives should understand each other. You may have a name in common but that's no guarantee that you have an interest in common. All men are "spirits clad in veils"—and blood kin are no exception. Your relations are actually detached from you as the stranger on the street and should be treated with as much consideration. You've no more right to meddle with a brother's or sister's mail than you have to meddle with President Hoover's. Nor have you any more right to demand perfect understanding from a mother or father than from George V.

After all, a family is only a collection of catch-as-catch-can individuals. Each one is separated from you by a thousand differences in mind and body. Love them if you can. Work with them, if it's possible. But don't feel outraged or cheated if you can't or it isn't. Use the same philosophy with blood kin which you would use with any stranger—take 'em or leave 'em! Live and let live!

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A teacher was trying to give the kids some idea about how population spreads out and makes people go out and discover new land to live on. "Why," she says, "it's remarkable how population increases in a few years. Now you take a single one of the people that landed at Jamestown. He might have thousands of descendants by this time."

"Well, then," says one of the kids, "I reckon a married one might have even millions, mightn't he?"

Secret Rooms

Every self has secret rooms,
Sometimes sordid, sometimes fair,
And the inmost being waits
Hidden there.

Thoughts no friend can ever glimpse,
Hopes to no fond love betrayed
Wait their hour with patient trust,
Unafraid.

It is well to go sometimes
Through these chambers no one knows,
Seeking what the inmates there
May disclose.

Well to meet them face to face,
Well to call them all by name,
And at leisure to review
Dream and aim.

Only thus will be revealed
Quest and motive, hope and plan
That inhabit secret rooms
In the soul of every man.

THE SCIENCE OF L

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. W

Man's brain and brain-case are proportio er; but, as Elliot Smith has shown us, this increase he enlargement of parts of the brain already presen — the parts concerned primarily with the faculty on —and no brain organs are to be found in man not also to be found in apes.

The dog-teeth of us men are smaller, and so are our big toes, but our thumbs are larger. We have adopted a fully upright position, and our whole anatomy shows minor changes as a result.

H. G. Wells

Our legs are straighter than apes'; our spinal cord is bent in a different way; our pelvis, besides still affording attachment to dozens of muscles, has been turned into a flat basin which supports the internal organs of our abdomen; a new development of the gluteal muscles is needed to hold us upright, with the result that our "lower back" portrudes in a way unknown among animal buttocks; our head is poised on a straight pillar of a neck instead of protruding forward.

Our jaws and the bony ridges over our eyes are smaller, our noses and chins larger.

Apart from brain size, the reduced amount and length of hair on the human body and the less hand-like construction of the human foot are perhaps the most obvious differences between man and ape, but even they are only differences in proportions and amounts, no whole structures being gained or lost or transformed into something radically new.

Even when we come to behavior and the mind at the back of behavior the chimpanzee is for more like a man than like a frog.

To begin with, the actual raw material of an ape's experience, the data provided by its senses, differ from a frog's but resemble our own in many points.

The frog lives in a world of black and white; apes, like us, in one enriched with color. The apes, like us, have a "yellow spot" in their eyes, making them capable of exceptionally accurate vision; the power of discrimination in a frog's eye is much poorer and at- tention to any bu ects.

The frog can its miserable little b ring organ compares with an ape's long col

The range of our ears permit us the delicacy with w dis- criminate betwe ones are almost iden elves and in apes; but the sound-world to which the frog has access is limited and crude in comparison.

In one respect, however, the frog has the advantage over us and over the apes. Its whole skin possesses organs of chemical sense, which in us are confined to the moist coverings of nose, eye, mouth and other mucous membranes.

Thus it is able, albeit it would seem in a very crude way, to smell and taste or at least to be stimulated by various chemicals, all over its body. Finally, what emotions a frog possesses appear to be few in number and low in intensity—wholly unlike the extremely human passions of apes.

But if the very bricks out of which it builds its mental life are different from ours, its ab build with them is no less ent.

The frog has powers of l and association, but so feel we find it difficult to rea extent of a frog's inab profit by experience. Alm whole of its actions are predetermined for it fr start by the inherited c tion its nervous system

The ape, like ourselves, due share of reflexes, complement of inborn with their accompanyin tions; but like ourselve not only learn, but learn Though its actions, like always built on foundatio flexes and instincts, yet majority of them are w are because of the anim vidual experience.

In a frog's life, learni perience plays an ins part; it plays a prepond in a chimpanzee's.

NEW YORK DAY BY D

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 6.—During a wakeful hour I jotted down a number of ideas that seemed at the fectly dandy to clutter up much of this space toda moth must have eaten them or the maid threw the I cannot find them anywhere.

It is a happy conceit of columnists when they can think of nothing else to write about to write about themselves. Modest whatnots, the columnists! I have already made several starts in self glorification, but jerked the sheets out of the typewriter and sat staring.

Then it occurred to me to write about the business of columning and reactions of the columnist. It is not a particularly hot idea, but here it is 10 p. m. and something must be done. Often the best columns are turned out by writers who are in a frenzy for material.

A column that brought me as many letters as any other was dashed off in a moment of desperation. I had just disembarked from a long ocean voyage and discovered that one day of the weekly—and O, how weak!—series had been misplaced in packing. I had not slept in four nights. Was I sea sick?

The missing day had to be supplied in a half hour to be dispatched by messenger to a syndicate office. Fatigue was so great I nodded all through the effort. Yet when I saw it in print there was a purr of pride, and even now—six years later—there is an occasional letter about it.

This effort I already realize will have none of that spark of the subconscious. Indeed, right now I would like nothing better than to yank this out of the machine and call it a day. But there are mouths to feed, income taxes to pay, etc., so, like Pagliacci, I must carry on.

The wonder is—a few bars of "Hearts and Flowers," pianissimo professor—that we columnists do not have more vacuous days like this. In any other calling, a fellow in almost any emergency can put it off until tomorrow and bulwark himself with a night of refreshing sleep.

But the sappy columnist, O, the pity of it, must carry on. And that cock-eyed telephone ringing madly doesn't help either. Some day I'll write a nasty piece about the telephone and then where will it be? A great blessing becomes a supreme curse, tum-de-tum-ti-tiddle.

Did you ever stop to think what a grind columning is? A cookie you never even gave it a teeny-weeny thought. Every day the columnist is supposed to be merry and bright. With a single sweep he must try to strike the varying chords of emotion. If he doesn't a thousand and one so-and-so's will call him a bum. If he happens to hit the bull's eye he hears no applause. There are no posies tossed over the footlights or salvo of "Bravos!" Come to think of it, maybe he is a bum. But he does try so hard. Ask anybody.

Well, here I am more than half way through the ordeal. If I had the ordinary job it would be 3 o'clock in the afternoon. In two hours and a half, a bell would ring and I would be off to the locker for my pearl gray hat and a swing across town to catch the 5:45 for Suburbia. As it is it is near midnight. Broadway is filling with merrymakers and here I sit. Does it give you a rough idea of what you have to put up with in this racket?

* * *

Even if I get through at 2 a. m., there is no place a simple homebody can go at that untimely hour. All I can do is walk with my dog along desolated streets, pass the usual banality with the neighborhood cop and be scared stiff that a bogey man will pop out of a dark place to chase me back to my hotel.

* * *

A sad-eyed gentleman who resembles Walter Catlett, sells the Matrimonial News along Broadway. He tells me that most of his customers are city dwellers and oddly enough, are happily married. "They enjoy a little imaginative romance," he explains.

One more paragraph is needed and the good gray master will think it up for you right out of his own head. It may not be much of a paragraph but I have a feeling you will all understand. I could fill it in with dots like these . . . . But no such perfidy will be found if I can hold out. Fan hard, Judkins. No matter the cost I will be true to my public. So with a heavy heart I struggle gasping to the very end which fortunately enough is right here.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Does the coming of a guest disrupt the routine of your home?

If every member of the family is employed elsewhere or engaged in an occupation irrelevant to home there may be some excuse.

But for a home maker to say a thing of the sort is a reflec good management.

Illness might be—usually is—a good excuse for not having in such shape that a chance guest is not welcome.

But other things being equal a well regulated household maintain a routine that cannot be disrupted.

It should be possible to tuck a guest in somewhere.

There should be enough to divide with the hungry visitor.

The house should be run in an orderly manner so that the not be an upheaval at the arrival of unexpected company.

The things not used every day should be in order and av

When the guests have departed the order should be restored.

Don't delay in getting the seldom used things back in pla in perfect order, so that more time can be given to enjoyn visitors.

It takes head work to make a successful hostess.
